House Begins Voting Today On Defense Strike Bills

Smith's Drastic Measure 1st of 6 Up; Moderate Ramspeck's Given Slight Edge

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

Split a half-dozen ways on as many proposals for controlling defense strikes, the House last night closed debate on a confusing spread of defense labor legislation and today will start writing its own bill.

Favored as a middle course between extremes as the House rounded out its second day of debate was the leadership-supported Ramspeck bill, providing 60 days of "compulsory" mediation and Government operation of plants if settlement fails.

Plant-seizure provisions of that measure were threatened by a protesting Republican-Democratic coalition. No polls have been taken but there was strong possibility that only mediation provisions of the Ramspeck bill, plus some addition from other measures, would pass.

Smith Offers Substitute

Two new bills reached the floor, bringing the net total to six, and Representative Smith (Democrat), of Virginia, offered a substitute for his own comprehensive measure.

Speeches that ran the gamut of demands for legislation with "teeth" to objections to any action began at 11 a. m. and ran past the dinner hour to 7:13 p. m.

Called back into session at 11 this morning, members will start voting on the far-reaching Smith bill, revised yesterday to include not only the long list of strike curbs in the original but "cooling off" and plant-seizure provisions of Ramspeck's Labor Committee bill.

Shy From Drastic Bill

With the railroad labor dispute settled, Republicans and Democratic moderates appeared shying away from the more drastic features of the Smith bill despite the Virginian's warning that the closed shop issue (his bill freezes closed and open shops as they are) is the fundamental cause of defense strikes.

Smith insisted Ramspeck's bill would not halt any of the great strikes, and urged members to accept his own provisions for a secret strike ballot of workers, registration and accounting by labor unions, and bans on mass picketing, violence, jurisdictional and sympathetic strikes.

Chiding members for inaction in the past, he said: "What are you going to do about it, if anything? There is no use shadow-boxing any longer; you're up to the hurdle; are you going to jump or refuse?"

Of the new bills advanced, Representative Landis (Republican), of Indiana, obtained the Labor Committee's approval of his plan to deny Wagner Act benefits to any unions

Congress May Quit Sine Die Dec. 20 For 2-Week Rest

A sine die adjournment of Congress a few days before Christmas to give members a fortnight's holiday between the close of this session and the start of the next was discussed at the Capitol last night.

Although no agreement has been reached, House and Senate leaders have been considering the possibility of adjourning Congress around December 20 and calling back the new session two days after the regular meeting date January 3, it was learned.

All plans for even a brief adjournment may be discarded if the Far Eastern situation takes a serious turn for the worse, it was said.

Plans Weighed to Steer Girls From Questionable D. C. Houses

By Christine Sadler
Post Staff Writer

In an effort to guide girls coming to Washington for new Government jobs away from questionable rooming houses, committees to meet trains and buses are being considered by District defense and housing agencies.

Hugo Wolter, director of the Consumer and Welfare Committee of the District Defense Council, yesterday called attention to the bad character of some of the houses encountered.

Experiences of girls who have run into harrowing situations when they endeavored to find rooms without aid, are being reported with increasing frequency to the Women's Bureau of the Police Department.

Unfortunate incidents occur sometimes in "very nice neighborhoods," declared Rhoda Milliken, head of the Women's Bureau, pointing to lack of police regulation of rooming houses as one of the causes.

"We are having several calls from personnel officers in the Government who register complaints against irresponsible management," she said.

Among agencies "determined to do something for these girls is the American Women's Voluntary Services, which is combing the town for a big house that can be turned into a recreation center with A. W. V. S. volunteers in charge.

"We have recognized the need for many months and are searching in earnest," Anita Phipps, A. W. V. S. chairman, declared. "We want to get a house large enough to serve between 800 and 1000 girls —and we cannot pay for it, either by purchasing or renting. Someone must let us have it."

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Mrs. Welles, convinced the need is a serious one, offered A. W. V. S. the stables of their home on Massachusetts Avenue.

"It was too small," Miss Phipps said. "We could accommodate only around 200 girls there, but we are fixing up the stables and will use them as classrooms in which to hold our training classes."

When the large home is found, the A. W. V. S. must have funds with which to furnish it as a clubhouse. This difficulty is not bothering Miss Phipps, however. "You can always raise money for a specific purpose," she declared. "When we have the house, that will come easily."

In the clubhouse, it is hoped, "emergency rooms" for several girls

Prelate Fears Hitler-Stalin Reconciliation

Such a Get-Together Wouldn't 'Surprise' Archbishop Curley

By the United Press

Baltimore, Dec. 2.—Archbishop Michael J. Curley, primate of the Catholic dioceses of Baltimore and Washington, today warned the American people that Adolf Hitler and Joseph Stalin may turn about, reconcile their differences and again attack the democracies.

Branding Stalin a "red-handed murderer," Curley said in an interview that he would not "be surprised to see Stalin and Hitler get together again, in spite of what their nations, Germany and Russia, have done to one another during the past 23 weeks."

"From One Side to Another"

He said that today the people of the United States are "fighting side by side with Stalin, the greatest murderer of men the world has ever known. We are doing this because he is fighting Hitler.

However, he pointed out there were times when Stalin was not fighting Hitler but for Hitler and in those days the American people shouted for "peace and democracy."

"These Americans flopped from one side to another according to the changes as dictated by the Browder boys.

Doublecrosser Before

"Our American Reds and pinks and fellow travelers appear now before the public as intensely interested in the welfare of America," the archbishop said.

He said that Stalin doublecrossed England and France by entering into a pact with Hitler and wrecked Finland, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania and other nations with Hitler's approval.

"When the proper time came in the judgment of Hitler he turned on Stalin and is now doing his best to wipe Stalin off the white map of Russia. The cry of peace no longer rings in the air from our own peace organizations. Even Mrs. Roosevelt's American Youth Congress is crying out today for war, war, war."

D. C. Defense Housing Fund Speed Is Asked

Palmer Tells Need Of 15 Millions From Lanham Act Money

An urgent request that 15 million dollars of the 300-million-dollar additional appropriation sought for defense housing under the Lanham Act be earmarked for construction in the District of Columbia, and that the whole housing program be speeded, was made yesterday by Charles F. Palmer, Defense Housing Coordinator for the Office of Emergency Management.

In a letter to Representative Fritz Lanham, chairman of the House Public Building and Grounds Committee, Palmer declared the long-awaited plan to provide sufficient homes for District defense workers is ready, its release awaiting only an authorization that would permit Government workers to be housed in Lanham Act projects.

Lanham Plea Falls

Without Federal aid, he said, the housing problem of the District cannot be solved for "those defense workers whose earnings range from about $900 to $1900 a year." Within this range fall the salaries of thousands of Government girls, provisions for the housing of whom are contained in the Palmer plan.

The housing coordinator's appeal for speedy Congressional action "to prevent the impairment of defense production through lack of shelter for workers" is expected to insure consideration of the measure before Christmas, although the initial action of Representative Lanham to get action failed in the House Monday.

Billeting Forecast

In addition to asking the amendment which would permit the District to share in the Lanham Act provisions, Palmer asked that the act be amended to permit rents that workers can pay rather than those "based on the value of the dwellings."

Also, he urged, dwellings built under the Lanham Act should never be placed in competition with private building, but should be used after the emergency is over to house "that low income group

Hankin Is Cool to Proposal PUC Make Subway Survey

Gregory Hankin, PUC chairman, late yesterday turned a rather cold shoulder to proposals by Representative Thomas D'Alesandro (Democrat), of Maryland, that the PUC undertake a survey as to the feasibility of a subway system in Washington.

Hankin, in response to a letter from D'Alesandro that the PUC take over all surveys and studies for the subway, said he did not think the D'Alesandro bill in its present form would "produce results he wished to secure." He said the proposed resolution by D'Alesandro placed upon the PUC the entire burden of a subway survey.

"In view of the fact," he said, "that the proposed investigation and survey to determine the feasibility of construction of a subway in the District for both streetcars and vehicular traffic, would require the cooperation of other branches of the District government and of the Park and Planning Commission, I think the investigation should be undertaken by the P. U. C. in conjunction with the Commissioners and the Park and Planning Commission."

Hankin also said that a report on the proposed survey should be made by February 15. He said he felt that time is too short for such an undertaking and told D'Alesandro he would prefer to discuss the matter with him personally before acting one way or the other.

Hankin estimated that the survey would require, with adequate engineering studies, at least a year to complete. He said he had been advised that such a survey would cost $75,000, and no authorization for it was provided in the D'Alesandro bill.

Turn for the Worse

By Daniel T. Brigham

Bern, Switzerland (Wednesday), Dec. 3.—The latest news received from Moscow indicated early today that the Russian forces on the southern front were continuing their pressure against the fleeing German forces west of Taganrog but also admitted that the Germans had made "considerable progress as the result of overwhelming pressure" against Moscow, itself.

Scant information from Moscow leads to the conclusion that the situation in the capital has suddenly taken a turn for the worse and has become very serious.

At an early hour this morning no midnight communique had been received. The latest information, however, tended to show that Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian—the great tactician in tank warfare—continued receiving punishment from Gen. Ivan Kone on the Tula sector.

On the northern front around Klin and Kalinin, however, according to the latest information, the Germans have suddenly thrown terrific reserves into the central battle, making the position of Klin "almost untenable," according to Moscow military spokesman.

The Germans had made "considerable progress against the Russian lines" which, however, were "resisting strenuously" further encroachments, although Russian positions admittedly had been penetrated at "some points."

A late pro-Axis bulletin early today announced that in this sector the "Germans were now within long-range artillery distance" of the capital's suburbs.

Trial Discloses Hundreds Died In Many Blasts And Rail Wrecks

By the Associated Press

Rome, Dec. 2.—A "vast" Fifth Column rebellion against the Fascist regime, with at least 11 of its ringleaders still at large and an attempt to kill Premier Mussolini among its terroristic exploits of sabotage and wholesale slayings, was officially disclosed tonight.

The announcement by the official Stefani news agency declared that surreptitiously armed spies and saboteurs operating from the vicinity of Trieste had blown up munitions plants and wrecked trains, killing hundreds of Italians.

Il Duce was saved from assassination only "by a real miracle," Stefani said, in an assassination plot hatched at Caporetto in 1938.

The anti-Fascist revolution was declared to be under control of foreign powers, directly or indirectly, and plotting refugees filtering through the border area from old Yugoslavia were held responsible in large measure.

60 Arrested

"Many responsible persons" were involved in the movement and 60 of the conspirators already have been arrested and put on trial before a special tribunal, Stefani disclosed. Among them, it said, were "Communists" and "demo-liberals."

The organization, "imbued with anti-Italian hate," was said to have been centered in Trieste with roots extending into surrounding provinces.

The plotters, it went on, exploited the Slovene minority there to create an atmosphere of rebellion against Italy. The Communists were declared to have held hopes for a Soviet state embracing Slavs in Italy.

Stefani said the actual perpetrators of the sabotage against Italy's war industries were believed to be 11 persons still at large.

Many Arms Found

Terroristic attacks attributed to them were blasts which killed and injured hundreds of Italians in munitions factories at Piacenza on November 8, Bologna on August 25 and at Clana on February 25, 1940.

Proof and material is being sought, it went on, concerning the gathering and distribution of arms used in other attacks on schools at Piezzo, Oltresonzia and Plusina and the blowing up of railroad tracks near Tarvis.

Confessions were declared to have been obtained in connection with

'Confidence Unimpaired'

By the Associated Press

Cairo, Dec. 2.—The British Imperial Army of northern Libya, its strongest line breached by a junction of German armored forces and its southern anchor of that line at Rezegh fallen, fought furiously tonight, with reinforcements being landed by the Royal Navy to smash the strong Axis concentration thus formed.

The imperial encirclement of the forces of the Nazi commander, Gen. Erwin Rommel, had been broken by the reckless and repeated tank charges of his Fifteenth Tank Division which, at last and at great cost, had smashed through at the lower end of the Tobruk-Rezegh corridor to a rendezvous with the Twenty-first Division lying weary and wounded to the east.

This British setback appeared damaging but far from disastrous, for a British military spokesman declared Tobruk's link with Rezegh had not been wholly broken. Moreover, British command of the Mediterranean was accompanied by British superiority in the air.

Although the British lost Rezegh itself and the nearby settlement of Bir El Hamed in the process, the break-through was effected only on a narrow sector, the German Fifteenth joining hands with the Twenty-first about Zaaran, 6 miles northeast of Rezegh.

A British spokesman, terming it only a local victory, declared the confidence of the imperial forces had been in no way impaired.

"It may delay matters for a few days longer," he added.

While the Tobruk-Rezegh sector was convulsed in inconclusive fighting, British detachments to the east were declared eliminating the last

20 C. I. O. Aides Cited as Having Police Records

Dies Says Hundreds Went From Prisons To Union Positions

By the Associated Press

Declaring the organization of the Congress of Industrial Organizations was "marked by a coalition of communism and criminality," Chairman Dies (Democrat), Texas, of the House Committee on un-American Activities, told the House yesterday he had police records of 20 C. I. O. officers arrested for offenses ranging from petty larceny to anarchy.

Dies said he was submitting a cross-section of the information his agents had uncovered "and before the end of the year we will have similar records of almost 1000 C. I. O. officials."

"Communists and criminals have gravitated toward C. I. O. from its inception down to the present," Dies charged during debate on pending bills aimed at strikes in defense industries.

Dies said hundreds of men went from prison cells to C. I. O. union jobs after they had "seen the Government yield disgracefully at the time of the sit-down strikes." The Texan shouted that this had been a "mass invasion of C. I. O. unions by criminals."

The chairman listed offenses with which he said the 20 persons cited had been charged as: Petty larceny, grand larceny, burglary, grand theft, carrying concealed weapons, assault and battery, robbery, white slavery, holdups, conspiracy, attempted arson, receiving stolen property, felonious assault, extortion and forgery.

Five of the 20, he said, were organizers of the United Automobile

Churchill Asks 3 Million More Conscripts

Also Seeks Power To Draft Women For Auxiliary Service

By the Associated Press

London, Dec. 2.—Winston Churchill called upon the nation today for three million more military conscripts and for power to require young women to serve in uniform.

"The crisis of equipment is largely over," he told the House of Commons. "The crisis of manpower and womanpower is at hand and will dominate the year 1942."

Specifically, the prime minister announced the government proposed to stretch the conscription age limits to 18½-to-50, as compared with the present limits of 19-to-41.

The method of reservation from military service is to be changed from the present system of exemption by occupational blocs to one of individual deferment. Henceforth, said Churchill, "the sole test should be the importance to the war effort of the work on which they are engaged."

Churchill also asked Parliament for power "to require women to serve in the uniform of the auxiliary services of the crown or civil defense" but he said that "for some time to come" this compulsion would be applied only to unmarried women between the ages of 20 and 30.

He promised that these women would not be compelled to serve "in the lethal or combatant branches".

The prime minister said that advancement of the upper age limit of from 41 to 50 would bring under

Polite But Firm

By Hedley Donovan
Post Staff Writer

The issue of peace or war in the Pacific, it appeared last night, may turn on Japan's reply to a request from President Roosevelt for prompt explanation of heavy Japanese troop movements into Indo-China.

Spreading on the record ominous reports which Government circles have hitherto relayed anonymously, Mr. Roosevelt yesterday told his press conference that Japan has been sending powerful land, air and naval forces into Indo-China, and that more are on the way.

He said the United States Government has now asked Tokyo to explain the purpose—the intention for the future—behind this military activity in the strategic French colony which borders Thailand (Siam) and British Burma.

Not Just a Police Force

The President rejected in advance any suggestion that the additional Japanese forces are necessary to police Indo-China, which, he said, was a very peaceful country.

Mr. Roosevelt addressed his fateful inquiry to the Japanese Government after a week of swiftly mounting tension in the Pacific, with American, British and Dutch bases throughout the Far East on a full war footing and officials here openly fearful that the reports from Indo-China heralded an early Japanese attack on Thailand or Burma or both.

Force of an Ultimatum

The President called his message to Tokyo a very polite question and denied that any deadline has been set for the answer.

His question, however, appeared to carry the force of an ultimatum as far as the current Japanese-American "peace negotiations" are concerned, for Mr. Roosevelt made it plain that he saw little value in further conversations with Saburo

Large Arms Manufacturer Is Linked to Defense Lobby

By Robert De Vore
Post Staff Writer

One of the Nation's oldest and largest arms manufacturers has been under close scrutiny by Congressional investigators in connection with the survey of operations of "defense brokers," it was learned last night.

The disclosure came on the eve of hearings today, when two House committees are scheduled to pry into affairs of literally scores of individuals who for months have taken handsome profits in commissions for Federal contracts out of the billions being spent for defense.

The name of the arms firm is to be disclosed probably by a House Military Affairs Subcommittee headed by Representative Faddis (Democrat), of Pennsylvania.

The company is one of the relatively few firms in the United States to which the Federal Government, by reason of the firm's peacetime arms production, would be expected to turn immediately in an era of rearmament.

It would seem that the manufacturer would be the last to need the services of a defense broker in securing contracts, and for this reason its connection with the Faddis subcommittee's investigation has mystified members of the subcommittee as well as outsiders.

The name of the firm has been linked with that of one of the defense brokers under subcommittee surveillance. It was this man who, according to Military Affairs Chairman May (Democrat), of Kentucky, ran a near "zero" bank account up to $200,000 in the short space of nine months.

Calver said last night.

Contributing to Representative Norton's illness is the "considerable strain and overwork" resulting from consideration of labor legislation by the House, Dr. Calver said.

A Stout Cane, a Bit of Advice

Reporters' Heads in Peril As President Gets 'Big Stick'

The dean of the Washington newspaper corps, 85-year-old Charles Hamilton, yesterday interrupted a White House press conference discussion of the Far Eastern crisis to hand President Roosevelt a stout ash cane and a bit of advice.

HAMILTON

"There used to be a 'big stick' in the White House when Teddy Roosevelt was here," Hamilton told the President, "and I think we could use one now."

The President thanked Hamilton, calling him by his first name, and remarked that it was certainly what he had been needing.

Grinning broadly, the President gripped the cane toward its base, remarked that it was nicely balanced and flourished its knobby head in the direction of the semicircle of reporters crowding the executive office.

Hamilton carries the oldest "working" Congressional press gallery card in Washington, issued in 1883. He has worked on numerous newspapers, including The Post, and is now listed as correspondent for the Binghamton (N. Y.) Press. He was born in England and came to the United States when he was 13.

He said after the press conference yesterday that he had gotten the cane in Wales and had been meaning to give it to the President for some time.

Icelanders Bootlegging Antifreeze

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—August Nielsen, Reykjavik importer-exporter, said today that the sale of liquor had been stopped in Iceland and bootleggers were selling a treated antifreeze solution which "makes your throat pretty raw."

Nielsen, who arrived on the Icelandic steamer Dettifoss, said the concoction was called "pink lady" and that it was made by straining a pink antifreeze solution through a loaf of bread several times.

He said the stoppage of liquor sales may have been due to the presence of British and American soldiers and to a shortage of stocks.

The Dettifoss arrived with 13 passengers after a stormy 16-day voyage. The storm broke up her convoy two days out of Iceland and she came the rest of the way alone.

Tokyo Reported Reconsidering Points In Reply to Hull

By the United Press

Tokyo (Wednesday), Dec. 3.—The uncompromising attitude of Washington undoubtedly has dimmed any chance for success of the United States-Japanese negotiations, but Japan is determined that all avenues of a peaceful settlement be exhausted and is reconsidering some points in her reply to Secretary of State Hull, informed sources said today.

The cabinet of Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo held its fourth meeting in five days yesterday and it was suggested that some new formula to dispel the gathering war clouds in the Pacific might be in process for formulation.

Meanwhile, press dispatches told of continued preparations among the ABCD bloc—Britain, the Dutch East Indies, China and the United States—for any eventuality.

Sinking of U. S. Ships Demanded

Against the background of continued deliberations on Japanese-American relations were the following developments:

1. Seigo Nakano, pro-Axis political leader, demanded the sinking of United States ships unless aid to China ceases and assailed any possible compromise on southward expansion.

2. Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo was relieved of his concurrent duties as overseas minister in order that he might give full time to foreign affairs.

3. Tojo added Masayuki Hatta, former commerce and industry minister, to his cabinet as railway minister.

4. The Japanese liner Tatuta Maru left Yokohama on schedule yesterday for Los Angeles, giving the impression that Japan was not expecting imemdiate trouble on the Pacific.

5 The press continued to give prominence to Thailand, possible scene of an Anglo-Japanese clash.

6. The government announced it would distribute soon five million 50-page manuals on air defense to Tokyo and nearby homes to heighten awareness of bombing dangers in the strained international situation.

2 Soviet Soldiers Slain

Among developments abroad that claimed attention was a new incident on the Manchukuo-Soviet frontier, in which two Soviet soldiers were killed.

Domei, official news agency, reported from Hsinking that Japanese garrison troops had shot and killed the Soviet soldiers who had crossed the eastern Manchukuo border about 25 miles south of Tungning. Three others, it said, were driven back into Soviet territory. The border in this area is not very clearly defined, and incidents have been frequent in the last decade.

Nakano, who brought back from Berlin and Rome some years ago plans for a black-uniformed Japanese Fascist party that attracted a few thousand followers, mostly young men, assailed any compromise settlement with the United States in a public meeting here yesterday.

He demanded that Japan use force, even sinking American transports, if the United States did not recognize Premier Tojo's three-point peace program, including a halt to assistance for Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's armies.

After the cabinet meeting, the government announced cabinet changes.

center of Axis resistance in the frontier zone.

Sidi Omar Nuovo, near the Libyan coast, fell to Punjab battalions two days ago, it was announced, the Axis forces having been driven out of strong positions by heavy fire, some at a range of 50 yards, and 400 prisoners having been taken.

"All Available Forces"

Imperial headquarters thus summed up the position in its midday communique:

"In this fluid battle which had ranged on the main front with local fluctuations over an area of some 1600 square miles since November 20, the center of gravity has altered almost daily as our or the enemy's main tank concentrations massed for attack or counterattack.

"Yesterday the enemy threw into battle all his available armed forces on a comparatively narrow front.

"Very heavy fighting throughout the day in the area of Rezegh-Bir el Hamed-Zaarran resulted in junction between German forces which had advanced from the south and southwest with those originally disposed about Zaarran.

"In the frontier area, operations for the elimination of centers of resistance are continuing.

"Throughout the course of yesterday's battle our air forces again closely supported our ground troops by continuous attacks on enemy armored fighting vehicles and mechanical transport about and west of the Rezegh area. Many direct hits were observed."

Kurusu, Tokyo's special emissary, until this country receives a satisfactory explanation of the Japanese concentrations in Indo-China.

This Government's request for an accounting was conveyed to Kurusu and Ambassador Nomura by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles.

Shortly after his meeting with the Japanese envoys Welles crossed the street to the White House for a 75-minute conference with Mr. Roosevelt, Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox.

It was the fourth time within a week that the White House has made public announcement of a meeting of the President's ranking advisers on defense and foreign policy.

Meanwhile, a new report reaching Washington set the Far Eastern zero hour at or near December 15—the date when roads through marshlands and ricefields near the Thailand border, flooded during the rainy season, are expected to be firm enough to bear the weight of Japanese armored cars and artillery.

Waves Aside If Question

A Japanese invasion of Thailand, it was thought here yesterday, would, at the very least, involve the United States in the same sort of undeclared hostilities in the South Pacific which now prevail in the North Atlantic.

President Roosevelt yesterday waved aside a press-conference question on this Government's action if the Japanese threat to Siam materializes, reminding correspondents of his standing rule against if questions.

The tone of his remarks on the Far Eastern crisis did nothing, however, to dispel the prevailing impression in Washington that a Japanese attack on Thai could easily lead to a general war in the Pacific.

Mr. Roosevelt said the United States Government since April had been discussing with Japan some method of arriving at an agreement which would insure peace throughout the Pacific area.

Vichy Powerless

At times, he said, it seemed as if some progress were being made, but in June the Administration was surprised to find Japan sending troops into Indo-China after very brief negotiations with the French government. The Vichy government, he added, let it be known that they had agreed to certain Japanese garrisons of limited strength because they were powerless to do otherwise.

Despite this setback, the Japanese-American conversations were renewed, the President continued, and again appeared for a time to be making some progress.

It was the clear understanding of the United States Government, he said, that Japan would take no additional steps while the negotiations were under way, he pointed out.

Then, only a short time ago, the President explained, came the reports of the steady reinforcement of the Japanese garrisons in Indo-China, carrying their strength above the limits provided in the agreement with Vichy.

U. S. Hopes for Early Reply

The United States is now asking, very politely, a simple question as to the purpose of this move, he said, and hopes to get an early reply.

Asked if Japan had been given a certain number of days to make its explanation, Mr. Roosevelt said that was a silly question and that notes with time-limits belonged to nineteenth century diplomacy.

Undersecretary Welles, at his press conference earlier in the day, had said, however, that he assumed the Japanese government would make a prompt reply. Welles was acting for Secretary Hull, who was confined to his apartment with a cold.

Welles replied in the negative when asked if any date had been set for another conference with Kurusu and Nomura.

Leaving the department after the conference with Welles, Nomura told reporters:

"He talked; we listened."

Before the meeting with the Undersecretary, Nomura told reporters:

"Nobody wants war. War would not settle anything anyway."

He said the Japanese government was giving "weighty consideration" to its reply to the statement of America's Far Eastern policy given by Secretary Hull six days ago.

The President's Day

By International News Service

WHAT'S COOKING: Meat of the Presidential pie yesterday was "a simple, polite question" put to the Japanese in a simple, polite way. The question, translated into Americanese, was: Just why the deuce are all those Japanese troops being moved into Indo-China, boys? No answer at present was forthcoming from the Japanese.

DAYBREAK: Mr. Roosevelt was up at daybreak and at his post at breakfast time. The President had a lot to hear, stalled off his first official appointment until 11:45, while he kept the wires humming to the State, Navy and War Departments.

DIPLOMACY: At the appointed hour in came Dan Tobin, teamster boss, who got a pat on the back for settling the Detroit teamster strike. Then Undersecretary Welles entered with a lot written on his dispassionate face, more written in the reports to be presented. With Welles came Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox—quiet and close-faced. For an hour and ten minutes the powwow continued.

HANDSHAKE: In and out quickly was Eduardo Cruz Coke, distinguished Chilean senator. Handshakes and congratulations were exchanged.

EASTWARD, HO: The President's lunch hour brought in former Ambassador Bill Bullitt. Mr. Roosevelt gave him his marching orders to the Near East, where Bullitt will act as the eyes, ears and personal representative of the President.

END OF THAT: The President was happy and relieved to receive the Railroad Emergency Board, titleholders of a 34-hour negotiation marathon with the railroad companies and brotherhoods.

HOWJADO: Mr. Roosevelt later shook hands with the gathered State chairmen of the Nation-wide Birthday Ball January 30 for the benefit of infantile paralysis victims. The President, whose sixtieth birthday starts the ball rolling, remarked he didn't know whether to thank the delegation or bawl them out for calling the impending Birthday Ball the diamond jubilee—because he has received thousands of messages congratulating him on attaining the ripe old age of 75 as the result of that.

Japanese Deny Tojo Made 'Purge' Speech

By Wilfrid Fleisher

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

Premier Hideki Tojo never made the speech attributed to him last Saturday, when he was reported to have said that Japan was determined to "purge British and American influence from Asia with a vengeance," it was said in authoritative Japanese circles last night. It was explained that the address had been prepared for him, but he had not delivered it.

According to this explanation, the Japanese premier's "so-called speech"—which caused a sensation in this country, coming as it did so soon after Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, had submitted his "document" to Japan reaffirming his original principles of American policy—was drafted by the East Asia Restoration League, a reactionary organization, of which Gen. Tojo is president, for him to deliver on the first anniversary of the pact between Japan and Wang Ching-wei's Nanking regime last Sunday.

Not only was it not delivered by Premier Tojo, it is contended, but the text, furnished to the Japanese press in advance and released automatically, was incorrectly translated. The text, it is asserted, contained no mention of "purging" the United States "with a vengeance," but, correctly translated, should have read: "For the honor and pride of mankind, this sort of practice must be removed."

The league staff gave out the manuscript to newspaper reporters at their request on Saturday night, November 29, it was said, before the draft had been examined by either the premier or other government officials and this unapproved manuscript was printed in the Tokyo newspapers.

D. C. Rent Czar Will Be Chosen By Weekend

Washington will have an administrator of its new rent-control law before the end of this week, it was indicated last night.

The special emergency measure was signed by the President yesterday and will become effective after 30 days. Some half-dozen candidates have been suggested for the $7500-a-year post as administrator.

Commissioner John Russell Young announced soon after the bill was signed by President Roosevelt that appointment of a director for the rent-control program could be expected "within a few days."

Model for Nation

"I am delighted," he said, "to hear that the bill has been signed. It was intended as something of a model law, and I have hopes that its administration will be of that character and serve as a guide to other cities which also have a national defense housing problem."

The first task after selection of an administrator, said Young, will be preparation of a budget request and assembly of a staff.

Among ranking candidates for the position of administrator is Frank Warren, an attorney with the FCC. He has the sponsorship of Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

Laudick Also Mentioned

Another prominently mentioned man for the job is Louis Laudick, a retired businessman and a resident of the District for 15 years. He is understood to have indorsements from numerous high officials.

In the running also are Paul Edwards, assistant WPA commissioner and former District WPA director; Charles A. Jones, former general manager of the Home Owners Loan Corporation; Robert Cogswell, local attorney and brother of the registrar of wills; I. B. Kirkland, also a local attorney, and James Ring, assistant chief of the Alley Dwelling Authority.

Canadians Favor Control of Prices, Wages, Poll Finds

Special Dispatch to The Post

Toronto, Canada, Dec. 2.—Canada's new price and wage control law, which goes into effect this week as the United States Congress debates a price control law for the United States, is approved by an overwhelming majority of Canadian voters polled by the recently organized Gallup Poll of Canada.

Throughout the Dominion the views of Canadian voters were canvassed in a sampling referendum with the following results:

|---|---|
| Approve Canada's price and wage control law | 76% |
| Disapprove | 24 |

Only 1 person in every 14, on the average, was undecided or without an opinion—an extremely low "no opinion" vote.

A Gallup poll in the United States conducted in November found 67 per cent of American voters in favor of a price and wage control measure modeled after the Canadian law.

The Canadian Gallup Poll went into operation last week with the coöperation and support of 27 leading Dominion newspapers. It marks the extension of the sampling referendum to the fourth major democracy.

A Change Wrought by Defense

Margy Comes From Florida To See and Conquer Capital

By Bill Brinkley
Post Staff Writer

Marching feet and growling cranes do not represent all the changes wrought by the defense program. Margalee Hollingsworth, of the Navy Department's torpedo section, is one of thousands of American girls whose whole lives have been changed by it. Messages from Washington are starting similar major alterations in the lives of thousands of others. This, for one girl, is how it began, how it went on from there, how it is now. So meet Margy:

The postmark said "Washington, D. C." Looking at it, Margalee Hollingsworth's tremendous blue eyes grew even bigger. Her lips formed a startled "O." Her trembling hands managed somehow to tear open the envelope.

"You are offered . . . as clerk-typist . . . at $1440 per annum in the Navy Department . . . Report to . . ."

"O-o-oh, I can go to Washington," Margalee Hollingsworth screamed, bubbling up and down on her toes. "O-o-oh, goodness! I can go to Washington and work!"

"A Big Opportunity"

The mouths of her alarmed fellow office workers in the peaceful town of Arcadia, Fla., sprang widely open. They were being promptly closed with excited kisses from a slight, blonde girl before anyone could decide fully what had happened.

"It's wonderful, Margy," the fellow workers gave back, meaning the job offer as well as the kiss. "It's a big opportunity."

By nightfall, a good share of Arcadia's 4035 human souls knew about it. Margy, Lamar Hollingsworth's daughter, had a chance to go to Washington!

Didn't seem so long ago that Margy was swinging down the street licking a vanilla ice cream cone. Of course, she was 22 years old now, but after all she had been born in Arcadia, she went to school in Arcadia and why, she had lived all her life in Arcadia!

Going home, Margy cocked her head to one side, then the other, and considered. You couldn't go into a thing like this without considering. Well, you had to pretend to be considering, anyhow.

H-m-m-m! As they said, it was a big opportunity. Increase in salary. Meeting lots of people. But, goodness! Leaving home for the first time, leaving the folks behind—and Betty and Joe and . . .

Margy powdered her nose and straightened the seams on her stockings. "W-ah-ah-ahshington," the conductor's voice clabbered out. "W-ah-ah-shington, D. C." She bounced a bit in her train chair.

Carrying her 98 pounds primly, she walked the marathon from train door to station. Her nose didn't really need the powdering she gave it in the taxi.

There was a line waiting at the Navy personnel office. The people hurried forward and stopped, hurried forward and stopped. Like the squirrels in the park.

"Name . . . home town . . . previous experience . . ."

One. Two. Three. Goodness, they certainly did things quickly here.

The streetcar did things quickly, too. You had to hold tightly to that noose business up above or you were likely to find yourself sprawling into someone's nose.

Downtown, everyone was walking very fast. Margy didn't hear anyone saying "good morning," or "how are you?" Why, of course, they wouldn't. Everyone didn't know everyone here.

"A Wonderful Town"

A week later Margy wrote home: ". . . This is a wonderful town. There are so many things to see here."

She sealed the letter in her diary and wrote: "Almost got into trouble yesterday at the office. Mabel, who works next to me, came in wearing a new dress. She looked positively stunning. "'Why, Mabel, you're a mess,' I said.

"Everyone on the office almost started to throw me out the window. Goodness, I had to explain fast as I could that in Florida 'mess' means 'very, very cute.' They certainly speak funny language here. Don't know whether I'll like it here or not."

A month after that she wrote home: "I'm enjoying myself very much. You know, Washington is right in the middle of things . . ."

She re-dipped the pen in the ink bottle, applied it to her diary: "I'm terribly homesick. I wonder how Dad's citrus is coming along."

Fourth month she wrote home: "Went dancing again last night. The boy was nice and so was the night club. It's sort of like going jooking, only you don't put in nickels."

"There's Just Everything"

She told her diary: "I'm really beginning to like Washington. Goodness, there's everything here. I mean, there's canoeing and there's dancing and there's just everything."

In her room at the Belmont Gardens, 1759 R Street Northwest, where 180 other Government boys and girls also live, Margy Hollingsworth pushed her hands on the red leather chair and bounded to her feet.

She felt around in a bureau drawer and presently her hand was holding a cardboard box. Opened, sparkles of reflected light hopped around the box and into the visitor's eyes.

"My demi-tasse spoon collection is certainly growing," Margy Hollingsworth said, holding her head slightly to the side and smiling. Her tremendous blue eyes outtwinkled the tiny spoons.

"The club itselw we hope to make self-supporting by charging limited dues. The work will be done by us. Recreation, peace and amusement will be provided. The situation today is really shocking."

Wolter said his committee also has been scouting for a house, which would be operated much as service clubs for soldiers. "The need is so great, we have not been able to find an adequate building," he said.

Only 20 Houses Licensed

Although a license provision for rooming houses in Washington went into effect in July, only 20 houses have received their licenses to date. Approximately 900 operators have applied for licenses, and more than 500 houses have been inspected.

Shortage in equipment needed to bring them up to standard fire and health requirements is given as the cause for some of the lag.

Although priorities have been granted in several instances, materials and labor cannot be secured easily, it is said.

Not all the problem will be solved by licensing, however, as Miss Milliken pointed out. Provision for police regulation is needed.

"The Commissioners have the power to make regulations for the proper conduct of any business they license," she said.

As the situation is today, persons without the character or training needed by managers of rooming houses can operate freely in the District. Lack of security for roomers, grouping of all types of individuals under the same roof, and lack of any sort of responsibility for good conduct of the houses often result, it was said.

which private enterprise cannot serve."

A fourth amendment asked by Palmer would insure that Lanham Act defense housing be channeled to local housing authorities by the United States Housing Authority. "Not simplification, but further confusion, will be created if an agency other than USHA undertakes to supervise and channel" the housing to local authorities, he declared.

"Unless adequate funds are promptly forthcoming," Palmer wrote, "the people of the United States face the same solution of the problem used by the British when the suddenly expanded migration of defense workers made it necessary by law to billet tens of thousands in private homes.

"Our great defense program is facing a crisis for lack of housing. The production of ships and aircraft and tanks and munitions is going to be slowed down by delay. Already it is too late to catch up comp[illegible]."

Palmer pointed out that request for 300 mil[illegible]lars was made to Lanham's committee at hearings following the President's housing message of June 26. Although the need at that time was for 125,000 units, he said, funds for only 75,000 of the most urgently needed units were asked.

"In the five months that have elapsed," he said, "the need has grown to 150,000 because of the constantly expanding defense effort."

Big Arms Firm Under Scrutiny In Lobby Quiz

try's "big three" and maker of one of the Army's best-known and most successful pieces of mechanized equipment, also has been brought into the inquiry, it was learned.

This firm, it was said, engaged the services of a broker with the understanding that he would be of assistance to it in obtaining a defense contract.

In about three weeks, it was learned yesterday, the Truman Defense Investigating Committee in the Senate will summon Frank Cohen, organizer of the Empire Ordnance Co., Inc., and Charles West, former Ohio Representative and Undersecretary of the Interior.

The committee wants to know why West believes he has $687,000 coming from the company for which he has sued, on a 70-million-dollar arms contract it obtained. The subcommittee also would like to have an understanding of the organizational setup of Empire Ordnance.

Previously it had been reported that the contract was with the Federal Government. Committee investigators now believe that the contract actually was with the British Purchasing Commission. Thus it is possible that members of the commission may be interrogated before the investigation is finished.

One of the witnesses before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee which is to launch this morning a preliminary study of defense brokers before the Maritime Commission, will be Representative Gehrmann (Progressive), of Wisconsin. Gehrmann has a resolution before the Rules Committee calling for a select committee to investigate defense brokers.

Jay Gladwin, who said he was owner, publisher, editor and the whole staff of The Democratic National Press, said in a statement yesterday that an attack on his publication Monday in Congress by Representative Jones (Republican), of Ohio, "constitutes an underhand assault on every private citizen's rights to exercise the freedom of the press."

Representative Jones told the House that contractors were asked to pay $300 a page for advertising in "this rag with 2000 circulation," and were given the impression it was an organ of the Democratic Party.

In his statement, Gladwin said: "Mr. Jones is palpably opposed to any independent editorial support given the administration. His reckless denunciation of my person constitutes an underhand assault on every private citizen's right to exercise the freedom of the press."

He added that "to charge that coercion has been practiced" in getting advertisements for his publication "is a brazen unfounded falsehood."

How Rent Control Bill Will Affect Landlord And Tenant; Law Becomes Effective January 1

By Charles Mercer
Post Staff Writer

When the President affixed his signature to the District rent-control bill yesterday, he raised for some 400,000 Washington tenants and landlords questions of how the act will be administered and how it will affect their individual pocketbooks.

Here are presented some of the leading questions and the answers given by members of Congress and officials of the Office of Price Administration whose efforts resulted in this first emergency rent-control measure of its kind ever enacted in this country:

Q. What is the rate at which rents will be frozen, and when will it become effective? How long will it last?

A. Beginning next January 1, rentals will be pegged at the rate of January 1, 1941. That is, the tenant of a single room, apartment or house in Washington should pay the identical amount of rent next month that was charged for his dwelling last January. He will continue to pay the same rent, unless there is a change in service rendered by the landlord or unless otherwise ordered by the rent administrator until December 31, 1945. The significance of the signing of the bill by the President yesterday lies in the fact that rates will become effective exactly on January 1—30 days after the signing—and will obviate the necessity of accounting for odd days of the month at a different rate.

Procedure Is Explained

Q. How will the act be carried out?

A. The rent administrator, appointed by the District Commissioners, will have full charge of the act. Under him will be a staff of investigators and assistants. His decisions are final, unless reversed by a court of law. The administrator must have been a bona fide resident of the District for at least three years. He will receive an annual salary of $7,500. Twice annually he must present a report on the activities of his office to Congress.

Q. As a tenant, what action can I take now to make sure my January rental rate will be fair?

A. The purpose of the 30-day lapse before the administrator begins functioning is to create an "educational" period for both tenant and landlord. A tenant should take immediate steps to determine what was the rental rate of his dwelling last January if he does not already know it.

Q. As a landlord, is there any action I should take now?

A. In this same "educational" period every landlord should notify all of his tenants of the rates charged last January. For conviction of rendering false information, a landlord is liable to a fine of $1000 or one year imprisonment or both.

How to File Protest

Q. If as a tenant I wish to protest the rent charged me, what should I do? How is a decision rendered by the administrator?

A. The act has set up fairly simple but complete machinery for handling of complaints. It conforms to a method of procedure advocated by the Attorney General. One petitions the administrator for an adjustment of rents in written form. The administrator appoints a trial examiner to conduct a hearing on the individual problem, accepting evidence from both landlord and tenant. After studying the evidence, the trial examiner makes his recommendation to the administrator, at the same time notifying the contesting parties.

If neither party appeals to the administrator for a review of the case within five days, the findings of the trial examiner are considered final. The administrator may on his own motion at any time review a case.

Q. What is the definition of a landlord? Are any rights of the landlord restricted besides his former privilege of charging whatever rent he wished?"

A. A landlord is defined under the act as any party renting to three or more persons. He must receive a license from the administrator's office for which no fee is charged. The purpose of excluding from the act parties who rent to one or two persons is not to discourage renting by families who have opened their homes to the restricted number as the Government has urged local citizens to do. The right to evict a tenant is drastically restricted, to prohibit retaliatory measures on the part of a landlord whose tenants might have protested rental rates.

Rent Must Be Paid

(The landlord may, however, evict a tenant for failure to pay his rightful rent or for committing a nuisance. He also can evict a tenant if he plans remodeling or sale of his building and his plan has received the approval of the District government.)

Q. Does one have any recourse to a decision of the rent administrator?

A. The act provides the right of appeal to the courts. The municipal court will be the first court of appeal. In recent cases, judges of the municipal court will sit in groups of three to hear evidence and make decisions. In the natural course of procedure, the right to continue to appeal cases to the Supreme Court exists.

Q. Is consideration given the changing costs of property upkeep incurred by a landlord?

A. Changes of service offered by the landlord are taken into account by the administrator. A decline in the service offered by a landlord would be balance against a decline in rent rates. Increased services also would be considered by the administrator. No consideration will be given investment value of property or other bases for determining fair rentals which would require use of involved cost accounting.

Hotels Are Affected

Q. Do hotels and individuals subletting to more than two persons come under the act?

A. Both hotels and sub-leasers are affected by the act. On January 1 all hotels in the District must post in a conspicuous place the rates charged for each of their rooms on the date of last January 1. A fair price for hotel rooms vacant on the freezing date will be arrived at by the administrator after he has determined their general rental cost. Due consideration will be given to various categories of furnished and unfurnished hotel rooms.

Q. Supposing that after the act has been in force a tenant finds he is being charged excessive rates. Does he have the right to sue?

A. The tenant does have the right to sue for the recovery of twice the excess rent charged, plus attorney's fees and costs. No matter how small an amount is involved, a successful claimant will be granted at least $50. That is, if a tenant is paying $60 per month rental and it is determined by the administrator that his rightful monthly rate is $50, he can sue the landlord for the recovery of $20 in a specific month, the total amount depending on the number of months for which an excessive charge has been determined. For illustrative purposes, setting his claim at $33, a court would grant him $50—the set minimum.

Former Rent Measures

Q. Didn't Washington have a rent control act after the last war? Didn't it fail?

The most serious housing shortage in the District up to the present existed in the period directly following the World War. Late in 1918 the Saulsbury resolution was enacted. It was designed to prevent evictions and freezing rents at the status quo level. The Saulsbury resolution was found inadequate, and in October, 1919, the Ball Act became law.

The Ball Act set up a standard of rates based on what was considered "fair and reasonable." This basis made it virtually ineffective, although the Supreme Court upheld its constitutionality in 1921, later reversing its opinion in 1923 when it was decided it could not legally continue in effect since the emergency had ended.

Jurists and present Government administrators agree that the Ball Act failed because of its "fair and reasonable" clause. No such weakness is visualized in the present act which sets the definite date of last January 1 and gives consideration to comparable rent levels.

Q. Who backed this measure?

A. Representative Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia, chairman of the House District Committee, guided the bill through a long series of hearings. It received the support of the Office of Price Administration, the Washington Housing Association, the Washington Industrial Union Council and the Washington Real Estate Board. Amendments were effected on the floor of both the House and Senate, strengthening the bill's intent.

Q. How was the date of January 1, 1941, arrived at as the freezing date?

A. It represents a compromise between the parties backing the measure. While it was found that rents in Washington have been rising generally for the past six years, sufficient data could not be gathered to set an earlier date, it was believed. It also was found that the most rapid series of rises have come since last January.

Montgomery Starts Mattress School

The last of a series of Montgomery County mattress schools under auspices of the University of Maryland Extension Service, which began in April, was held at Laytonsville yesterday.

According to Miss Edythe M. Turner, home demonstration agent for the county, 91 mattresses were made at schools held at Brookeville, Browningsville, Comus, Dickerson, Darnestown and Laytonsville and conducted by volunteer leaders who were trained by Miss Helen Shelby, of the University of Maryland Extension Service, and Miss Turner.

New Battleship Bolsters Fleet At Singapore

By the Associated Press

Singapore, Dec. 2.—One of Britain's newest and biggest battleships, the 35,000-ton Prince of Wales, reached Singapore today at the head of advanced naval [illegible] transferred from the Atlantic to the eastern fleet, and the whole aspect of this Oriental arsenal shifted to one of defense against any threat.

The Prince of Wales, which helped track down the German battleship Bismarck in the Atlantic last May and later took Prime Minister Churchill to his Atlantic rendezvous with President Roosevelt, flew the flag of Admiral Sir Tom Phillips as it cruised into the bay.

"Tom Thumb" of Navy

Phillips is the new commander of the new British eastern fleet, which the British have been able to create because of the improved situation in the Atlantic.

He is 5 feet 4 inches tall, the same height as Nelson and an inch shorter than Napoleon, the "Tom Thumb" of the navy.

The Prince of Wales was the first British capital ship ever to be sent out east prepared to fight. With her were other heavy units and auxiliaries, which correspondents were not permitted to identify.

Expansion of the old China command into the new Eastern Fleet gave it an importance equal to that of the home or Mediterranean fleets, and it is expected to be bolstered by British, China, East Indian and Australian squadrons.

Around Singapore, thousands of British, Malayan, Chinese and Eurasian volunteers traded white tropical mufti for khaki field uniforms.

Military Takes Over Airport

Singapore's civil airport was put under military control; local and passive defense corps were called up for duty at Penang, Malaya's second port, and in Selangor, in the heart of the tin and rubber country.

Dispatches from Rangoon, Burma, said long convoys of trucks passed through that city's streets on Monday, carrying supplies and equipment to troops who already are in position on Burma's northeastern frontiers. The convoys included mobile fighting vehicles of the newest type, similar to those now in action in the western desert.

(From Shanghai, it was reported unofficially that the British admiralty had ordered all British shipping off the China coast to proceed to Hongkong.)

Group to Study Zoning Report

A panel discussion of zoning, planning and park development in Montgomery County, Md., will feature the seventh in a series of meetings for the study of the Brookings report tomorrow night at 8, in the Richard Montgomery High School, Rockville.

The discussion will be led by Frederic P. Lee, former member of the Maryland Capital Park and Planning Commission and Frederick Tuemmler, recently named director of planning for the commission. Mrs. Bernard J. Oliver will preside.

Churchill Asks 3 Million More Conscripts

review nearly 2,750,000 men and that the new lower age limit of 18½ would add 70,000 recruits in 1942. The first half of the class of 1923, he announced, would register a week from Saturday.

Churchill said also that conscripts under 20 would be sent overseas "if the House releases the government from its undertakings" not to do so, and that boys and girls from 16 to 18 would be registered and encouraged to find places in the national service.

Of the older conscripts he said "we may later have to advance another decade," and recalled that the upper limit in the last war was 57.

For these new calls upon manpower and woman-power Churchill gave these reasons:

New plants must be staffed, "we must maintain the powerful mobile army we have created . . . Both for home defense and for foreign expeditions;" "we must maintain our armies in the East and be prepared for the continuance and extension of heavy fighting there;" men are needed to make modern equipment for large armies in India and, "apart from our own needs, we must keep our engagements to send a substantial supply of tanks, planes and other war weapons to Russia."

Already, he said, it is assured that in the near future "our men will fight on equal terms in technical equipment and a little later on, they will fight on superior terms."

He warned again of the danger of invasion, saying that "at any time, Hitler may recognize his defeat by the Russian armies and endeavor to cover his disaster in the East by wreaking his baffled fury upon us.

"We are ready for him and we will receive him when he comes, by day or by night, with far greater forces and with every modern improvement."

After the Commons session, the War Office disclosed that Britain's average part-time soldiers, the home guards, have been manning some coast artillery and may take over an important role in antiaircraft defense.

Italians Reveal 'Vast' Rebellion

an attack on the Arnoldstein bridge between Germany and Italy.

To create an atmosphere "favorable to their dream of a Soviet Republic," Stefani said "shameful papers" were distributed, demonstrations of a "pseudo-sports, cultural and charity nature" were announced and soldiers of the legion were "incited to desertion and rebellion," acts of espionage were carried out and arms necessary for revolt were prepared.

In the Trieste courtroom, where the 60 were put on trial, Stefani said there was displayed a formidable array of terroristic arms. This, it added, was only a part of the vast caches uncovered by authorities.

Seized from the plotters and now held in Basovizza Fortress are 450 pounds of critolo explosives, 45 pounds of explosive gelatine, 40 pounds of dynamite, 149 hand grenades, 75 explosive and incendiary "pencil" bombs, fuses, two Fiat machineguns, 85 revolvers, three rapid-firing Mauser pistols, rifles, military revolvers and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

Many members of the terroristic movement were declared linked through "an organization formerly existing in Yugoslavia and made up of refugees supported and aided in turn by persons of foreign nationality."

One of the first to be brought under questioning, Stefani said, was Vittorio Sossi, a fifth-year engineering student "and one of the chiefs of a student insurrectional movement."

"During the investigations," it added, "he gave complete details and declarations on the nature and aims of the movement and on responsibility of various confederates."

After the questioning of Sossi, another defendant, Milan Bolsi, described as Sossi's employe, was caught and confessed, the Stefani account said.

Like his predecessor in the prisoner's box, he was said to have "attempted to lessen his own reponsibility and tha tof his codefendants while reconfirming facts previously admitted."

At a meeting on the Italian-Yugoslav border, another conspirator identified as "a certain Zeben" was reported to have discussed the munitions factory attacks with fellow conspirators. Stefani said Zeben was killed subsequently in a fight with police at the border town of Ljubljana.

Senator Adams' Funeral Train Goes to Colorado

A special train left Washington last night for Pueblo, Colo., with the body of Senator Alva B. Adams, members of his family and a Congressional delegation.

Members of the family, including Mrs. Adams, the Senator's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Uhl, of Pueblo, and Adams' sons, William and Alva, jr., rode in the last car with the body.

More than a score of Senators and Representatives occupied compartment cars. Among those on the train was Oscar L. Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, an old family friend.

The Colorado Democrat died Tuesday morning of a heart ailment. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at the Adams residence.

Germans Still 'In Swift Flight'

communique broadcast over the Moscow radio.

Other Soviet radio advices said the Germans, falling back toward Mariupol from Rostov, were in a flight so headlong that in most areas the pursuing Russians were unable to keep contact with them.

Here and there in a 100-mile-long area of Nazi retreat, however, the difficulties of transport and Red harrying action were said to have entrapped major units of Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist's forces, confronting them with annihilation.

Slash at Broken Lines

All through the Donets Basin area, it was added, Red guerrillas were slashing at the attenuated and often broken German lines.

In Kuibyshev, the alternate Russian capital, the official Soviet spokesman, S. A. Lozovsky, proclaimed:

"The rout of Von Kleist's army at Rostov puts an end to tales about the invincibility of the German army and bars the way for a further advance of the invaders.

"This is not the first and will not be the last, by far, of the devastating blows dealt to the German army."

Lozovsky added:

"The latest attempt of the Germans to take Moscow has cost them half a million men."

Moscow Situation Mixed

As to the Moscow front, official Soviet accounts indicated a mixed situation, with an apparent improvement in the Red position below the capital, but with further progress for the invaders in some sectors above it.

About Stalinogorsky, the anchor for the southern German arm of encirclement, it was asserted the Nazis had been put to flight through deep snow and howling winds, and that Soviet mounted guards had recaptured a number of villages.

Northwest of Moscow, Soviet informants reported that three German divisions had been thrown back in a major battle in a vain effort to turn the Red defenses about Klin and Volokolamsk.

Nevertheless, it was admitted that in some areas of that theater the Germans had advanced and "consequently the situation remains especially acute."

[A United Press dispatch from London, however, said Soviet sources claimed that Russian counterattacks from tip to tip of the Moscow defense crescent have turned the tide of the battle for the capital].

Heart Attack In Theater Fatal To Mrs. Coleman

Mrs. Sarah Coleman, 74, a resident of Washington and vicinity for more than 70 years, died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon at the Silver Theater, Silver Spring.

Accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Gwendolyn Baker, Mrs. Coleman was attending a performance when she became ill. She died an hour and a half later.

A native of Oxford, N. J., she was the widow of Willard Perry Coleman, hotel supply dealer. She made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baker, at 7 Raymond Street, Chevy Chase, Md. She belonged to the Chevy Chase Chapter of the Eastern Star.

Besides her daughter, a former Washington school teacher, Mrs. Coleman leaves a sister, Miss Phoebe Lanterman, of Washington.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in the W. R. Pumphrey funeral home, Bethesda, Md. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

House Begins Voting Today on Defense Strike Bills

whose leaders are found to be "subversive" by the Attorney General. With substantial Republican backing, Landis will amend his bill to require registration and a financial accounting by labor unions. The latter provision, a feature as well of the Smith bill, was accorded a fair chance in the House jig-saw effort to piece a bill of its own together.

Labor objections to any legislation, meanwhile, crystallized in a proposal by Representative Kelley (Democrat), of Pennsylvania, that the House adopt merely a simple resolution requesting the President to call a conference of capital, labor and Government to frame a program of defense industrial relations.

Working quietly with the leadership, Representative Ramspeck (Democrat), of Georgia, told reporters he hoped to persuade the House before the final vote comes tomorrow of his firm conviction "that there are only four steps we can take—negotiation, conciliation, mediation, and, if these fail, Government operation."

Backing this plan of action, Representative Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia, second ranking member of the Labor Committee, told the House: "Loyal labor and responsible unionism need have no fear of detrimental effects from the passage of the Ramspeck bill. The honest gains which workers have made will be preserved, but we do serve notice that no small minority shall bring into disgrace the rank and file of workers in defense industry."

Vinson Plans Amendment

Among other speakers:

Chairman Vinson of the Naval Affairs Committee, who will offer an amendment of his own for enforced arbitration of disputes, announced he would support the Smith bill if plant-seizure provisions are stricken out.

Representatives McKeough, of Illinois, and Hook, of Michigan (Democrats), and Welch, of California (Republican), spoke against restrictive legislation, the latter urging the House to take a "cooling off" period of its own before enacting strike curbs.

Representative Gifford (Republican), of Massachusetts, supported the Smith bill provisions for a secret strike ballot, and asked, "Have we a Government that can lay hands on one man for $30 a month, but not even be allowed to coax a man on a 40-hour week and high wages to perform defense work to back up the other man?"

Representative Cox (Democrat), of Georgia, a leading supporter of the Smith plan, charged that "free America is being trampled by ruthless labor leaders" and that "greedy, brutal, racketeering labor leaders have made a pawn of safety of the people."

Italians Lose 3 Supply Ships And Destroyer

By International News Service

London, Dec. 2.—A squadron of British surface warships in the Mediterranean has administered another severe blow to the hard-pressed Axis forces in Libya by sinking a heavily laden Italian tanker, a munitions ship and a destroyer, the admiralty announced tonight.

At the same time, the Greek admiralty in London disclosed that the Greek submarine Glaugos, operating in conjunction with the British Mediterranean fleet, torpedoed and sank a 3000-ton Italian supply ship off Crete three weeks ago.

The British squadron, commanded by Capt. W. G. Agnew aboard the light cruiser Aurora, was credited with sinking the 1976-ton Italian supply ship Adriatico, blowing the 1628-ton Fascist destroyer Alvise de Mosto out of the water and sending to the bottom the 6500-ton tanker Nantovani, together with her valuable cargo of 10,000 tons of gasoline, benzine and other petroleum products.

The 5270-ton Aurora and the warships she led into the action emerged undamaged and without a single casualty in the attacks yesterday in the central Mediterranean.

(The high command in Rome, however, claimed Tuesday that Italian torpedo planes sank the Aurora off Tobruk, Libya, Monday with three torpedo hits.)

Agnew's squadron first intercepted the Adriatico, which was heavily loaded, according to the admiralty, with artillery stores and ammunition for Axis forces in Libya.

The Aurora immediately opened fire with her six 6-inch guns and the other British ships joined in. In a few minutes the Adriatico went down. "Some survivors," the communique said, were picked up.

Later, it was added, the British naval force intercepted the tanker Mantovani southbound under the escort of the destroyer Palvise de Mosto.

"The enemy ships were immediately engaged, the bulletin said. "The destroyer blew up. The tanker, which was carrying 10,000 tons of petrol, zenzine and other oils, was sunk. Some survivors were picked up."

The Greek emigre admiralty's announcement said the 718-ton submarine Glaukos was patrolling off Herakilon (Candia) on the German-held Cretan coast on November 10 when it sighted the Africa-bound Italian supply vessel.

"The Glaukos fired torpedoes," the communique related. "One hit the enemy ship which was seen to have stopped in a sinking condition. There is little doubt that the enemy vessel sank."

By the Associated Press

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—Testimony that red-haired Betty Williams, 31, cried, "Die, damn you, die," as she stood over her fatally wounded husband was heard by a coroner's jury yesterday.

The jury held Mrs. Williams for trial on homicide charges upon completion of evidence that her estranged husband of nine months, Mess Sergt. Noel Williams, 34, had abused his wife. Williams had been stationed at nearby Fort MacArthur.

Mrs. Cecil A. Pitts, wife of the manager of the Long Beach apartment occupied by Mrs. Williams, testified:

"I saw her with the gun in her hand and she exclaimed: 'Die, damn you, die!'"

Policeman Charles J. Novotny said that when he reached the apartment, the bride told him, "I didn't mean to kill him—I just wanted to scare him."

FBI Arrests 30 In Million Dollar Ford Theft Ring

The Justice Department announced yesterday that FBI agents had seized 30 men in Detroit, Chicago and New York in connection with a stolen auto parts ring alleged to have taken millions of dollars worth of materials from the Ford Motor Co.

J. Edgar Hoover said the total value of parts stolen from Ford plants had not been determined, but that information now available indicted the ring in operation thus far in 1941 had netted "at least one million dollars," and that the figure might "run as high as three or four million dollars."

"Two fences alone, who are not the largest operators in the ring," a Justice Department statement said, "admitted to FBI agents purchasing stolen parts this year valued at more than $500,000 which were transported out of the State of Michigan."

Cremona Entries Win First Prize at Exhibit

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP).—Top Specimens from Cremona Farm, Mechanicsville, Md., won first place in the breeding of Aberdeen-Angus heifers, calved between May 1, 1938, and April 30, 1939, at the International Livestock Exposition and Horse Show Today.

The Cremona entries were in competition with herds from 22 States and Canada, including those of the Cold Saturday Farm at Finksburg, Md., Manor Farms of Monkton, Md., and Joseph France, of Baltimore.

British Cruiser Sydney Sunk After Blasting Big Nazi Raider

By the Associated Press

Canberra, Australia, Dec. 2.—The 6830-ton Australian cruiser Sydney with 645 men aboard has been lost somewhere off Australia after blasting to death the heavily armed 9400-ton raider Steiermark, the government announced today.

The communique implied that the Sydney suffered fatal wounds in the battle with the Steiermark, because it said information of the clash had been obtained from survivors of the raider. The German ship carried 400 men, but how many were saved was not disclosed.

Marine circles in New York expressed belief that a German pocket battleship known to have accompanied the Steiermark on some of its raids may have killed off the Sydney. They doubted that the faster and heavier gunned Sydney was eliminated by the Steiermark and recalled that one of the German's victims, the British freighter Eurylochus, was sunk in cooperation with a pocket battleship.)

The Australian government also announced the loss of the 1060-ton sloop Parramatta and 141 of its crew of 161. The Parramatta apparently was on escort duty in the Mediterranean at the time.

The Steiermark, built at Hamburg in 1938, and armed with six 5.9-inch guns compared with the Sydney's eight 6-inch batteries, was said to have knocked off nine British, allied and neutral ships in at least three oceans before the Sydney tracked her down.

The engagement was believed to have occurred near the Cocos Islands, where the Sydney's World War namesake sank the Kaiser's famous raider Emden.

The 7-year-old Sydney established a reputation July 19, 1940, when she and her accompanying destroyers cornered and sank the Italian light cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni in the Mediterranean.

The Sydney had steamed more than 80,000 miles in war service, during which she fired 4000 shells and withstood 60 attacks by Axis bombers.

Nazis Ready to Ask Swiss to Oust British, Madrid Hears

By the United Press

Madrid, Dec. 2.—Diplomatic reports from Bern tonight said that Germany may soon officially request Switzerland to expel all British nationals, including diplomats, within a certain fixed time, in the same manner that German and Italian nationals and diplomats were expelled from Syria, Iraq and Iran.

There were unconfirmed reports that United States nationals, as well as British, might be included in the German request.

This request, the reports said, would be part of Germany's "Swiss revisionist program," which will receive attention as soon as the Germans obtain a respite in the military field.

The stubborn resistance of the Russians and the British offensive in Libya are said to have delayed the alleged Nazi plan to line up Switzerland with the "new order."

(Switzerland's President Ernest Witter said in a speech at Basel Sunday that his nation was trying to preserve its political and economic neutrality, but that "there is a limit to the concessions we are willing to make." He said Switzerland's economic life depended on negotiations with both sides in the war, but "the federal council knows where our frontiers are and will not permit anything to touch our country or our neutrality."

(A Berlin dispatch Monday said foreign correspondents were being bombarded with handouts from a hitherto unknown "international press agency" calling on Switzerland to acknowledge its Germanic origin and the leadership of Adolf Hitler.)

Red Defenses 'Folding Up,' Nazis Claim

By the Associated Press

Berlin, Dec. 2.—German troops were reported officially tonight to have punched new holes in Moscow's arc of staggered defenses and were fighting grimly on the southern front west of Rostov to stem the Red army drive, which pushed them out of that Caucasian gateway.

The high command said the Germans "penetrated deeply at additional points" on the Moscow front, but did not name the areas.

Military commentators likewise gave no details of the triple push toward the Soviet capital from the north, west and south, except to say that a formidable ring of Russian defenses had "folded up" after heavy German assault on the snowy battleground.

The Germans had little to say about Rostov. Spokesmen laughed at reports that the Russians already had pushed the Germans 40 miles west of Rostov to Taganrog.

Dienst Aus Deutschland, the authoritative commentary, dismissed the Soviet counteroffensive there as "only a diversion."

The high command's war bulletin said Soviet forces, preceded by a heavy Red artillery preparation, again tried to "break out" of Leningrad in the north, but were repulsed.

Successful German air assaults were reported in the Rybinsk industrial area, 175 miles north of Moscow, and on railway communications east of Tikhvin, 110 miles southeast of Leningrad.

New optimism over the battle of Libya grew in Germany as the high command, after considerable silence, told the German public that more than 9000 prisoners, including three British generals, have been taken so far in the operations.

Not only is the present situation in Libya favorable for the Germans, Dienst said, "but the entire course of our offensive counterattacks aimed at combating Great Britain's offensive with its far-reaching goals is considered thoroughly satisfactory."

British General, 1500 Troops Seized in Libya, Italians Say

By the Associated Press

Rome, Dec. 2.—The Italian high command announced today the capture of 1500 British prisoners, including a Gen. Reginald Miles, in a continuation of fierce fighting in Libya.

The prisoners were taken in the Rezegh zone, south of Tobruk, a communique said.

Farther to the east, along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, Italian forces were said to be tenaciously resisting repeated attacks by British forces in the vicinity of Salum and Sidi Omar.

Fighting everywhere was described by the high command as "violent and bitter."

Both the German and Italian air forces were said to have been extremely active yesterday, bombing British positions at Tobruk, at the railhead of Matruh in Egypt and blasting troop concentrations and communications.

Italian planes were credited with 15 British aircraft in dogfights and German fighters were credited with destroying four more.

(Who's Who lists a New Zealander Brig. Gen. Reginald Miles as a commander since 1939 of Divisional Artillery, First Echelon of the Second New Zealand Expeditionary Force. He is a veteran of Gallipoli in the first World War, in which he won the Distinguished Service Order.

(Informed sources in London said that so far as they knew there was no British officer by the name of Miles with the troops in Libya.)

Prince Georges Court Recesses To Honor Lawyer

The Circuit Court of Prince Georges County recessed for 45 minutes yesterday afternoon to allow the county bar association to conduct a memorial for the late James C. Rogers, Hyattsville attorney and real estate developer, who died last August 30.

Former Judge Joseph C. Mattingly, of the circuit court, offered the resolution memorializing the deceased barrister, terming him "a splendid and honorable character," and "an honor and example to the legal profession." The resolution was seconded by Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer, who was formerly associated with Rogers in legal practice.

T. Howard Duckett, chairman of the memorial committee of the bar association, and Circuit Court Judges John B. Gray, jr., and Charles C. Marbury also praised the memory of Mr. Rogers, the latter calling him "a splendid type of Southern gentleman."

Funeral Today For Mrs. Houser

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Houser, 57, widow of Harry C. Houser, who died on Sunday at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cooley, Gaithersburg, after a long illness, will be held at 10 a. m. today at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Washington, with burial in Monocacy Cemetery, Beallsville, Md.

Mrs. Houser, who was a daughter of the late John William Collier, one-time sheriff of Montgomery County, is survived by two sons, Raymond F. Houser, Bethesda, and Harry C. Houser, jr., Washington, and the following sisters and brother: Mrs. Oscar Larman, Alta Vista, Md.; Mrs. Maitland R. Martin, Washington, Mrs. Cooley and W. Pearl Collier, Silver Spring. She was born in Montgomery County and for a long time lived in Washington.

Navy Launching a Ship a Day

The Navy disclosed yesterday that during November it laid keels and launched new ships for the Nation's growing two-ocean fleet at a rate of better than one a day.

Five vessels also were completed and put in commission during the month, an official shipbuilding summary revealed. They were the destroyer Ellyson, the submarine Drum, a coastal minesweeper, a net tender, and a floating workshop.

33 Ships Launched

There were 33 ships launched during November, including the battleship Indiana, heaviest warship ever to slide down the ways in the United States.

Among the others were the cruiser Cleveland; the destroyers Aaron Ward, Buchanan, Farenholt and Woodworth; the submarine Growler, four coastal minesweepers, eight motor minesweepers, two submarine tenders, one covered lighter, three floating workshops, three seaplane derricks and five submarine chasers.

At the same time, the Navy announced that the U. S. S. Halibut will be launched today at the Portsmouth (N. H.) Navy Yard, the fourteenth submarine to hit the water during 1941. Mrs. Paul P. Blackburn, wife of Capt. P. P. Blackburn of the Navy will sponsor the 1528-ton U-boat, which is being completed seven months ahead of schedule.

53 Keels Laid in Month

The keels of 53 ships were laid during November, 13 of them combatant ships. Among them were the cruiser Huntington, the submarines Hake, Pompon and Tunny, and the following destroyers: Bache, Mervine, Quick, Conway, Jenkins, LaVallette, Howorth, Killen and Ammen.

The others were: 15 minesweepers, 2 motor minesweepers, 1 coastal minesweeper, 13 submarine chasers, 2 fleet and 2 harbor tugs, 2 covered and 1 open lighter and a floating workshop.

Darden's Cost Nil In Governor's Race

Richmond, Va., Dec. 2 (AP).—Colgate W. Darden's successful, speechless campaign for Governor also was inexpensive.

In a report filed with Secretary of the Commonwealth R. L. Jackson today, the Norfolk Governor-elect reported no campaign expenditures for the November 4 election.

Darden underwent an operation for appendicitis in September and did no campaigning between the August primary and the November election date.

They say we don't want to fight. They say we recognize no existing cause as adequate cause for war. They say those who favor intervention are those too old to see active combat. They—America's wrecking crew, the America First Committee—are misinformed. To prove that we speak now . . . WE THE FIRST TO FIGHT . . . a group of Americans under the age of thirty-six who will be most directly affected by war. And we line up unequivocally on the side of intervention—NOW!

48 Are Granted Citizenship Here by Justice McGuire

Holding his first naturalization session since his recent appointment to the District Court bench, Justice Matthew F. McGuire yesterday admitted 48 aliens to citizenship, including three Catholic nuns.

The justice told the new citizens that their first allegiance now lies to their adopted country regardless of their ancestry or homeland. He added that "all of us are pilgrims, whether our ancestors came over in the Mayflower or in the hundreds of Mayflowers that have followed."

"You may love the land of your origin greatly," the jurist told them, "but you should love the land of your children more—in the new land where you came seeking a new hope and a new day."

Four persons failed to receive their citizenship papers, as McGuire denied the status to one man for previous law violations and to another for concealing arrests and convictions. Citizenship was withheld in one instance at the applicant's request, and in another case for failing to establish adequate continuous residence.

The new citizens are:

Four Agencies Fight Removal From Capital

House Public Buildings and Grounds subcommittees were told by representatives of four Federal agencies yesterday that any decentralization of their employes away from Washington would impair operating efficiency.

Labor Department officials expressing objection to a proposal to remove their offices were Verne A. Zimmer, director of the division of labor standards; R. Ross Colwell, regional supervisor of the conciliation service, and L. Metcalfe Walling, administrator of the division of public contracts.

Operations of the Budget Bureau, which works in close cooperation with other Government offices, could not possibly be carried out if the offices were moved out of the District, Frederick J. Lawton, administrative assistant to Budget Director Harold L. Smith, told the committees.

Representatives Downs (Democrat), of Connecticut, and Boykin (Democrat), of Alabama, conducted the hearings.

Jobless Benefit Payments Sink

Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security administrator, announced yesterday that unemployment benefit payments dropped to a new low in October for the third successive month, with fewer workers receiving benefits than at any time since the program came into full operation.

However, a 28 per cent increase over September in new claims for benefits received by the State Unemployment Compensation Agencies indicates, Mr. McNutt said, that benefit payments may rise during the next few months, unless these workers find new jobs quickly.

Unemployment compensation benefits for October totaled $21,430,100, a 35 per cent decrease from October, 1940. The total for the District of Columbia was $126,700, a 2 per cent increase in a month. The District total for the year rose to $1,865,100, an increase of 9 per cent over a year ago. Payments were made to 2500 workers in October.

The number of placement applications in the District declined 28 per cent to 19,600 in the month.

Bundles for U. S. Bluejackets to Warm Them on Patrol

More than 1000 American sailors braving the wintry blasts of the North Atlantic will shortly be better protected against the icy air of that region, thanks to the clicking knitting needles of a group of local women.

Yesterday Bundles for Bluejackets, a branch of Bundles for Britain, with headquarters at 1710 Connecticut Avenue Northwest, turned over to the Navy the first delivery since its organization last week, consisting of 1200 knitted items tied up in Christmas packages.

Lieut. G. P. Unmacht, of the Navy, aide to Rear Admiral J. L. Kauffman, commandant of the Naval Operating Base at Iceland, accepted the boxes in his behalf. "We are very appreciative of the efforts of these ladies," he said.

Among those present at the ceremony were Mrs. Wales Latham, national president and founder of Bundles for Britain; Mrs. James V. Forrestal, wife of the Undersecretary of the Navy; Mrs. J. L. Kauffman, wife of Rear Admiral Kauffman; Mrs. J. Butler Rice, national chairman of both Bundles for Britain and Bundles for Bluejackets, an organization which claims nearly one million members throughout the country with 1200 branches.

The new activity of Bundles for Britain to supply American sailors with knitted goods was begun, it was said, at the suggestion of Secretary of the Navy Knox. Both organizations will be managed from the same headquarters, but will be kept apart in their activities.

Libyan Battles Show American Light Tanks to Be Finest in Use by Any Army

By Joseph M. Levy
Copyright by New York Times

Cairo, Dec. 2.—The American people may well be confident of their Army being equipped with the finest tanks now in use by any army on any battle-front if the performance of the light type during the last few days as the spearhead of the British offensive is any criterion. And it is a criterion in that during the first days of the attack a brigade of American tanks met and repulsed most of a German panzer division, including tanks twice as heavy as the American lightweights which are the only United States-built machines thus far in action. Expert tank officers who have operated these machines told the New York Times today why the American tanks are better than most tanks and how they behaved under actual fire.

The American machines surpass similar German tanks because they have more speed, fire power and stamina. Specifically their specially-designed plane-type engines have little to go wrong and turn out more horsepower by weight. The desert heat and dust does not faze these motors, which operated for days during this battle in Libya without attention of any kind. Another advantage is the ingenious differential system for tracks which enables the tanks to turn without skidding on one track. This device is on the same principle that is used for the rear wheels of automobiles.

Other tanks go around like troops once did, on parade—the inside man or the tank track marking time. The rubber joints on the American tanks eliminate the most frequent source of breakdown in the Axis machines which develop loose or broken joint pins. Many of the captured German machines were found carrying literally thousands of spare pins strung on wires outside of their armor.

All of these advantages of the American tanks can now be revealed in perfect safety because the Germans have captured some of the American machines but there is evidence that they knew about these improvements before and have not yet been able to duplicate them.

Because the air-cooled motor and other lighter operating parts add a minimum amount of weight, the American tank, which for several days bore the brunt of the British offensive, sent much larger German tanks reeling—it is practically a moving steel fortress with pounds more armor plate included in its 13½ tons than any other tank of its size, for that matter than many much larger tanks.

The American armor plate was tested for quality with only that which will not flake under fire being used. Flaking means the breaking off of large chunks of iron from the inside of the plate when a shell hits the outside. Such flakes may often do as much damage as a projectile.

This American-made tank, shown in the Libyan desert, is in use by a mechanized Irish cavalry unit. It is the type referred to in this dispatch from Cairo

This is the reason the American tanks took the heaviest possible blows the German medium tanks could give and kept on fighting.

Yet, despite the strength of its armor, the United States light tank proved 10 miles an hour faster than any other machine now operating in Libya. This is another tribute to the special air-cooled motor. Moreover, the tank has greater reserve power when at top speed than other tanks can muster.

But without fire power a tank is useless no matter how fine and mobile a pill-box it may be. There has been much criticism of the 31-millimeter cannon, which is the caliber on our light tanks. That such criticism is not wholly applicable to the American weapon was proved during the last few days when in actual fighting the American 37's pierced and knocked out not only German tanks of the size of the Americans but those twice their size. Test gun's projectiles—part of the new super-powered shell which explains much of the weapon's efficiency—pierced more than 2 inches of armor plate.

All of these points of superiority were proved again and again in actual warfare that the American machines had the toughest test and the greatest triumph during the first few hours of battle. In the van of the advance they met what appeared to be the full German tank strength, certainly the major part of the Twenty-first Panzer Division. Against them was the British brigade with the American tanks. Moreover the position of the combatants forced the light tanks to shoot it out against German machines twice as heavy, in fact, the heaviest German tanks in Libya.

Other conditions such as the speed and the maneuverability of the Americans might have been a decisive factor but even without these, the United States machines forced the Germans backward 15 miles with heavy losses.

There were many individual instances which highlight the toughness of these comparatively small machines. One tank was hit six times by the Germans' best tank gun, the armor-piercing 50-millimeter, yet its crew members were not even scratched and the tank drove back 15 miles under its own power for repairs.

"They are the finest tanks I have ever seen. I would go anywhere in them," one tank commander said after his American tank had taken a 105-millimeter shell on its front plate and had come out virtually undamaged.

A 50-millimeter German shell hit another American-built tank squarely on the front. The shell pierced the armor but inside it dropped, a dead 4-pound weight. Only the tank commander minded because the shell fell on his toe and broke it—that was the only damage.

POLICEMAN WILLIE TRUESDALE "BOOKS" SPOKESMAN FOR DUCKS

"What's dis, anyhow? Ain't a guy got a right to walk in de public streets wit his buddies, witout some wise guy gettin' mean about it?"

A fine ting, I'll tell you, brother, a fine ting!"

These negative sentiments were voiced in long, loud, and irritated choruses of quacks by four ducks—one white barnyard and three multi-coloured mallards—being held in No. 5 Precinct yesterday for "vagrancy" and parading in the streets without a permit.

"Quack! Quack! Quack!" (translator's note) "We stands on our rights! We been robbed!"

Discovered early yesterday morning waddling in the neighborhood of M Street Southeast, with that "all de woild's me kingdom," air by Scoutcar-men Hammack and Scripture, the ducks were captured, excepting one fleet-winged mallard. The four were taken to the precinct and "booked."

Interviewed at the station while awaiting a possible owner's claim, the big white duck, spokesman for the others, preened his clipped wings and said (not without malice) that he thought the cops were very narrow-minded and that he would appeal to the chief of his local, and see that in the future other freedom loving ducks would not be "cooped" for taking a breath of fresh air. The others quacked loudly in agreement.

One little mallard, apparently noticing the hungry look in the eyes of one of the captors, was heard to mumble, "Quuaacckk! quack-quack, quack, quack (awright wise guy, you ain't got me yet!).

Last night the police turned over the unclaimed ducks to the D. C. pound.

Winner Gets 'the Bird'

A pigeon and a reporter lost their way yesterday, and wandered into a world of tomatoes and lettuce, cole slaw and Thousand Island dressing.

Thrown in for good measure and taste were shredded carrots, ripe olives, shirred beets and all the vegetable odds and ends which make the salad world a joy to eat in.

The pigeon, unruffled and impervious to all these delicacies, sat on the top of the main chandelier in the main ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel. (photo above.)

The reporter, ruffled and pervious to all the food, right down to the smallest radish, sat on a chair on the floor in the main ballroom.

There, the pigeon and the reporter heard and saw strange things. It was salad day at the sixth annual Southeastern regional convention and exposition of the National Restaurant Association.

Talk simply dripped with deliciousness and dressing.

"I glorified an apple," said a feminine voice. "I topped it with red peppermint candy. You know, it's that one extra little thing you do that makes you a success."

The pigeon cocked his head at the speakers, fluttered his wings a minute and then proceeded to preen himself. The reporter, minus the wings, slid down in his chair and stared at the tomatoes on the table.

"Well, I'd prefer cole slaw," said another. "Don't you think that cole slaw is terribly left out in the cold?"

Again the pigeon looked down at the gathering of restaurateurs, undoubtedly noticing the reporter slip from the room.

The bird had been sitting on the chandelier since early morning, when, reluctant to becoming a door prize at the restaurateurs' "early bird" breakfast, he fluttered his way to freedom and perched himself away from it all.

A salad, a pigeon and a reporter, a combination lost in the depths of eternity.

THE ZOO'S CHILLINGHAM CATTLE—THEY LIKE TO SMELL FLOWERS

By Gerald G. Gross
Post Staff Writer

You've had the experience: The young son or daughter who recites nursery rhymes by the yard, but closes up like a clam when company comes; the gadget that works fine until you go to show it off to a stranger; the pet dog that refuses to go through his trick repertoire for an outsider.

Well, the Zoo telephoned yesterday. A new pair of cattle had just gone on exhibition. Not run-of-the-mine cattle but genuine Chillingham.

"They closely resemble the fier-r-rce Spanish fighting bull," exulted Dr. William M. Mann, director of National Zoological Park. "Probably of the same stock, too."

Pressed for further details of this fer-r-rocious beast, Dr. Mann obliged with something on its pedigree—"ancient lineage, numerous in England when the Romans got there"—and its modern history—"a favorite of the British nobility today as it has been for centuries," etc.

But the main thing to bear in mind, for present purposes, is the build-up Chilly got as a rootin', tootin', kinsman of el toro down Mexico way.

Well, sir, the reporter—all steamed up—got himself a picador (photographer) and, whistling the toreador song from "Carmen" to whip himself into the spirit of the occasion, set out for the Chillingham corral.

That's where the perverse child, gadget and pet dog come in (see first paragraph).

Why, that Chillingham bull had no more idea of charging than the manager of a cash-and-carry shop. Gore? All that meant to him was the name of a Tennessee Congressman.

Sure, the bull and his mate both went for the photographer, who had driven into the park wondering aloud whether the 30-day grace period on his life insurance had elapsed. But they didn't charge; they ambled up to rub their heads on the fence, just outside which the cameraman stood.

Those beasts wanted to be petted.

"Get back," he pleaded, as they followed him along the fence. "How do you expect me to get a shot when you crowd me that way?"

Only 1 Strike Now Menaces Defense As Rail, Aircraft Tieups Are Averted

A sudden improvement in the defense labor situation was marked yesterday when:

1. The OPM announced that there was only one current strike having a serious effect on the defense program;

2. A strike of the Bell Aircraft Corporation, Buffalo, N. Y., scheduled for today, was averted, at least temporarily, when management and union representatives accepted an invitation to take the wage dispute before a special conciliation panel here today;

3. President Roosevelt made public the summarized terms of the railroad wage controversy settlement which he said he trusted was the end of the trouble of the last couple of weeks.

On Job Pending Talks

Cancellation of the proposed strike at the Bell Aircraft Corporation, where a stoppage would have halted work on 150 million dollars in fighter planes, came when Carl R. Schedler, acting director of the Labor Department Conciliatoin Service, invited the disputants to meet with him today.

Leo Lamotte, assistant aviation director of the C. I. O. United Auto Workers, announced he was asking all workers to stay on the job without interruption pending the panel discussions. He etsimated that these would not require more than a day or two.

The union is seeking wage increases, union security and other concessions. The controversy had been referred to the National Defense Mediation Board some time ago, but had been withdrawn by the C. I. O. following the resignation of its representatives from the board in connection with the "captive" coal mine controversy.

Terms of the railroad controversy settlement, announced by President Roosevelt at his press conference, provided that the 1,250,000 employes involved receive retroactive wage increases from September 1 to the end of this year in the amounts thus recommended on November 5 by the President's special fact-finding body created to adjudicate the dispute.

These increases are 7½ per cent for 350,000 employes of the "Big Five" operating brotherhoods, and 13½ per cent for the 900,000 nonoperating brotherhood members.

In addition, permanent pay increases throughout 1942 of 76 cents a day for the operating unions and 80 cents a day for the 14 nonoperating union were agreed to. Vacation improvements were also granted.

U. S. Plan Rejected

The only serious strike now affecting the defense effort, the OPM announced, involves the Breckenridge Machcine Co., Cleveland, Ohio, where 600 C. I. O. auto workers have been on strike for 10 days. They are seeking maintenance of union membership guarantees and higher wages. A joint OPM and Labor Department recommendation on the case was accepted by the union five days ago but rejected by the company.

The National Defense Mediation Board, meanwhile, began consideration of a controversy involving 800 Midwestern trucking operators and 225,000 A. F. of L. truckers and teamsters who, last month, threatened to enforce wage demands by a strike that would tie up freight transportation in 12 States.

U. S. to Share Precious Tinplate With Latin America

By Nicholas P. Gregory

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

The Supply Priorities and Allocations Board agreed last night to speed the shipment of 218,600 metric tons of tin plate to the Latin American countries to relieve the shortage of this important metal necessary for the canning of foodstuffs.

Because of the war, tin plate, which formerly was purchased by the Latin republics from Germany and England, has become so scarce that canneries producing foodstuffs essential to the health of the population of the various countries have shut down. Mexico and Chile have been particularly hard hit by the shortage.

The announcement explained that the tin-plate policy of SPAB, adopted at the request of the Economic Defense Board, headed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace, "constitutes the first step in a simplified program designed to assure delivery of essential commodities to meet the import needs of Latin America."

Not only will these shipments alleviate the tin plate shortage, it was pointed out, but it will help in continuing the canning of essential foodstuffs which are now being shipped to England and the United States.

Within the next three months, the United States will ship about 76,300 tons of tin plate, or about 35 per cent of the total allotment, which still falls short by about 15,000 tons of the aggregate requirements for countries in the Western Hemisphere.

As part of the new program, all licenses for export of tin plate to Western Hemisphere nations have been revoked as of December 15.

Textile Workers Fight Wage Freeze

Any attempt to "freeze" wages at present levels would make a "dead letter" of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, a resolution adopted yesterday by a special convention of the United Textile Workers, A. F. of L., declared.

Because the cost of living has been "skyrocketing," wage controls would cause labor considerable hardship, the resolution stated. By preventing labor from demanding higher wages to keep up with the cost of living, "collective bargaining would be nullified," it said.

Pending administration-sponsored price fixing measures and the President's foreign policy were both indorsed in resolutions adapted unanimously by the convention.

Men Trailed Redcaps to Check Up on Their Tips, Hearing Told

The existence of a staff of investigators at Union Station who systematically followed Redcap porters around during their day's work to check on the earnings reports they were turning in was admitted yesterday at a Wage-Hour Division hearing by Stationmaster W. H. Marks, of 1851 Columbia Road Northwest.

Marks said he assigned persons to follow porters around when "chiseling" was suspected, prior to the adoption of the present 10-cents-a-bag system. The checkers would dog the steps of the porters and compel them to disclose the amount of tips they received, Marks said.

Porters were ordered to keep their fists clenched after receiving a tip until the investigator authorized him to open his palm to disclose what he got, he stated. This system was not too successful, however, because the porters frequently tried to pocket part of the money rapidly before showing the contents of their hands to the checkers.

Difficulty in Collections

Marks revealed that the terminal had considerable difficulty making collections between, 1938 and the spring of 1940 while Redcaps operated on a set wage and turned in all their tips. Since then, the flat 10 cent a bag rate which requires porters to buy check stubs from the terminal to attach to luggage has gone into effect.

Under this system, porters are paid a minimum rate of $2.88 a day and are allowed to retain everything they receive over the minimum 10 cents. Now, instead of following the porters around, the terminal tries to "drive" them to turn in at last $2.88 in stubs every day, Marks stated.

When the 10 cent checking fee was first adopted, it proved profitable to the terminal, he said, but with increased business in the terminal, the force of Redcaps has so increased that money is lost every month.

Staff Reduced

Hand trucks to lighten the porters' loads and permit the staff to be reduced 25 per cent were installed about the time the porters became terminal employes rather than freelance workers under the terms of the wage-hour law, he said.

Arthur Brown, Negro porter at the Camden Street Station of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, in Baltimore, testified that the check system was a "nuisance" which annoyed customers and Redcaps alike. He stated that Redcaps would do as well without any check system or guaranteed minimum wage. Other Redcaps testified Monday that the minimum wage had increased their earnings considerably.

Still Short

Expanding Washington, it appears, has complicated the always difficult job of canvassing all the prospective contributors to the Community Chest. Even with superior organization and teamwork on the part of the various volunteer groups, reports from campaign headquarters indicate that there are persons who plan to contribute to the Chest but who have not yet been solicited for funds. There is no way of knowing, of course, how many remain unsolicited. So it should not be assumed that it is only a matter of time before the hoped-for quota of two million dollars is reached. Yesterday it was revealed that the fund is short by $165,000. That has necessitated another extension of the drive. The sum still to be raised is but 10 per cent of the total, which may not seem much. Yet failure to raise it would mean a paring down of the barely sufficient budgets of the District's 59 welfare agencies just when the need is the greatest in years. In the circumstances it seems hardly necessary to emphasize: Don't wait to be solicited. Send your contributions and pledges to the Group Solicitation Unit of the Community Chest at the Willard Hotel.

Silver For Copper

Under the new agreement we shall be paying Mexico about 25 million dollars yearly for the purpose of adding to our monetary stocks of a metal which we cannot put to any good monetary use. The worst of this process of purposeless acquisition is that the purchasing operations appear to be costless through the manner of payment. The Treasury pays for silver by issuing silver certificates. In other words, the means of payment is created, instead of being supplied by taxpayers or investors in Government bonds.

However, the procedure is far from being costless. The seller of silver gets dollar balances that can be used to buy valuable goods here in exchange for an unneeded metal that is bought at artificially high price levels. The American people, in other words, pay indirectly for the Government's stupid and potentially inflationary silver-buying program, even though it involves no direct strain on Government finances. And the cost has now reached such astronomical heights that the Treasury reports that in September the potential seigniorage on silver bullion exceeded one billion dollars. The existence of this unutilized silver hoard constitutes an ever-present inflationary menace, since it affords such an easy way of creating money.

As we have no legitimate use for the silver that has piled up in Treasury vaults, and that will continue to pile up under the agreement with Mexico, it is not surprising that suggestions are being seriously made to use silver as a substitute for copper in the electrical industry. There is an acute shortage of copper for defense needs. The suggestion that we should make up this shortage out of our surplus silver is certainly worth considering. There would not even be the loss of the cache, since the silver in a copper cable would still be as much "stored" as the silver in a vault.

Accent On Youth

The managership of the Cleveland Indians might well be taken as a symbol of the impermanence of all worldly things. Thus, of itself, the announcement that the Indians will have yet another manager in 1942, scarcely comes under the head of epoch-making news. The interest lies almost exclusively in the fact that the new manager, Mr. Lou Boudreau, is a stripling of four and twenty summers, with scarcely three summers of professional baseball experience in his head. Having put the accent almost everywhere else he could think of, Mr. Bradley, the owner of the Indians, is now putting it on youth. A roll call of Cleveland former managers would include about 15 names, and some of them very illustrious names; e. g., Napoleon Lajoie, Tristram Speaker, Walter Johnson. But only Speaker actually succeeded in making a championship club of the Indians, and even he succeeded only once.

By way of contrast to the appointment of Mr. Boudreau is the appointment of Mr. Hans Lobert as manager of the Philadelphia National League Club. Mr. Lobert, who began playing baseball about the time Mr. Bryan began running for President, is, of course, old enough to be Mr. Boudreau's grandfather. Next to Connie Mack he is the hardiest perennial in the business. Managing the Phillies, however, is a pleasant sort of job for anyone with a philosophic turn of mind. The all-pervasive solitude and silence in which the Phillies play their ball games are highly favorable to the contemplative life, and the scoreboard offers a daily lesson in the hollowness and futility of all competitive struggle.

Hitler Takes A Hand

The peregrinations of Fritz Wiedemann in China show the extent to which Hitler is taking a hand in the Far Eastern crisis. Wiedemann used to be Hitler's superior officer in World War I. He first served in the inner circle of Hitler's advisers and then came to San Francisco as Nazi consul general to prepare the way for Hitler's "stride into overseas space." Our Government six months ago cut short his and other consular machinations by ordering Germany's consular officers out of the country. Now Wiedemann is consul general in Tientsin, and doubtless his instructions remain the same, with China substituted for the United States. He is bent upon undermining the spirit of resistance to aggression which China has maintained for over four years.

To that end the Nazis and the Japanese will undoubtedly misreport to the Chinese the conversations with Japan which are going on in Washington. It will be said—without the slightest shred of justification—that America is seeking ways and means of "appeasing" Japan by selling out China. There would be no need to rub in the lesson. A breath of what the President once called the "false lullaby" of this kind of appeasement would persuade many war-weary Chinese that China would be foolish not to get good terms from the Japanese while the Japanese are in difficultics. The way to combat such poison talk in the Far East is to counter it. The Donovan Committee, which has become an instrument of American propaganda throughout the world, is no doubt engaged in precisely that task. But its work can be done most effectively only when public acts back up interpretation. That is why the published account of our Government's request for an explanation of Japan's Indo-China moves is welcome. It will show the nations in the Pacific concert that this country is not offering a blind eye as well as an open ear to the Japanese.

The concert in the Pacific could be further strengthened by the public announcement of a joint defense strategy board. That might seem a dangerous move. But risks for peace nowadays are the only ways of insuring peace in a gangster world, and the time has come when the dynamics of totalitarian leadership must govern our democratic leadership. Japan has set the precedent. She has been amassing troops in Indo-China and breathing fire and brimstone from Tokyo all the time that Mr. Kurusu has been talking peace. Perhaps the general staffs, which no doubt have been conferring informally, would oppose a public announcement of a joint defense strategy board because of the fear of precipitating immediate war. General staffs, however, are notoriously against immediate war. The plea is unpreparedness. They cling like leeches to the need for more time because the last button is allegedly never on the last soldier and the last ship still lacks the last coat of paint and the last bomber is still in the factory.

Yet Hitler owes his amazing military successes to the manner in which he has ignored his general staff. The Nazi generals opposed the occupation of the Rhineland, the absorption of Czechoslovakia and the descent upon France. It is said that the only two operations which got the general staff's prior consent were the entry into Austria and the attack on Poland. As Lord Salisbury once said, "You would have to let it fortify the moon before you could get any general staff to say it was ready." Two facts must be borne in mind in any problem in strategy: first, unreadiness is relative and, secondly, time cannot be useful only to one disputant. There can be no question that now the ABCD powers are less unready than Japan and that Japan is making even greater use of time than the other Pacific nations are. Japan is now faced by a solid coalition, and the Nazi war on Russia has cut off her solitary rail line of supplies from European and American arsenals. Our only unreadiness is the absence of a formal joint board of strategy which would make the Pacific concert show the aggressors that that concert had teeth in it. That would show military Japan that we mean business. That would stop the dry rot which Wiedemann and his wily assistants are seeking to promote in China in the interests of the Pax Japonica which Hitler will inherit when and if the Russian barrier is broken down.

Calling Vichy

It was well over a year ago that Marshal Philippe Petain met Adolf Hitler at Montoire and agreed in principle to that policy of "collaboration" with the Third Reich which Berlin, with the support of the pro-Nazi element in France, had been urging on the Vichy regime. The pressure has grown faster than the willingness to comply. Growing uncertainty regarding a German victory has suggested to Marshal Petain and at least some of his colleagues the wisdom of delaying acceptance of the German demands. At the same time various factors have combined to weaken Vichy's resistance. The great majority of the French prisoners of war are still in German camps. Economic distress is on the increase in the unoccupied area, though that distress is largely the product of Germany's systematic looting of French resources. One by one the anti-Axis elements in the Vichy regime have been weeded out and the pro-Axis elements in the French colonies and the French fleet reinforced.

For all these reasons it is hard to regard the meeting this week of Marshal Petain and Field Marshal Hermann Goering, the Nazi No. 2 leader, with anything but foreboding. It suggests, at the very least, further steps by France in the direction of thoroughgoing collaboration with the Axis. Yet, until the die is irrevocably cast by Marshal Petain, the possibility remains that the French fleet and the French Empire will not be turned over to Hitler. For this reason we should be making known to the French people the disgust that would be engendered in this country by Vichy's outright surrender to Hitler. At the same time every possible measure should be taken to increase the flow of aid to the Free French.

Telling The Boys

After the celebrated "yoo hoo incident," Lieut. Gen. Lear was severely criticized—unjustly, we thought—for his "fuddy-duddy" conception of Army discipline and morale. His critics, among them members of Congress, surely ought to come forward now and admit that the general was sadly misjudged. For he is sponsoring a unique educational program for the Second Army which promises to be an invaluable morale-building factor in military training. Officers and men are to attend weekly lectures on current affairs and on various aspects of the defense effort. The lectures, some of which will be given by well-known authorities, will explain dominant issues in terms of the national interest and will be designed to fill in evident gaps of general information. At first glance such a program may appear to be inconsistent with the urgency of the Army's main job, which is to turn out trained fighting men as quickly as possible. But General Lear rightly figures that it is just as important for the Second Army to know why it may have to fight as to know how.

During the debate on extension of the Selective Service Act this newspaper, among others, received numerous letters from draftees which clearly showed the need of an educational program such as General Lear's. Some of the men writing in frankly stated that they wanted more information about what was going on in the world. Others exhibited an appalling lack of understanding without being aware of it. In substance, the letters confirmed General Lear's view that insufficient knowledge can be a morale-shaking factor, leading to diminishing interest in the service. Considering our half-in, half-out war status, and the continuing lack of materiel, the job of maintaining morale in some units is none too easy. General Lear's plan will obviously not be a cure-all for the situation, but it should help.

A Poor Tax

The Federal Reserve Board is reported to have taken a stand against a proposal to incorporate in the 1942 Federal tax program a levy on bank demand deposits, i. e. checking accounts. In favor of the plan is the fact that a very small tax would produce considerable revenue. Moreover, it would be easy and comparatively inexpensive to collect. However, the board objects to the tax on the ground that it would violate the principle of ability to pay. For example, a businessman with limited income might have a relatively large and active deposit account with his bank as a result of his business transactions, while a salaried individual, much better off, might maintain a comparatively small checking balance.

A tax, aside from its inequity, would be objectionable for another reason. It would cause people to turn increasingly from the use of checks to currency. As a matter of fact, the use of checks is becoming more and more difficult for persons of small means because of the rising cost of maintaining checking accounts. The banks for a good many years have been in possession of idle funds for which they could not find profitable employment. They have, therefore, found it necessary to charge more for services rendered to depositors, and have in many cases discouraged maintenance of small checking accounts. For various reasons this trend is unfortunate. It would be a pity to accelerate it by putting new obstacles in the way of utilizing the check by resort to Federal deposit taxes.

Discouraging Report

I am a native American (second generation) and was born in New Orleans, La. I am of French stock, my family still living in Brittany and calling themselves proudly "Gascoigns."

Until the present World War broke out (1939) I was in frequent correspondence with my people in Brittany, whose name and place of residence I dare not reveal because they are "Free French" and I do not wish that any harm should come to them because of what I disclose now to you.

Since France was conquered by the Germans the correspondence between myself and my family in Brittany has completely stopped, which caused me great sorrow. I was, therefore, greatly surprised and delighted to receive last Saturday a long letter from a member of my old family. This letter is dated November 24, and arrived in America by air mail.

In that letter, my uncle (who wrote to me) gives me a fairly comprehensive picture of the war situation and conditions in Europe and it is because of his description that I write to you.

The distressing fact is, namely, that his report of the prevailing situation in Europe is entirely at variance with the daily reports and news which we, here in America, receive from the radio or read in the newspapers. My uncle says that the stranglehold of Germany over all Europe is so pronounced that very little hope is left to those who look for an English victory.

He says that food in France is exceedingly scarce and that the general fear of starvation during the winter is so great and the suffering, especially among children, so alarming that the French people "nolens volens" demand close adherence to Germany, which has promised food and coal in exchange for full collaboration. He does not speak at all favorably of England as far as England's actions or ability to do something decisive are concerned.

Still less encouraging is his report on the Russian situation. He also states that the entire industrial strength of France, Holland, Belgium and Spain is employed in day and night labor to produce airplanes and all other war material, like tanks and heavy guns, for German use. My uncle's letter enlarges on that subject to a great extent, and says that refusal or even hesitancy to work for Germany means prosecution and starvation.

Speedometers

If The Post is really serious about its desire to stop this killing it will inaugurate a drive to have streetcars and buses equipped with speedometers at once. Policemen arrest or at least clock streetcars going 45 miles per hour or more frequently. The motormen are sincere in their desire to have the ordinary device for timing their speed so they can know how fast they are going.

Every motor car has a speedometer. Why should not streetcars and buses have them, and be required to have them, and use them to stay within the law? A number of deaths have resulted from streetcars and buses hitting pedestrians, no matter where the pedestrian is or whether he is negligent in being there. A reduction in deaths will be worth more than the few minutes extra time that would be required for the streetcars and buses to operate within the limits already prescribed by law with respect to speed.

The law limiting the speed of these vehicles is already on the statute books. This law is being violated constantly. It seems clear that the schedules of operation should be made to conform to the limits of speed now prescribed by law.

The public policy behind the statute prescribing maximum limits is clear, and is rendered doubly clear by the recent deaths.

Six Public Enemies

These are birds of a feather. All are devoted to the principle of getting theirs while the getting is good.

Veterans who seek to sneak in their vicious pension bills while we are in the midst of this emergency.

People who hire their relatives to do nothing on defense projects.

Merchants who boost prices with no reason, and blame the emergency.

Congressmen who delay price fixing legislation, in order to "buy" continued support from the people back home they seek to favor.

Labor leaders who demand too much.

Manufacturers who take advantage of conditions to charge more for material and manufactured items sold the Government.

Appeasers

For the United States to be successful in defeating the Nazi menace to our security, we must expose those elements which have been one of the principal guarantees of Nazi successes in other countries—the Fifth Column. By the Fifth Column I mean the appeasers in our country, the America First Committee and its associates.

The function of this group of appeasers is to confuse the people and delay, if not altogether destroy, our preparations for defense and our activity in helping the victims of Nazi aggression. We cannot consider ourselves safe so long as this menace to our security exists; let us urge the Administration to investigate the America First Committee and rescue us from its attempts to make America next in the Nazi stream of conquests.

Official Health Instruction

Regarding the subject of preventive medicine, the Government in its Farm and Home Hour propagandizes in the interests of animal life, tells us how to feed pigs, etc., but it does not do the same for humans. Our chief source of "health instruction" today is advertising, mostly on the radio. Some of it may be a little better than nothing, but those of us with both eyes working shy at "benefactors" with one hand held out in blessing and the other palm-up for dough. You can't ballyhoo wisdom and wares in the same breath.

There is, of course, much difference of opinion regarding ways to health, but we should at least have some central disseminating organization that gives out the latest findings and opinions of the highest authorities and that promotes thinking and common sense health practice among the laity. Health information should not only be broadcast free of charge but should not be left for those who wish to prostitute it to their own ends.

Gold Braid Classic

I was quite interested in the excellent story by Thomas J. Culhane of the first Army and Navy game. Particularly was I interested in the remarks of Admiral Luce, which might have been addressed to my maternal grandfather, a captain at the time, who accompanied the admiral to the game.

Grandfather, who was an ardent football fan throughout his life, always declared that game was the hardest fought of any he ever witnessed. ELEANOR WHITE.

Fighting Vote Needed

The time has come for the formation of the U. W. P. L. (Unorganized Workers Protective League).

We should have an organization made up of the white collar workers and the small business and professional men and their dependents and employes who will forget party lines and hold to strict accountability on election day those elected officials who have bowed to pressure groups, and in so doing have made the labor racketeers powerful.

These Congressmen have sold their constituents down the river, in that they have voted for legislation which they knew to be economically unsound because they feared the voting power of this group or that one.

There is just one way to put a stop to that sort of thing, and that is for the great mass of middle class people to get together in a fighting voting mass through which they can reward the courageous legislator who does what he knows to be best for all the people and through which they can punish the man who delivers his unorganized constituents as economic sacrifices to organized pressure groups.

If Westbrook Pegler would head such a movement in preparation for the 1942 Congressional elections he could, in 90 days, have a voting power back of him which would dwarf all existing groups.

Congressmen are at this moment being bulldozed to prevent them from enacting legislation requiring a secret ballot among the workers in a plant before a strike could be called. F. G. CAMPBELL.

Territory For Debts

Permitting French-American possessions to remain in dispute between the two rival French governments is a dangerous threat to the peace and welfare of our Nation and all the Western Hemisphere republics. It also violates the Act of Havana.

This violation opens the way for the United States to take over French-American possessions for our war debt, without violating the Havana Act.

The French-American possessions offer an emergency and are the subject of barter and change of sovereignty from France to Germany, a European power, in violation of the act.

Many years before this emergency, which threatens us now, the people of this Nation demanded that we take over these French-American possessions for our war debt.

World War veterans and the common people have pleaded to the State Department and to Congress to take over these French possessions for our war debt.

Plain Words

Just read your editorial, "Plain Words." The suppression of prostitution is a moral issue, a matter in the realm of behavior control. If it is desired to eradicate venereal diseases, and everyone agrees that it is, scientific physicians say concentrate on essentially medical measures, i. e., prophylaxis. That is a doctor's job. Suppression of prostitution is a police job. It never has been done, it never will be. In any case urologists know well that clandestines spread more venereal disease than do professionals and they cannot be reached. If your editorial is correct the Army (and I hear the Navy) have acted very scientifically so far. I hope they continue to do so. T. S. H.

Keep It Up

I trust The Washington Post will keep up its discussion of preventive medicine and that it will some day have the credit for "starting something" along this line at the Nation's Capital. I agree—"the question is more vital than the war." Let's have more of your good editorials on the subject.

The Post Impressionist

Home To The War

Shut your eyes. Count 10. Now tell me a place within 200 miles of the American coast where you wouldn't know there is a war on. At a guess, you'll say, it's Nassau, in the Bahamas.

You're very right. Only the other day we were down there and packing to come home after a year of watching the Duke of Windsor trying his hand at something new—governing 690 islands and 2387 rocks. It's a pleasant life under a blue sky and friendly sun. I didn't want Washington, but Rhona did. On this particular morning I remember she was whistling "Daddy, I Want a Diamond Ring" and packing my shirts as fast as Lita could iron them.

Between my wife and Lita developed a mysterious understanding while we were in Nassau. Rhona is small, white and belongs to the city. Washerwoman Lita was fat and colored and the mother of three. Doing the smalls she smoked a clay pipe, little beads of sweat gathering as she rubbed. The bigness of her sometimes brought forth a "Lordee now!" at the vigor of her exertions, tumbling both ash and sweat balls into the steaming bowl. She liked little and young things. To Lita, Rhona was the source of rice and hominy (with fish on Tuesdays) and something in dire need of protection.

How to tell her that the source of the wherewithal for rice was about to pack up and go home was a subject already discussed at two consecutive breakfast tables. This had to be done at the psychological moment. I was to wink and blow my nose when it arrived. Now as the Washerwoman stayed the iron and turned the shirt, this was it. I blinked and I blew. But she beat us to it.

"Reckon you'm going home soon bawss. These'm shirts not fo' wearing in the sun."

"Yes," I said uncomfortably, "we're off soon. Guess we'll send them out for washing when we're home."

Once done, it was easier. My wife glanced at me gratefully, promising the Washerwoman a week's sustenance on the spot.

"Yeah, ma'am," said Lita suddenly, "an' you'll be right in the middle o' de war."

She was far more right than we realized. That afternoon, as I walked in the hot sun down busless Nassau's Bay Street, I knew I was going to miss the place. Turning at the corner of Bay and Charlotte, I scanned for the last time the sign on the big shed—the Nassau Guardian . . . Established 1844.

By 7 o'clock I had my 312th and last Guardian ready to be placed on the thumping, rolling machine which served our thousand subscribers. So that I could identify to my grandchildren just when my term of office expired I had carefully closed this last editorial with the assertion that Britain would have . . . "the last word."

I shook hands with the boys; walked into the warm night. There was a roar of machinery behind me as the pressman did what he always did—"let 'er go." Along the front there was no sound but the sea. Next day we were flying toward Washington and the war.

We arrived in the Capital in the early morning, with the sun on the frost like we said it would be. There were soldier boys in the station. A sticker on the taxi window said: "Keep 'em Flying."

"Let's go and look old Bob up," said Rhona after lunch. (We first met him at an affair designed to promote $3 whisky. He was president of the corporation. A big man with a monocle and four servants.

Pinned to the front door of the six rooms in Silver Spring was a card. Small, it was written in the wriggles that signed checks for fine clothes: Uncle Sam's at Work . . . back at 8 p. m.

"Nonsense," said Rhona. "He never worked that late in his life."

For four nickels we finally got his number and called OPM. He was engaged, he said, "in the field"—whatever that meant. There was a noise in the background like somebody working.

"How's Tom and Margaret?" I asked.

"Tom's with OEM, Margaret with FWA. George Henry's in the CAA."

"Oh."

"Your Uncle Randolph was asking after you last week . . . Said he'd like to see you when you got back. Well, I've gotta stop in and see the DMB, then I'm due at FCC—you can get me there if you want. How's it for a drink tonight?"

"O. K. if you are finished at the FCC—we'll need it."

"Goodby."

"GB" I said.

Uncle Randolph lives in an old-fashioned house on G Street with a parrot he bought from a Chinaman in San Francisco, two maiden daughters and periodic lumbago. These chilly nights he plays bridge with Emily, the younger child, by the fire.

The success attending the San Francisco deal gave Uncle a favorable opinion of the Chinese. At the start of what Japan calls "the China affair" he sent Emily in search of a wall map and colored flags—red for Chinamen, yellow for the invaders. Then the Germans got to work and Uncle ordered more maps and more flags. He followed communiques and spelled strange names to ease his aching body. He was all set to go One No Trump when we got there.

"How's this war in the Outpost of the British Empire," he says to me when Rhona had kissed him and brought the old sparkle to his eye.

"It's quiet down there. Too far away to do much," I said.

"What's the strength of the army?"

"Well," I said cautiously "there's 30 in the Defense Force and more could be gotten for an emergency."

"Any guns?"

"Two they used on the Spaniards in 1783."

"Any navy?"

"No, no navy."

"Say," said Uncle, leaning forward and forgetting his lumbago, "you know what? I'm mighty glad you're home. Wouldn't like to think of you down there and missing things. We've got everything in this town. British, Germans, Japs and Chinese . . ."

Our Foreign Policy

By Ernest Lindley

Time Element Has Been Well Handled

IN TWO AREAS—the Far East and French Africa—American policy has reached what may prove to be critical turning points.

LINDLEY

The odds, as this is written, are strongly in favor of war in the Far East and of a Nazi infiltration into French Africa which in a few months may require us to man the defensive outposts of South America, stretching from Freetown, in West Africa, through the Cape Verde Islands to the Azores.

In neither case does a change in the course of events prove that the policy up to now has been wrong. The State Department has become increasingly sensitive over the course of months to the accusation that it was adhering to discredited methods of "appeasement." "Appeasement" is an invidious rhetorical term most often used of late by observers who lacked the information to form a sound judgment, or had ulterior purposes.

Time is a vital element. In both French Africa and the Far East time up to now has been in our favor. And time has been won by skillful management of our foreign relations.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT has been criticized continually for maintaining relations with Vichy and for making small economic concessions to Gen. Weygand while he remained at the helm in French North Africa. But these policies yielded tangible results. They enabled us to put and keep in French North and West Africa more than 50 official representatives. The assigned task of most of them was to oversee the ultimate use of supplies shipped from this country. But they are men well equipped to analyze what they see. They have kept our Government fully informed as to what is going on both in French Africa and at the important Atlantic seaport and naval bases of Casablanca and Dakar. Lacking such observers, our Government might have been misled by Free French and British reports, which have been rather consistently wrong as to this part of the world, and reveal rather awkward attempts to force our hand.

That our observers were correct, and the British and Free French wrong, in their reports of Weygand's position is now circumstantially proved by his removal at the insistence of the Nazis. Meanwhile, more than sixteen months have elapsed since the French signed their armistice with the Germans, and months have passed since Weygand's refusals to depart from the terms of the armistice prevented Vichy from surrendering earlier to Hitler's demands. Valuable time has been won. Although the Nazis almost certainly will now make headway more rapidly through their political agents in French Africa, their armed forces are heavily engaged elsewhere.

THE COURSE of the Russian and Libyan campaigns will influence events in this area. Possibly the Nazis will beat us to the punch, but we are more nearly ready to take, and to give, the punch than we were a week, or a month, not to mention a year ago.

The Far Eastern theater is more vast and perhaps in the long run more important, even though French Africa is closer to the Western Hemisphere and the Nazis are a more powerful threat than the Japanese. But in the Far East, also, our situation and interests required a play for time. The change in our policy has been directly related to military and naval factors. In other words, it has been a change not in purpose, but in methods in step with the strengthening of the defenses and striking power in the Far East of the British, the Dutch, the Chinese, and ourselves. (With the British, include the Australians and, psychologically, the New Zealanders.)

SEVERE ECONOMIC countermeasures against Japan were put into effect when it was felt that we and our associates were strong enough to repel Japanese invasion of the East Indies, or a direct attack on Singapore. Now the ABCD combination is thought well enough prepared to respond effectively to a Japanese advance into Thailand. Japanese occupation of Thailand would be a direct threat to the British in three areas: Singapore, Burma and India. An alternative advance through Yunnan province to the Burma Road would frustrate our national policy of aid to China.

Vital American interests are at stake, heading up eventually to our security as a nation in the face of a single warlike empire dominating the immense resources of the Far East and southern Pacific. This threat could have been nipped years ago if the British and French had been willing to cooperate. After the European war broke out, it became necessary for them and for us to temporize. Now the way can be seen to a decisive settlement. We would prefer that it be reached peacefully. But the preparations are now made on our side for war if the Japanese insist upon it.

Southern Unionism

IN THE COMMOTION over the coal miners' strike, Phil Murray, the president of the C. I. O., tossed off a remark at the national convention of that privately owned and operated subgovernment and taxing agency which went down the big wind as a mere whisper but will bounce back in a resounding echo. Mr. Murray announced that the principal concern of the C. I. O. in the coming year would be to organize "the South" and it may be assumed, naturally, that the organization campaign in the States of the Southern tier will follow the method of earlier historic efforts to emancipate the American worker from the thrall of freedom and make him sign his name to the standard yellow-dog contract of the unions. According to the precedents of Detroit and other centers of the motor industry and of Johnstown, Pa., that would mean the seizure of Southern industrial plants and the oil fields of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana by mobs composed in part of local talent and in part of imported goons, all led by Communists from New York and California; vandalism, rioting and, in one stout, efficient word, insurrection against the legal government.

The Southern States have a peculiar temperament and react vigorously to mob action by carpet-baggers, so, if Mr. Murray means what he said, and if it may be assumed that the C. I. O. adheres to its old, tried methods, the organizing campaign should provide many hours of excitement.

There are few Southerners living who personally recall the disorders occasioned by the last descent of the carpet-bagger, but most of them have inherited an attitude which will become instantly and painfully apparent. The field is most inviting, for unionism in the South is negligible to date and the reason is, largely, that it has been impossible to persuade the white American down there that Jesus Christ never drew the color line. He will have none of this equality business even in a union and will fight efforts to unionize him on a common footing with a Negro of similar skill and similar human necessities.

Yet, if the whites be unionized and the colored men be excluded, there goes the white man's collective bargaining power, thwarted by the cheap labor of the dark man. Then, too, the C. I. O., thanks particularly to the Communists, has proclaimed that the Negro is welcome and this can only mean that when the organizing campaign gets underway the C. I. O. will have to face the question and give an answer which can only annoy the white population.

Already the C. I. O. has announced that Edwin S. Smith, late of the National Labor Relations Board, is to have charge of the organization campaign in the oil fields and the Tribune of Austin, Tex., announces that the A. F. L., alert to the rivalry, has allocated the oil workers to its own union of operating engineers and will try to gather them in.

Mr. Smith's sympathy with organizations described as radical and Communistic was the subject of considerable inquiry and extended comment by the special committee of the House of Representatives last year. This committee said "that Smith utilizes the prerogatives of his position to foster and encourage radicalism seems clear from an examination of his long career in the leftist movement," and said he was the member of the board "most notable for his radical sympathies."

The operating engineers of the A. F. L., however, is no attractive alternative, for this is the union of Hoodlum Joe Fay of Newark, now under indictment in Syracuse for assault on a dissenting subofficer, and of William E. Maloney, president, who maintains a stable of racing horses. And the union, itself, is clearly allied and in many ways similar to the hod carriers' union, or racket, which is notoriously infested with underworld criminals and recently held its first convention in 30 years during which time the toilers were shaken down for millions of dollars.

So the situation in the South is very complex, racially and politically, and the implied promise of a march of, say, 40,000 "outsiders" into any Southern community to overawe the cops, the sheriff and the mayor with a threat of bloodshed, as happened at Johnstown, would be likely to produce far different results. In the Johnstown case the Governor closed the mills to prevent insurrection, but the Southern temperament must be reckoned with in this new field of exploitation and the touchy unwillingness of the Southern man to be told by any stranger in town that if he goes to his job he will be slugged with a tire-iron and his wife and children terrorized in their homes.

Mr. Murray has issued a highly interesting announcement and it was unfortunate that John L. Lewis was making so much noise that the South couldn't hear it plain.

Relations With Japan

By Mark Sullivan

Further Aggression Means War

WE ARE close to war with Japan. For what reasons? It is important the country should understand.

SULLIVAN

As the diplomatic situation has developed over some time, it is essentially this: We forbid trade with Japan. Thus we deprive Japan of oil, gasoline, scrap iron and other materials. Japan asks, why do we do this? We reply that we disapprove the use to which Japan puts these materials—she uses them to make war on China, and to threaten war elsewhere—in general, to practice military aggression all through Eastern Asia.

After many conversations we in effect tell Japan what we hold she must do. What Japan must do is, broadly, stop aggression. It comes down mainly to three steps. Stop making war on China, promise not to move south through Thanlaid toward the Dutch East Indies, promise not to seize part of Siberia from Russia. (Other factors have been introduced in recent negotiations, but the above three are the ones we will fight about, if we fight.)

Are these things sufficient to justify our going to war, assuming Japan does not refrain from them? The answer is yes. Any one of them would be justification.

AS TO CHINA, if Japan continues to fight that country, and conquers it, a great nation disappears, which is important for us to preserve. Further, if Japan conquers China, China comes under the Axis—Japan, Germany and Italy. The Axis covers that much more of the earth, becomes that much more powerful—hence that much more a menace to us.

As to Japan going south, into Thailand and toward the Dutch East Indies—if Japan did that she would hold a kind of a semicircle, half surrounding our Philippines. The Philippines would become much more difficult for us to hold, perhaps impossible to hold. Further, if Japan took the Dutch East Indies, she would control raw materials, important for us and Britain in war, and difficult or impossible to get elsewhere.

As to Siberia, if Japan seizes part of that, she comes very close to our Alaska, and much closer to the United States. Siberia in Russian hands, we do not regard as a menace, because Russia has never been aggressive toward us, in the military sense. But Siberia in the hands of Japan, we would regard as a direct threat. Against the possibility of it, we are energetically setting up defense in Alaska, and otherwise taking defensive measures.

In addition to these specific issues, immediately and directly between us and Japan, there is a broad consideration of which we must take notice.

JAPAN IS frankly out to make herself a power of immense strength, controlling the whole of eastern and southern Asia, consolidating some seven or eight hundred million Asiatics, roughly half the human race. These Japan purposes to weld into a great military power, trained and directed by Japan.

If Japan is allowed to succeed in this, she would become a permanent threat to us, against which we would have to be permanently armed. She could come across the Pacific, almost as far as she chooses. She could take the Philippines from us, and the other Pacific islands from their present owners. Probably she could overcome Australia, with its seven million or so inhabitants. She could take, or constantly threaten our Hawaii. She could penetrate Mexico and South America, certainly by trade, possibly by arms. Certainly she would be, in this and all other respects, a permanent military threat, against which we would need to be constantly and immensely armed. It is not too much to say, that if Japan carries out her plans for making all eastern Asia and the Pacific islands into a consolidated Asiatic empire, a Japanese-headed military power—in that event, the United States would become a second-rate power, in many vital respects at Japan's mercy.

Further yet, Japan is allied with Hitler, even though she is not actively engaged in Hitler's war against Britain. If Japan is permitted to take the steps to which we object, she to that extent helps Hitler, and seriously reduces Britain's sources of supply and military strength. That we should resist Japanese expansion in Asia is part of our commitment to help Britain against Hitler. Japanese control over all east Asia would be part of that world-wide dominion by the Axis and the Nazi ideology which is Hitler's purpose—and which, if it takes place would reduce us to subservience, together with Britain and the other democracies. Threat of that, defense against that, is the reason we arm. Successful defense against that obliges us to take the position we do about Japan.

WILL WAR with Japan come? The answer lies with Japan. We have said we object to her taking certain steps—the most overt ones would be a move south toward the Dutch East Indies, or north into Siberia. If Japan takes either of these steps, it is difficult to see how we could avoid war.

It may be added that the conduct of our relations with Japan by Secretary of State Hull and President Roosevelt is regarded with hearty approval, even by many who in other respects strongly oppose the Administration.

Army Merger Bill Signed

Construction Unity

By John G. Norris

Post Staff Writer

PRESIDENT Roosevelt yesterday signed into law a bill consolidating all military construction under the Army engineers, the first legislative reorganization of the Army since the start of the emergency.

Under the merger, all activities and personnel of the construction division of the Army Quartermaster Corps are to be transferred within the next few days to the Corps of Engineers. It will provide a huge agency employing some 600,000 persons, which officials said will be the world's largest organization.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, Chief of Army Engineers, in a statement yesterday outlining plans for the consolidation, predicted "immediate and long-range gains" in carrying out the $3,500,000 Army construction program, both as to efficiency and in saving money.

THE REORGANIZATION plan was submitted to Congress by Secretary of War Stimson three weeks ago following reoccurring criticism of the Army cantonment construction program.

In both the Senate and House special investigating committees charged the War Department with a failure to make adequate peacetime preparation for a large emergency construction program and with "wasting" money. Army officials replied that they had no funds prior to the emergency for the necessary extensive engineering surveys and contended the excessive cost of the program resulted from the fact that speed took precedence over economy.

Prior to the emergency, all Army post construction was handled by the Quartermaster Corps, with the Corps of Engineers having charge of civilian activity, such as rivers and harbors and flood control work. Then the latter took over from the Quartermasters the construction of all aviation fields and the overseas bases.

UNDER the new law, all Quartermaster Corps functions of maintenance as well as construction at Army posts will be taken over by the Corps of Engineers. This means, officials said, that post utility detachments will pass from Quartermaster to Engineer control. They have charge of roads, electrical and water systems, and all buildings.

Gen. Reybold said that for the present all personnel of the Quartermaster construction division and the Engineers will continue to function exactly as they have in the past. The merger will be effected as soon as possible, but the process of reorganization must not interfere with the progress of Army construction, he stated.

"THIS VAST program," Gen. Reybold, said, "engaged the attention of some 600,000 individuals, including contractors' employes. If we were organized as a corporation, we should be the world's largest. In fact, this merging of functions involves about the same number of persons as might be affected if the United Steel Corporation should decide to combine with the Bell Telephone System."

Brig. Gen. Thomas M. Robins, assistant chief of engineers, will direct the combined construction organizations, Reybold said.

Beyond Words

By Barnet Nover

Action Is Now Called For

SABURO KURUSU, Japan's special envoy to the United States, has been at some pains to explain that the recent speech of the Japanese premier, Gen. Hideki Tojo, had been garbled in translation and was not as violent as the cabled text would lead one to believe.

Whether this was so or not can best be left to experts in semantics. A layman will discover precious little difference between what Gen. Tojo was reported to have said and what, according to Mr. Kurusu, he actually did say, that the Japanese sent reinforcements to Indo-China.

In any event Japanese-American relations have deteriorated to the point where words do not count for very much. If Gen. Tojo had waved an olive branch instead of beating the war drum, if he had addressed the United States in honeyed accents instead of threatening language, that would not have altered the hostile and provocative nature of the moves made by Japan during Gen. Tojo's tenure as premier. That is what matters.

IN THE TEN YEARS that have elapsed since Japan reversed that policy of international collaboration and treaty observance that was ushered in at the time of the Washington conference the area of diplomatic maneuver has steadily shrunk. It is all but gone now. One further move by Japan and the entire Pacific area will be in flames.

Yet the Japanese appear to be on the verge of making that move. No other explanation is possible for the sudden reinforcement, at a time when Ambassador Kurusu was in Washington for the professed purpose of seeking a peaceful way out of the Pacific crisis, of the Japanese garrisons in Indo-China.

When Japan moved into Manchuria in 1931 this action was countered only by verbal protests and legal sanctions on the part of the Western powers.

The attack on China, that began in the summer of 1937, met with even less resistance by the nations committed to the maintenance of the status quo in the Far East. The mood that obtained in London and Washington in those days was one of timorousness. Nothing effective was done to restrain Japan. Instead, through the maintenance of active trade relations with the island empire, the Western democracies provided the Japanese with the necessities of warmaking.

THE PAST YEAR and particularly the last few months have witnessed a noticeable stiffening in the attitude of the United States and Great Britain toward Japan. It has come to be realized in both countries that there is no limit to Japan's ambitions as there is no discoverable limit to the ambitions of Nazi Germany.

World domination is the goal of each. While that might ultimately mean, if each were successful in its own sphere, an inevitable struggle for mastery between the two, the present similarity of aims and objectives by Germany and Japan, the circumstance that they regard the same nations as their common enemies, have drawn the two aggressor states together.

That fact was brought out in the Tripartite pact of last year. It was restated in different form when the Tojo government authorized Japanese adherence to the renewal of the so-called anti-Comintern pact, a document which is little more than a veiled declaration of war against the Western democracies. And it found further and startling confirmation in the large-scale reinforcements sent by Japan to Indo-China during the past fortnight.

IT MUST NOT BE assumed that during the eight months that have elapsed since the present Japanese-American discussions were begun the ABCD powers have been resting on their oars.

That period has seen a steady strengthening of British garrisons in Singapore, Malaya, Burma; a strengthening of Dutch defenses in the East Indies; growing American military and air strength in the Philippines. The combined force which, between them, the United States, Great Britain, the Dutch and the Chinese can muster in the Pacific is such as to make it certain that in the event of a clash in the Pacific a Japanese defeat would be inevitable. A year ago a Japanese thrust to the south might have been successful. It is too late now.

IT IS IN part, no doubt, the awareness of the possibility and even the probability of defeat that helps explain the continuation by Japan of the Washington conversations. The Japanese are not all bereft of sense, they are not all blind to the fact that the odds against a Japanese victory are now well nigh overwhelming. But if these realistic elements have any influence left in Tokyo there is no time for them to lose.

The time for stalling is past.

Either the renewal of the Washington conversations means that Japan is ready to do an about-face in the Far East, or the move was made to provide the Japanese militarists with the additional time needed to build up supplies in Indo-China for a prolonged campaign, give them an opportunity to see which way the international winds are blowing.

If the first is true, Japan must prove it by her actions. If not, no stone should be left unturned in making it clear to Tokyo that a further Japanese move south will meet with the full and combined resistance of the ABCD bloc. The time for words has ended. The hour of decision has arrived.

Majority of British Voters in Favor Of Compulsory Conscription of Women

By Dr. George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Special Dispatch to The Post

London, Dec. 2.—Compulsory conscription of women in Britain, a step provided in the conscription bill now before the British Parliament, is approved in principle by a substantial majority of British public opinion. The voters approve not only compelling women to serve in the auxiliary forces, but a surprising number—more than one-fourth—actually believe women should be allowed to become fighting members of the armed forces.

Such is the evidence from a series of polls of public opinion by the British Institute of Public Opinion, affiliate of the American Institute, conducted just before the debate on the conscription bill opened in Parliament. Under existing legislation, service of women in the various branches of war work is purely voluntary; the new bill would make it compulsory.

The British public's attitude on conscription is clearly understandable in the light of earlier studies of public opinion, which revealed in November that only 27 per cent of British voters were satisfied with the government's handling of the problem of man and woman power.

The latest surveys show the following results.

"Would you approve or disapprove of the government compelling women to join the women's auxiliary forces?"

|---|---|
| Approve | 55% |
| Disapprove | 35 |
| Undecided | 10 |

"Would you approve or disapprove of allowing women to become fighting members of the armed forces?"

Reports are current that at the present time a limited number of women are used in the fighting services, chiefly in antiaircraft gun emplacements. While they do no actual firing, it is reported that women have been found to excel men in the handling of complicated mechanical instruments and range finders.

The survey shows that women are more anxious than men to allow feminine fighters in the armed forces. Whereas only 22 per cent of men favored the idea, 28 per cent of women voted to allow members of their sex to become active combatants in the armed forces.

One month ago a substantial number of British voters polled by the British Institute felt that Britain was not taking full advantage of the German attack on Russia.

The launching of the British offensive in Libya, however, has caused a change in sentiment, as revealed in the following comparison:

"Do you feel that Britain has taken or has not taken full advantage of the opportunities offered by the German attack on Russia?"

Restrictions Against Jews Are Tightened by Vichy

By Lansing Warren

Copyright by New York Times

Vichy, Dec. 2.—"In order to eliminate all Jewish influence in the national economy" and to make the laws of the occupied and unoccupied zones conform, the government today published a number of modifications in the statute of the Jews in France.

The changes include the addition of several professions which Jews can no longer exercise, the prohibition for Jews to own buildings other than those in which they live and exercise their trades, and the creation of a general union of Israelites to which all Jews must belong and which will have charge of all their dealings with the government.

A special status for the Jews was established by the statute of the Jews issued in October, 1940. It differed considerably from and was less stringent than the laws put into effect in occupied territory.

Then, in June this year, the new high commissioner for Jewish questions, M. Xavier Vallat, revised the statute making it much more severe after a study of the Jewish laws in occupied territory and in other parts of Europe.

The second alteration announced today brings the statute into conformity with the general lines of the laws put into effect by the Germans in the occupied zone.

"Political, Not Religious, Question"

Commenting on the most recent changes, Vallat in Paris today said that the government, in the light of experience, had rapidly become convinced of the necessity of barring Jews from certain professions.

"Marshal Petain's government, however," he said, "regards the Jewish problem as one of foreigners and of politics but not as a religious question."

The commissioner said that there were 300,000 Jews in France at the beginning of 1939 and that of that number 55 per cent were foreigners. In North Africa, the Jewish population numbers approximately 360,000. Recent laws have extended the majority of the Jewish regulations to Algeria although there are certain differences owing to the special conditions obtaining there.

All Must Join Union

All Jews will have to join the new general union of Israelites and they will pay dues in accordance with their financial capacities. All other Jewish organizations will be dissolved with the exception of the religious cults. Property of the dissolved organizations will be transferred to the union. The union is placed under the supervision and control of the general commissioner for Jewish questions.

Under the Jewish statute to date Jews have been barred from the government administrations, the army, the news, radio, press and amusement industries, from banking and from numerous types of commerce, so that they had little open to them except farming, manual trades and intellectual activities restricted to those of a purely scientific nature. Today's modification adds to the forbidden list—insurance, shipbuilding, livestock dealings, the commerce in paintings and antiquities, and professions giving an opportunity for speculation.

Another change in the law provides that Jews can own only buildings in which they or their descendants reside or buildings in which they exercise their business such as, for example, farmhouses. Other buildings owned by Jews will be placed in the hands of provisional managers and will be sold.

Draft Men of Metal, Rep. Young Urges

Representative Young (Democrat), Ohio, has a novel idea for helping defense.

"There are in this country," he said, "90,000 statues and memorials to men on horseback, soldiers, sailors, politicians and occasions. Some of these are very terrible. Here are nearly one million tons of metal. Why not use some of it for national defense?"

Winter Renews Demand for REA Probe As Rankin Blasts Copper Hoarding Charge

By C. P. Trussell

Copyright by New York Times

Attacked from the House floor for charging that the Rural Electrification Administration was hoarding many millions of pounds of copper, despite defense needs for this metal, which could not be used for two years, Representative Winter, of Kansas, yesterday renewed his call for a Congressional investigation of that agency.

Meanwhile, the Supply, Priority and Allocations Board of the OPM discussed the allegations at its weekly meeting but announced no conclusions. However, it was intimated that the board would make a statement later.

Winter's charge was answered yesterday by Representative John E. Rankin, chairman of the public power group in the House, who called it the most vicious and unjustified attack "yet made upon Rural Electrification."

Copper Not REA's

The copper, Mr. Rankin said he had been advised, was owned, not by REA, but by a contractor building a transmission line that would utilize electric power made from East Texas gas wells. Defense priorities on other essential materials, he said, were delaying prosecution of the project.

Mr. Rankin made his rebuttal after having received a letter from Harry Slattery, REA administrator.

"The private power industry," said Mr. Rankin, "has used this copper to mislead the Congress and the public about the REA and its program in the hope that they can use the defense emergency to stop the progress of this program and to give the power trust a throttle hold on the systems already in existence."

Mr. Slattery, in his letter, denied that "millions and millions of pounds" of copper had been unloaded onto the Texas fields. There was, he stated, one million pounds, which Sandberg and Johnston, a Hampton (Iowa) contracting firm, had ordered last July 29, before the OPM placed priorities on that metal.

"The copper," Administrator Slattery wrote, "has never been hoarded or hidden, it has been in plain sight all the while."

Winter asserted later he had just learned "that copper is being stored in the same way at the Bonneville project."

Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, pronounced the Winter charges of hoarded copper "refuted," and said:

"The Rural Electrification Administration will cooperate in every possible way with the defense program. To do otherwise would be unthinkable in this period of national emergency.

"In this connection I do not feel that REA should undertake the construction of new transmission lines while the existing scarcity of copper continues—unless the new lines are of a defense nature.

"On the other hand, I do not feel that private utilities—many of which have large inventories of copper—meanwhile, should be allowed to sabotage REA and preempt the rural field which they neglected for so long a time."

Poor Revolting, Townsend Tells Senate Hearing

By the Associated Press

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old age pension advocate, told the Senate Finance Committee yesterday that a political revolution was beginning in this country which could be halted only by drastic revision of the Government's attitude toward the needy.

Urging the levying of a gross income tax to meet the cost of larger old age pensions, Townsend called the Social Security Act a farce and said that destitution was increasing among the aged.

"You can't expect loyalty to a Government by people who have nothing," Townsend declared.

Dr. Marjorie Shearon, social science analyst for the Public Health Service, testified that four-fifths of the persons over 60 years old were not now receiving sufficient income to maintain themselves in decency and health.

Ordnance Plant Contractor Blames High Cost On 'Inadequate' Plans of War Department

By the Associated Press

Contractors building the Government shell-loading plant at Milan, Tenn., blamed "inadequate" War Department construction plans yesterday for the increase in cost of the project above Army ordnance estimates.

H. K. Ferguson, head of the H. K. Ferguson Construction Co., of Cleveland, denounced, however, repeated "insinuations" before the Senate Defense Investigating Committee that contractors have spent $51,000,000 on a job estimated to cost $21,000,000.

Ferguson's company is associated with the Oman Construction Co., of Nashville, Tenn., in construction of the Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant and an adjoining storage depot for high explosives at Milan.

He said the ordnance plant was 96 per cent complete and would be finished by January 1, far ahead of four similar plants started earlier.

Of the 51 million dollars spent, only 39 million dollars would be chargeable to operations by the contractor, he said, and this increase was "clearly due" to constant expansion of plans.

"At the time we were given the contract the first of January, nobody, even in the Ordnance Department, knew exactly what we were to build," Ferguson said.

The first actual estimate, on which the original fee of 3¾ per cent was allowed the contractors, he said, was slightly above eight million dollars plus approximately three million dollars for equipment.

"For instance," he said, "early estimates were for 45 miles of railroad when 67 miles were required, and where 82 storage depots were planned, actually 216 were required for storage of high explosives."

"We have actually spent, as of November 15, 23 million dollars on the ordnance plant and $6,236,000 on the depot, the latter 50 per cent complete," Ferguson said.

Included in the expenditures, he said, were $2,950,000 for road construction; one million dollars for railroad, and $2,159,000 for storage buildings. He said the first estimate called for $333,000 for roads.

Ferguson said he was confident an "overall appraisal" would show that "no money was wasted," considering the competitive price in effect for the period, heavy overtime payments to speed construction and general conditions, including weather.

Truman Unit To Probe Plaint Of Welders

Complaints by representatives of welding unions that they are being subjected to a multiple union card "racket" by the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. will be probed by the Truman Defense Investigating Committee at a public hearing tomorrow, committee officials announced last night.

Representatives of the welders and OPM, possibly Sidney Hillman, associate director general in charge of the labor division, will be asked to testify. The hearing was authorized by Senator Truman (Democrat), of Missouri, after he examined a brief prepared by the welders which enumerated their complaints.

The hearing is being held because of the feeling that "the facts warrant a full and open hearing," a committee spokesman said.

The hearing is expected to resemble in many respects the recent hearing on the Currier Lumber Co. case, where it was charged that a low-bidding C. I. O. contractor was deprived of a contract to build defense homes because the A. F. L. objected to the award.

The welders have charged that Hillman "sold us out" to the A. F. L. by arranging a "one-card" plan which they claim the federation has refused to follow. They charge that welders are still being compelled to join a number of A. F. L. craft unions to insure themselves steady work on defense projects, and that welders involved in recent protest strikes are receiving discriminatory treatment from the A. F. L.

Bolt Kills Hog, 'Bakes' 2000 Bu. Of Md. Potatoes

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 2 (AP).—The unseasonable weather that has been prevailing in this section was emphasized today by a thunderstorm in which 2,000 bushels of potatoes were "baked" and a hog killed by a lightning bolt.

Jack Raynor, operator of a farm near here, said lightning hit the roof of an outbuilding in which the potatoes were stored, then traveled a wire inclosed pen where the hog was quartered.

Firemen were called to extinguish fire that broke out on the roof of the outbuilding. A heavy rain, lasting about an hour, accompanied the storm.

3 Road Projects Bids Asked in Md.

Baltimore, Dec. 2 (AP).—The State roads commission advertised today for bids on three projects, including construction of two-thirds mile of access roadway leading to the north end of the Sandy Hook bridge.

In addition, the commission asked for bids on a Cecil County job of seeding and landscaping nearly 5 miles of the park area along New Philadelphia road, near Northeast. All bids are to be opened December 16.

Construction is underway on the substructure for the Sandy Hook bridge, part of a $2,150,000 tristate highway program, involving Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. The commission now is receiving bids on the superstructure including the roadway and railings—estimated to cost approximately $500,000.

'Count' Indicted on Fraud Charges

Tomadelli Involved In Paintings' Sale, Lighting Firm Stock

Suave, orchid-fancying "Count" Juan J. Tomatelli, otherwise known as Ivan Stanich, was indicted by the District grand jury yesterday on charges of using the mails to defraud, following a year's investigation of the "count's" colorful career and financial dealings by the FBI.

A total of 12 counts were returned in two indictments against the 55-year-old art connoisseur—enough to put him in jail for 60 years should he be found guilty. He was taken into custody a few days ago by deputy United States marshals, and released on $15,000 bond.

The first indictment charged Tomadelli with fraudulently obtaining cash through the sale of interests in an alleged "electric light" patent, a scheme by which power for lighting fixtures was to be obtained by drawing electrons from the air. The second alleges that the "count" sought to interest several top-flight Hollywood and Broadway figures in purchasing his collection of so-called "old masters," a group of paintings which he has termed priceless, but which have been previously evaluated by G-men at a total of $315.

The "bottled sunshine" indictment involves an 18-year "business" career with New Jersey residents, and is reported by Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly to involved upward of $500,000.

Tomadelli, who served the Italian government as a propagandist in Argentina during the World War, is accused of having represented to clients that the government was about to purchase 300 million dollars worth of his electron-powered lamps.

Patents, government transactions and electric companies are all bogus, according to the indictment.

In the masterpiece-peddling indictment the "count" is charged with trying to get Earl Carroll, Edward G. Robinson and other theater and cinema leading lights to secure buyers for his art collection. The paintings were seized by G-men last January during a raid on his swank Shoreham Hotel apartment, where Tomadelli raised 18 varieties of rare orchids in the bedroom.

Fihelly, who will head the prosecution of the "count," said that each of the 12 counts on which he is indicted can carry a maximum penalty of five years in the event that a jury finds the fashionable "nobleman" guilty.

Careworn Parents Visit Hoback at Jail

Special Dispatch to The Post

Leesburg, Va., Dec. 2.—Looking careworn and toil-hardened, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hoback, of Bluefield, W. Va., arrived in Leesburg this morning to see their son, Paul Bernard Hoback, 16, who is held in the Leesburg jail for the robbery and slaying of Ward Loveless, Washington attorney and Loudoun County squire.

The boy was brought to the clerk's office adjoining the courthouse and the three were given a private room for the conference, which lasted 15 minutes.

According to police attending, the parents met their son without an outward sign of emotion. They parted with him likewise, but seemed to be saddened by the experience. The Hobacks then went to Commonwealth's Attorney Charles F. Harrison's office.

Mrs. Hoback was dressed in black and is young looking to be the mother of eight children. Paul, she said, is her fifth child. Hoback said: "We are going to do all we can for our boy. We haven't decided yet as to our lawyer. We are all very sorry for all this."

The Hobacks met State Senator Aubrey Weaver later for a short conference but it was not disclosed whether Senator Weaver would defend the boy. He has been employed as the defense counsel of Herbert (Buck) Porter, of Brentwood, Md., who is being held in the Winchester jail, also for the Loveless murder. Weaver left for Washington after saying "arrangements have not been made at this time for Hoback's defense."

A joint indictment against the two boys, charging them with murder in the first degree, will be presented to the regular grand jury, which will meet December 8. The docket is crowded for this term of court, said the prosecuting attorney, but he expects to try the case at this term.

M. P. Tells Of British Social Plans

Nation Works Toward Social Reforms, Despite Conflict, Newspaperwomen Told

By Lucia Giddens

Britain is building social reforms while fighting the war—"fighting with the right hand and building with the left hand," Mrs. Beatrice Clough Rathbone, second American-born woman to sit in the British Parliament, told the Woman's National Press Club yesterday.

More children in Britain now have milk in the schools than ever before, and more have well-balanced meals, she said. There is greater attention to women's welfare in factories, she pointed out.

The rate of deaths in London from contagious diseases was lowered last winter, Mrs. Rathbone said.

The young M. P., widow of a Royal Air Force officer who was killed in bombing operations over Germany, arrived in the United States last week. She will spend Christmas in this country with her two children whom she had not seen in two years.

Pointing out that after the last war there was talk of building again "what we had before," Mrs. Rathbone said in the current war "you never hear that." Instead people are saying "we're going to build something new," she said.

She quoted a recent remark that "women are undoubtedly Britain's secret weapon." She then outlined what the British housewife is doing in caring for her family, trying to give them a balanced diet and to preserve normality in daily life under war conditions.

Several women members of Congress and wives of British officials in Washington were seated at the speaker's table at the luncheon at the Willard Hotel.

Miss Caroline Haslett, who is adviser on women's work in industry, to the minister of labor in England, spoke briefly.

She pointed out that all young women between 20 and 30 years of age have been registered, and that recently restrictions have been tightened. Unless they have families, they must work in factories, in auxiliary service with the army or air force, or on the land, she said.

Miss Haslett said she has just returned from the Middle West, which I had been told was an unfriendly part of the country."

"But I came back with lots of silk stockings," and she was sent lemons when it was learned that she had been doing without them in London, she said.

Mrs. Esther Van Wagoner Tufty, president of the club, presided and introduced the guests, who included Representative Jessie Sumner, of Illinois; Representative Frances Bolton, of Ohio, and Representative Margaret Chase Smith, of Maine.

Tunis May Go Over to British, Lecturer Says

If the British sweep through the Italian colony of Libya and reach the frontier of Tunisia, the French colonial army in North Africa will break with Vichy and will join the British, Raoul Aglion, author of "War in the Desert," predicted yesterday in the closing program of the Near East lecture series at the Shoreham Hotel.

Aglion, formerly in the French diplomatic service, now an advocate of the Free French movement, predicted success for the British campaign in the Near East.

He emphasized that a big advance or loss of ground in the desert means little, but that the capture of men, material or water supply is strategic. Aglion came to the United States last February to write and lecture.

On the same program Dr. Walter C. Lowdermilk, assistant chief, Soil Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture, spoke on "The Struggle for Power in the Near East."

He based his talk on his recent first-hand study of the use of the land in those countries. Pointing out that the Near East is the junction of three continents, he stressed its strategic position.

Much of its land, except in Egypt, is in a run-down condition, he said. He pointed out the Jewish agricultural colonies in Palestine as a "beacon light" for a way of putting people and land to constructive work. He described the transformation of these areas through the draining of marshes, the improvement of agriculture, and the establishment of cooperatives.

Mrs. Barnet Nover presided and introduced the speakers. Mrs. Raymond Clapper is chairman of the series which drew an attendance of approximately 800 clubwomen to each of the six lectures.

Latin-American Products Studied By Club Women

International relations chairmen from organizations in the Prince Georges County Federation of Women's Clubs held an "Inter-American Round Table" yesterday at the Pan American Union to study products from the Latin American countries.

Mrs. M. F. Peters, the federation's chairman of international relations, was in charge of the meeting, with Mrs. F. Charles Morey, State chairman, as guest speaker. Paul W. Murphy, chief of special events at the union, guided the group on a tour of the buildings and told legends connected with the plants growing in the patio.

An exhibit of early cooking utensils, used by Indians, and also a display of woven tablecloths were seen by the visitors.

The clubwomen are making a study of Latin American food products available to the United States, and of recipes from those countries.

Honor Society Of Auxiliary To Give Dance

The sixteenth anniversary of the local Eight and Forty, honor society of the American Legion, will be celebrated at a testimonial dinner dance Saturday at 7 p. m. at the Legion Clubhouse, 2437 Fifteenth Street Northwest.

Special guests invited include Gen. and Mrs. Frank T. Hines, Capt. and Mrs. Watson B. Miller, Department Commander Heywood Saunders, Grand Chef de Gare Richard O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Malloy, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Arnold and C. Francis McCarthy, department vice commander of the American Legion.

Mrs. Irene Arnold has been accorded the honors of a past chapeau and will be presented with the insignia of that office by Mrs. Virginia McCarthy, chapeau departmental. Mrs. Arnold will present the birthday cake for the occasion.

Mrs. Ellen Louise Warren, chapeau national passe, will present, on behalf of the salon, a life membership certificate to Mrs. Mary K. Killeen, Gold Star Mother.

Arrangements for the dinner dance have been made by Mrs. Marie Totten, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Helen Hetzer, vice chairman; Mrs. Janet McRae, Mrs. Helen Ware, Mrs. Claire Smithson, Mrs. Alice Slattery and Mrs. Mae Hart.

The following new members have been received by the local salon; Mrs. Eva B. Carrico, Mrs. Pauline B. Chambers, Mrs. Lucille T. Cuney, Mrs. Pearl Heagerty, Mrs. Carrie M. Kiser, Mrs. Laura Lipscomb, Mrs. Della E. Rocca and Mrs. Frances Snow.

Bazaar at All Souls' To Open Tomorrow

The bazaar to be given by the Rector's Aid Society of All Souls' Church on Cathedral Avenue will open at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Guests will be welcomed by the Rector and Mrs. H. H. D. Sterrett, Mrs. Wayne Wirgman, general chairman, and chairmen of units, including Mrs. Daniel H. Fowler, Miss Ethyl Clarke, Mrs. Christopher S. Sargent, Mrs. John W. Burke and Mrs. Charles Martin.

Others assisting include Mrs. William Quinter, Mrs. S. R. Broadbent, Mrs. Paul Henderson, Mrs. Clifford Bangs, Mrs. H. C. Whitehurst, Mrs. H. R. Kerslake, Mrs. George T. Dunlop, Miss Clara Lane Wessells, Miss Pauline Block, Mrs. Warren Grimes, Mrs. Harry Grove, Mrs. Huntington Turner, Mrs. Thomas T. Howerton, and Mrs. J. Robert Grove.

French Group to Hear Recital, See Movies

Mme. Mina Druhilet and Mlle. Juliette de la Norlais will be hostesses to the Circle of Precieuses Ridicules tonight at 8:30 at the Universalist Church, Sixteenth and S Streets Northwest. Highlights of the program will be a piano recital by Mlle. de la Norlais and movies taken recently in Brazil, according to an announcement by Mrs. Camille Hindmarsh, president of the club.

The Circle, one of Washington's oldest French groups, holds semi-weekly meetings, conducted in French, on music, plays and stories in the Gallic tradition.

Flower Show Planned

A flower show of arrangements suitable for Christmas decorations will be presented at the monthly meeting of the Garden Club of Chevy Chase, Md., today at the home of Mrs. Charles G. Ross, in Kenwood. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Richard D. Stimson, Mrs. John A. Selby, Mrs. Philip E. Bradley, and Mrs. Herbert H. Moffett.

Puerto Rico Club To Hear Address By Vizcarrondo

Francisco Vizcarrondo, of San Juan, Puerto Rico, who is here on a special mission, will address the Puerto Rican American Women's League on "Conditions in Puerto Rico," following a luncheon at 12:15 at the Shoreham Hotel today.

Mr. Vizcarrondo, a lawyer, is secretary of the Puerto Rican Civic League. Jose Blondet, of San Juan, will also be a guest at the luncheon which is in charge of Mrs. Thomas Cajigas.

Senora Mario Julia, president of the league, who will preside at the luncheon, will talk on "Puerto Rico's Problems," on Nelle Van D. Smith's program over WWDC at 10:45 a. m. today.

The organization, which is non-political, seeks to promote better understanding between the island and the mainland. Officers recently elected for the year are: First vice president, Mrs. E. Horton; second vice president, Mrs. William Walter Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. H. Russell Bishop; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. A. Short; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Karpman; treasurer, Mrs. William Perricelli; registrar, Mrs. Henry Lewis; librarian, Mrs. Paul Stawinsky; parliamentarian, Mrs. Theodore H. Tiller; legal adviser, Mrs. Frank Buckley; social chairman, Mrs. Tomas Cajigas.

D. A. R. Unit To Aid Servicemen

Dorothy Hancock Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution voted at its meeting yesterday to omit its January luncheon and to give the fund for that purpose to a holiday dinner for servicemen.

Capt. William L. Clemens, public relations officer of District civilian defense, spoke at the chapter's luncheon yesterday at Columbia Country Club. Mrs. Samuel S. Spruce, regent, presided.

Wellesley Club Will Hear Parley Reports

A report on last week's conference on "Public Discussion Methods" will feature the meeting of the Washington Wellesley Club at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of Miss Alice Richardson, 3120 Newark St. The club's delegates will give their impressions of the conference, of which Mrs. Bernard Chandler, president of the Washington Wellesley Club, was chairman.

In addition, Mrs. Bernard Hearn will review "One Red Rose Forever," by Mildred Jordan, a Wellesley graduate.

AAUW Poetry Judges Named

Three judges have been named for the ninth annual poetry contest conducted by the Washington Branch of the American Association of University Women for undergraduates in local colleges, it was announced yesterday.

They are Mrs. Paul Kirby, Paul Oehser and Miss Lesley Frost. The chairman, Mrs. Kirby, has recently published a book of verse and is a former winner of first prize in the A. A. U. W. contest. Mr. Oehser, a member of the staff of the Smithsonian Institution, is a book reviewer and author of poems. Miss Frost, daughter of the poet, Robert Frost, is herself an author of several books.

Miss Ruth Evelyn Henderson, chairman of the contest committee, announced that January 9 is the closing date for entries, with the judges' decision to be made February 12.

Rector's Wife Gives Yule Talk

Mrs. C. Leslie Glenn, wife of the rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square, spoke on "Christmas, 1941," at the meeting of the Takoma Park Women's Club yesterday at the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Wilbur H. Youngman, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Members of the club's choral group formed a surpliced choir for the singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. Henry E. Ewing was chairman of hostesses for the luncheon, and Mrs. Walter P. Duffy, assistant chairman.

Zonta Group to Have Christmas Party

Members of the Washington Zonta Club will be informally entertained tomorrow at an "around the world" Christmas party by Mrs. Homer Guerry and Miss Caroline Longfellow, who is a member of the local club, at their home.

Mrs. Guerry and Miss Longfellow spent several years in Europe, particularly in France, from which country Miss Longfellow received a special decoration for her contributions to one of its hospitals for children during the last war. From their visit aboard Mrs. Guerry and Miss Longfellow brought pictures, paintings and art objects. One of the features of the party will be Mrs. Guerry's mantel which will be decorated with Christmas ornaments gathered from the various countries she visited.

By candlelight and the open fire, Christmas carols will be sung and stories of Christmas in many lands, including France, Holland, Italy, Spain, Germany and China, will be told by members of the club.

Looks, Talent and Brains Needed in Beauty Race

Ned Wayburn Tells How Judges Make Their Choice

By Ida Jean Kain

WHAT YOU 'een-age girls apparently want most in this world is to be pretty. This may shock you. But even in a beauty contest beauty is no longer enough. And the training that wins the hypercritical approval of the Atlantic City judges would make any girl the center of attraction in her home town.

For this inside story of what it takes to win fame and fortune I consulted Ned Wayburn. Mr. Wayburn has helped pick beauties in the national sweepstakes for so long—35 years in all, and during 15 of them he was Flo iZegfeld's manager—that he is now called the dean of the judges.

"The day of the beautiful but dumb is finished," Mr. Wayburn told me emphatically. "Besides looks and talent of an unusual order, a girl must have brains, poise, good manners, a pleasing voice—all the points that add up to a charming personality. And then she must be willing to work hard and to keep so fit that she can work as hard as necessary without affecting her health and looks."

Rosemary LaPlanche, Miss America for 1941, proves the assertion of Ned Wayburn, that beauty judges look for a live face as well as a trim ankle

Frances Marie Burke, Miss America for 1940, is another example of a beauty entrant whose expression and personality helped her win the title

Can't Be Faked

None of those things can be faked. In fact, nothing can be faked. Seven of this year's contestants thought to improve on their natural beauty by wearing built-in-and-up brassieres. Nobody was the wiser for two days. Then the chaperons tumbled to the secret and a word to the baffled but chivalrous judges disqualified the young ladies from any consideration. Nothing was said to them and they continued appearing in the events. Unless they read this they will probably never know how well their secret was known.

It should be heartening to the majority of you to learn that Mr. Wayburn thinks above average height unnecessary except for fashion modeling. He looks for fine bony structure and symmetrical proportions. For camera work the figure must be ultra-streamlined and the carriage so perfect that the appearance is charming from every angle of view.

Ankles Come Last

"I look first at the face and last at the ankle," this star picker says. "My only measurement standard is that the circumference of the throat equal that of the calf. If the throat measures 13 inches, the calf should measure the same."

If you spend too muc time as a wallflower, it is probably because you are a clumsy dancer—someting which, Mr. Wayburn promises, can be corrected by learning the simple mechanics of shifting your weight. Here is an exercise he teaches:

Stand erect, heels together, knees together, toes turned out, and arms relaxed and down. Have weight equally distributed on both feet and also equally distrbuted between ball and heel of each foot. Now, practice, practice, practice, until you master the art of shifting entire weight from one foot to the other, back and forth. Then shift from heels to toes, forward and back, back and forth. Then shift from heels to toes, forward and back in a rocking movement. To stand gracefully, make a point of carrying the hands relaxed and down at sides with the little finger just about where the side crease would be in your slacks. And when you sit (Mr. Wayburn drills this point into girls who become stars!), sit with wiith the small of the back pressed flat against chairback and the spin touching chair all the way up!

Mary Haworth's Mail

Wife's Happiness in Marriage Is Rudely Jolted When Husband Spends Series of Nights Away From Home; Should She Forgive Him or Leave?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married nearly five years—and they have been five very happy years for me. Both my husband and I are employed in the Government service. It so happens that I work on a "late shift," getting home around 1:30 a. m., whereas my husband works during the day, getting home around 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. This means that our only opportunity for real companionship has been on Saturdays and Sundays.

During the last couple of weeks, my husband's behavior has been so changed that I am greatly worried. As I have not been very well, I have tried not to worry; but I just can't help it. Friday night he went out and did not return until Monday morning. In general recently, he has been getting home between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. And when I asked (as I several times have), whether I had done anything to make him wish to stay away from home, he said, "No," that he was "just out."

Now, after another discussion of his irregular behavior, he says he "has made a mistake" and that he is "sorry." He has asked my forgiveness. As yet, I have not given his an answer. And I would like your advice before stating my position. I thought at one time that I would leave him, if he continued to stay out all hours. Do you think I would have been acting fairly, in doing so? I shall appreciate your immediate reply. WORRIED WIFE.

Leniency Toward Mate Is Social Virtue

DEAR W. W.: Since your husband admits his "mistake" and asks to be forgiven, and since this is his first-time lapse from acceptable husbandly behavior, it seems to me you would be best advised to act promptly and generously to heal the breach. In dealing wisely with her husband's sometimes erratic, mystifying and disappointing behavior, it is seldom that a wife can be too lenient—provided that he is, in the main, a considerate, dependable, cooperative partner in double harness.

Remember: "To err is human; to forgive, divine." Bear in mind, also, that nothing is to be gained in this crisis by keeping your husband "in the dog house," while the mood is strong in him to redeem himself in your eyes; and that, indeed, a "believing" response on your part is the surest means of encouraging and stabilizing his "reform," in the event he does sincerely repent his misconduct. And don't overlook the fact that his fortnight's rampage, during which he has been "playing hookey" from marriage, can only be construed as evidence that he feels a need of more love, understanding, companionship and sharet recreation than his piece-meal association with you has afforded.

In this connection, one wonders how wisely you have invested the limited leisure time you could share with your husband. The fact that you "have not been very well"—which seems significant to you only in that it has aggravated your tendency to worry about his irregular absences—suggests that you may have devoted more of your leisure to nursing your ailments than to nurturing his contentment. And while one would not deny you the right to take care of your health (when it needs attention), it is well known that a chronically ailing woman heads the list of most men's "pet aversions."

In view of your conflicting workaday assignments, which leave you so little time to be together, it was imperative that you be a fond, merry and congenial companion when with him; wholeheartedly and enthusiastically interested in all things which interest him—in order to keep his spirit ever turning to you, in happy expectation of satisfying affection, understanding, encouragement and uplift. If you have been out of reach for the most part, and apathetically self-engrossed when available, this situation naturally would bring him to a mood of sullen frustration, that would erupt, eventually, in some such performance as recently given.

No doubt he has been "having a fling" with some other woman whose sympathetic response to his needs of companionship has been inversely commensurate with your long-time vague inattention to his restless state of mind or nerves. And now, for various reasons—not the least of which, I am sure, is the fact that he loves you—he is suddenly sorry for having "bolted out of line," and eager to "get back in the traces," and go on with the marriage, if you will meet him halfway in that worthy endeavor.

In fairness to yourself, as well as to him—since you were happy in the marriage until this storm blew up—I think you should agree to "let bygones be bygones," and chart the next lap of your journey together. However, you should take profit from what has happened, by correcting (insofar as possible) the "trouble spots" that brought it about. First of all, for instance, see about getting a transfer (one or the other of you) that will allow you to "pool" your leisure. Secondly, attend to your health, so that you will be in good form and high spirits for recreational pursuits.

Thirdly, don't take for granted that what suits you suits your husband, also. There are few soulmates in this world. Study your man. Get to know his real needs, of a social and emotional kind, and see that they are met—through you. And studying your man, by the way, doesn't mean taking his word for what he thinks he wants. It means analyzing his reactions to various situations and drawing your own deductions—which you probably will find astonishingly different from what he claims to be the truth about himself. M. H.

New Booklets Offer Guidance On Proper Diet

If you get confused over your calories and vitamins when ordering a meal, you have only to consult the new pocket guides issued for "calorie counters" and "vitamin hunters." These booklets may be whipped out of your handbag in restaurant or cafeteria and studied along with the menu lists.

In the "Calorie Counter" guide are listed 322 foods and drinks and their calorie counts by simple measure. For example, as many as 20 different kinds of cake are listed. The "Vitamin Hunter" gives the kinds of vitamins found in 244 different foods, also analyzes the properties each kind of vitamin has. Both booklets present in capsule form general advice by physicians and nutritionists on balancing meals, on achieving and maintaining the right weight and on getting the maximum of energy from foods eaten.

The booklets, published by Stubbs & Montgomery, are on sale at several local stores.

Actress Tells How to Be Chic Though Stout

Has Asset of Cheer

By Jane Driscoll
The Post Fashion Editor

IF YOU are a "stylish stout" endowed too lavishly with height and weight, stop worrying. You may have more to capitalize on than many an "average" woman.

This is the advice of Actress Nina Varela, who admits without rancor that she is built on generous proportions. Despite this, she wears chic clothes, has good times and plenty of boy friends.

Miss Varela is currently starring here as the Grand Duchess Anastasia in the musical comedy production, "The Student Prince." She is a perfect example of her belief that the "stylish stout" has a place in the world. As the "Duchess" she could not have looked like the clinging vine type, so her 200 pounds was a point in her favor.

Next to always wearing a smile, Miss Varela considers well selected clothes the most important factor in the success (socially or otherwise) of the stout woman. This jolly songstress is frank about her figure characteristics and has her clothes made with certain bulges in mind.

A jolly smile and chic clothes are the best assets of the large woman, according to Actress Nina Varela. Although weighing 200 pounds and over 6 feet tall, she carries herself well and draws friends to her because of her happy disposition

Doesn't Try to Look Petite

While she does not try to look diminutive, Miss Varela emphasizes proper corseting for giving a neat, trim line. "The average stout woman," she points out, "has a heavy bust. Often she tries to squeeze herself into a brassiere that she thinks will do something for her and consequently is so uncomfortable she can hardly breathe." Miss Varela has found it successful to wear a short type of brassiere having a lace top with the lower part of elasticized satin.

"A large woman invariably has a broad neck and a double chin," says the singer. She suggests round built-up necklines and ruffles to hide the double chin. Wimple-type draped hats with folds under the chin also help. And since a stout woman's face is usually full, turbans or large dressy hats are also advised. "The full-faced woman should seldom wear a small brimmed hat," cautioned Miss Varela.

While a stout woman may have a moderate-sized arm below the elbow, the upper arm is usually large, according to Miss Varela. At the armhole, especially, such a woman needs shirred, leg o' mutton or dolman type sleeves.

Jewelry Must Be Plain

Plump hands are also a characteristic figure trait of the large woman. For this reason, Miss Varela suggests no jewelry at all, unless it is the massive kind. "Small jewelry of any kind is lost on the large woman," she says.

Miss Varela advises plain, straight unbelted lines for the bodice top of a blouse or dress in most cases. Since many large women have a tendency to be slightly swayback, however, a belt in back helps to fill out the figure.

Hips also need to be concealed, and Miss Varela has found a way to do this. Although she is a stickler for black in most instances, she believes that any color worn at all should be in the bodice. She has found that this combination of a light colored bodice with a black skirt, slightly flared, makes hips look slimmer.

Miss Varela emphasizes that the large woman always ought to buy the 36-inch stocking with an elasticized top for the extra width above her knee. Since legs and ankles are very often normal in proportion, shoes are not so great a problem. The singer wears low heels for walking during the day and high Cuban heels for dress. She cautions against the wearing of high French heels because they give a tottery appearance. Handbags should be kept large, too, in keeping with the appearance of stability.

Hand-Made Gift For Christmas

NO EVERYDAY pot holder—a merry bird cage with its yellow songsters appliqued to a blue background!

Make him in sets to give away for Christmas and you'll be tops with your housekeeping friends. Both cutting and sewing are done quickly.

For Mr. Canary you have an actual size pattern. Cut your bird out of a piece of heavy percale—but cut him slightly larger than the pattern, for his edges will need to be turned under before he's appliqued.

To do this turning-under neatly and easily, crease the percale over stiff paper which you've cut the size and shape of the finished bird.

Now applique the percale bird to the front of your pot holder. Both front and back can be shaped from two pieces of percale each about 7½ inches square.

And there's still time to make a spicy pomander ball to scent your favorite friend's closet! All you need are an orange, a box of cloves and some pastel ribbon. Or for a smoking friend make a set of decorated match boxes that look like tiny books. Odds and ends of cloth and paper will do the trick!

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, "New Ideas for Handmade Gifts," to the NEW YORK OFFICE of The Washington Post, Home Institute, 109 West Nineteenth Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

He has never been known to wash a dish without leaving a trace of egg or a rim of sugar on it.

Every time he goes into the kitchen alone, feminine members of his household hold their breath waiting for the inevitable crash of dishes or rattle of pans.

He never has an encounter with the ink bottle without getting a substantial part of its contents on the desk, his hands or even his suit.

He gallantly insists on opening or adjusting any delicate bottle, can or contraption his wife happens to be struggling with, and ends up by breaking the container or spilling its contents.

No matter how large his ash tray, part of the ashes land on the Oriental rug or the newly polished floor.

In the bathroom, he leaves the cap off the toothpaste and the corks out of bottles, a dark rim around the top of the bathtub, a mysterious pool in the middle of the floor and a wet towel either in a wad in the corner or folded in a neat rectangle which will prevent its drying for hours.

Souvenirs of his presence are constantly turning up in the form of discarded socks in dark corners of the closet and soiled shirts in bureau drawers.

Prints of his fingers are on all the light painted doors; prints of his walking shoes on all the smooth floors.

In the presence of his wife's fine friends he stubbornly clings to his pet mispronounciations of words and to his old-fashioned rendering of words and phrases that have taken on modern dress.

In company he zestfully repeats the same anecdotes, completely oblivious of his wife's efforts to steer the conversation into other channels.

He doesn't remember the names of persons he should, and makes no effort to conceal the fact; he frankly tells his wife's friends they have "taken on weight;" he gets mixed up in the ramifications of his friends' divorces and naively drags into conversation people and events everyone else is trying to forget.

At parties he is a pushover for the most blatant flattery of artful females, and, to the great chagrin of his more astute feminine relatives, regards the most ruthless and predatory of women as "nice little girls."

He never knows what his wife has on (although he never misses telling her when her slip is showing or her stockings seams not straight), and he is maddeningly noncommittal when his opinion is solicited as to which hat or which dress looks the better.

He is completely helpless in his efforts to get a thread through a needle, or a needle through a button.

He is oblivious to all the domestic nuances around him; he hasn't the slightest idea whether his wife is just tired or is peeved over something he has done, and he blunderingly puts his foot into it every time he has an encounter with feminine nerves.

He sits in a den of women in his own household completely unaware of the secrets being discussed in his presence, or the small machinations directed toward making him eat a salad he doesn't like, go to a party he doesn't want to go to, buy a rug he wasn't planning to buy, and do all of the hundreds of other little things that men of his type always end up by doing.

Most of the time he is a bull in a china shop, a big child, a boob, even at times a brat, but there are moments when he comes into his own—when there is a piano to be moved, a stuck window to be opened, a radio to be freed of its static, a furnace to be goaded into greater activity, a motor car to be gotten out of a snowdrift; when there is a mysterious noise in the basement at night, a tick-tack on the window, or a tramp at the door; when there is needed a forecast of tomorrow's weather or a definite announcement of what Hitler will do next; when a strike law or a price control bill or a tax schedule must be explained in everyday language; when there is a storm cloud in the sky that might bring a cyclone, when there is bad news or a family crisis; when there is a hint of coming bombers from over the Atlantic or a Martian invasion; when tomorrow and the world beyond loom ominous and fearful, and there is the crying feminine need for a port in a storm.

Women Will Get 1 1-2 Billion From Life Insurance

American women will be the recipients of more than one and one-half billion dollars in payments or credits from life insurance during this year, it is estimated by the Institute of Life Insurance.

"Women have not always clearly recognized the importance of life insurance because they have not always been the buyers of this protection in the family," the Institute said in making the announcement. "Women are, however, the actual recipients of the largest part of all payments made by life insurance each year."

In the aggregate, American women will this year probably receive nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars in death benefit payments and slightly more than that in the form of payments or credits to them as living policyholders, making a total of more than $1,500,000,000.

Graham-Cracker Crust Aids Pie

THE pies have it. I mean that pies have been getting into my thoughts even to the pie pan in which to bake them. I answered a jingle correctly in a radio program, and was rewarded with a glass baking dish equipped with a top, which by way of its two facedness, may be used as a pie pan, as well as a lid.

But I also came into pie thinking by way of a delicious dessert served Sunday at a dinner I attended, and it is the pie that I shall bake first in my new pie pan. It is a lemon chiffon pie. Not just a plain lemon chiffon pie but the kind enhanced top and bottom with graham cracker crumbs. If you have never made a pie using graham cracker pie crust, I would advise your doing so immediately if you want to get praise for your culinary achievements.

This pie is so easy to make it doesn't seem the results could be so excellent. Here is the recipe:

Lemon Chiffon Pie

Soften 2 tablespoons plain gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Combine 5 tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind ½ lemon, ½ cup sugar, 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add ¾ cup hot water and cook in double boiler, stirring until thickened. Add the softened gelatin, stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and cool; when mixture begins to stiffen, fold in egg whites to which has been added ½ cup sugar. Pour into graham cracker crust, sprinkle top with graham cracker crumbs. Chill until firm. Top with whipped cream if desired. Yield: 1 nine-inch pie.

It takes but a few minutes to make the crust. First, place 14 graham crackers on waxed paper and roll into fine crumbs with a rolling pin. Next, add 1 teaspoon flour, ½ cup softened butter, 1-3 cup sugar and blend thoroughly with the cracker crumbs. Now generously butter the pie pan. Pat or press the graham crackers over the bottom and sides of the pie pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool the crust, then put in the filling made according to the above recipe and place the pie in the refrigerator to chill.

Pinkertons Feted At Summers' Home

Many Notables Greet California Publisher and Wife at Cocktail Party

By Patricia Grady

"Even the cabbages are bigger and better in California," laughed the Golden State guest of honor at the party which Mr. and Mrs. A. Burks Summers gave in their attractive, terraced home on Linnean Avenue during the 5 to 7 cocktail hours yesterday afternoon. The cabbages, which Mrs. Roy Pinkerton, who stood in line with her husband and their hosts in the libary to receive the stream of guests, was referring to, were beflowered colored legumes which had been flown from near the Pinkerton's home in Santa Barbara, Calif., to grace the slender silver vases throughout the house.

Mrs. Summers, whose floor-length frock of turquoise crepe boasted a tiered skirt of fringe, wore a cluster of orchids at the V neckline of her dress, topaz jewelry at her wrists, ears and throat. Mrs. Pinkerton, who with her husband edits and publishes four daily newspapers in scattered California towns, topped her severe black dinner dress with a turban of silver lace which matched her antique silver necklace of earrings looped together. A cluster of rose camelias was tied at her wrist. Houseguests of the Summers since Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton plan to leave for California tomorrow. Mr. Summers and Mr. Pinkerton, both sartorial perfection in afternoon suits, chatted alternately of the ducks which the host had not shot during his last week hunting trip in the Maryland marshes and the President's press conference from which the honor guest had just come.

The delightful house which borders on Rock Creek Park—to the many guests who apologized for their lateness due to "getting lost," Mrs. Summers replied, "Well, you see we're on the edge of nowhere"—shared honors with the visiting Californians. Mrs. John Wright stood admiring the intricate high-low arrangement of three bouquets on the mantelpiece in the living room with Mrs. Duke Shoop, whose Robin Hood hat matched her plaid wool suit. Guests were going on tours of inspection of the house, built on different levels, but most of their paths could be traced from the first-floor dining room, replete with tea table, to the downstairs den, replete with bar.

Assisting at the tea table, which was centered with a simple floral bouquet of white baby roses in a low silver bowl, were Mrs. Marshall Diggs, Mrs. Louis B. Montfort, Mrs. Clifford Bangs, Mrs. Parker West, Mrs. Wilmer Waller, Mrs. Cajigas, Mrs. Irene Caldwell and Mrs. Emil Hurja.

Unofficial bartender in the firelit comfort of the blue-curtained den was Wilmer Waller, who boasted that it was not the first time he had tended bar in the Summers' household. Done in a Mexican motif, with gay streamers of painted gourds hanging from the walls, most of the crowd migrated to the spacious basement room, and stayed there. Mrs. Emil Hurja, wearing a trig fur bonnet, held a court of her own at the foot of the stairs. She and Mr. Hurja will entertain at a dinner tonight in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton and Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Bargeron. Tomorrow Mr. Bargeron's new book, "Confusion on the Potomac," will go on the book stalls.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Britten were early arrivals and seemed to know everybody at the party. Mrs. Benjamin Sims, from whose black chapeau swooped a red-feathered bird, chatted with Fred Horning. Edwin Graham, who, with his wife, has just returned from Hot Springs, Ark., found things to talk about with Mrs. Joshua Evans, while Mr. Evans and Mrs. Graham tete-a-teted in another corner. Paul McNutt wandered downstairs by himself and immediately gathered a gay group around him.

Others seen at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watson, Mrs. Robert Patterson, Dr. and Mrs. William Calhoun Stirling, the Ambassador of Ecuador, Capt. Eloy Alfaro; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holland Duell, Robert Brennan, Mrs. Ricardo Alfaro and dozens of others.

Miss Riani's Troth Is Announced

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Albert Riani, of Battle Creek, Mich., announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Houston Riani, to Lieut. Raymond Maurice Clock, son of Mrs. M. F. Clock, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The wedding will take place December 27 in the new chapel at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Miss Riani attended the King-Smith School here. She will be attended by her cousin, Miss Marion Geraldine Lock, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. E. P. Lock, of Fort Belvoir. Lieut. Clock, a graduate of West Point, class of 1940, is now in the engineers' school at Fort Belvoir. Lieut. Col. Riani is stationed at Fort Custer, near Battle Creek.

Miss Hutton To Make Bow In New York

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Edward Davies to the debut of her daughter, Miss Nedenia Hutton, at a tea December 20 at Mrs. Davies' New York home, 2 East Ninety-second Street.

Mrs. Davies' blond and beautiful younger daughter will bow at an old-fashioned afternoon tea and reception, in contrast to the brilliant balls which marked the introduction of her sisters, the former Misses Adelaide and Eleanor Close. The single small word "dancing," in the lower left-hand corner of the invitation is the nearest approach to those lavish affairs.

Miss Hutton's social whirl will be taken during her "time-out" from freshman studies at Sarah Lawrence College. Before entering there, she attended Mount Vernon Seminary here. Her annual presemester party this year, which was held in September at the Davies' Long Island home, Hillwood, was elaborate enough to have been called "a dress rehearsal for a debut." But the approaching party will be the real thing.

Miss Lora Baird Will Be Married To Mark Cornell

The date's all set—December 27. The place has been decided—Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral. And the plans for the wedding of Miss Lora Baird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Baird, and Mark Hollingsworth Cornell are taking final shape. But the prospective bride and bridegroom are still thousands of miles away.

Miss Baird will arrive in Washington from Long Beach, Calif., just one short week before the wedding. For the last two years, the bride-elect, who was graduated from Madeira School here and attended Smith College, has been in the West, spending much of her time visiting Navy friends there. Mr. Cornell, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. France Cornell, of Framingham Center, Mass., may arrive here even later than his bride. He was graduated from Harvard in 1937 and is now connected with an aircraft company in California.

The ceremony will be performed at 4 o'clock, with the Canon Theodore O. Wedel officiating. Miss Baird will be attended by Miss Olga Gannon and best man for Mr. Cornell will be William Randall, of Framingham Center. Ushers will be William Blum, jr., and Dr. Fernando Sacasa, both of Washington. A reception will follow the ceremony at 4400 Edmund Street, the home of the bride's parents.

whose engagement to Albert Plummer Toner has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Gardner. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl R. Toner.

Totten Shows Art Endeavors To Gathering

"Which are your most recent pictures?" asked a naive guest of Ralph Totten yesterday. "Oh my dear, I did most of these shown in the past month," was the casual answer of the big game hunter, artist-diplomat. Yesterday the former United States Minister to the Union of South Africa gathered in a few friends in his trophy-hung apartment—where they sampled a delectable rum punch and admired their host's artistic endeavors.

An early arrival was Mrs. Buchanan Merryman who chatted with a group and collected a few friends to journey back to the studio where Mr. Totten's many works were on display. Typical Washington scenes—as well as those from Africa—done in oils were hung in the room. Etchings and colored chalk sketches were being minutely examined.

Piping hot pastries, filled with spiced meats, were passed and although most of the guests were anxious to sample the rum punch, there were glasses of tomato juice and orange juice for those who wished it.

"Why, I sat across from you at dinner the other evening," Lolita Dawson was saying to Col. F. J. Morrow. It seems that a few select friends had been invited by Mr. Totten to sample some duck—that he shot near the Potomac.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. McNutt attended yesterday's party. She wore a black frock with an ermine collar, and Mr. McNutt wore a black and white tweed suit.

Mrs. Emerson Howe wore a silver fox jacket over her ensemble. She chatted with several friends. Mrs. J. Lawrence Houghteling, chic in lipstick red crepe, chatted with Baron Stackelberg. Mrs. Horace Greely MacFarland was there, as were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Murphy, she smartly draped in black jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grant Meem, she wearing a pink feather hat

Capital Whirl

By Hope Ridings Miller

On their recent visit to Washington, the Governor of New Jersey and Mrs. Charles Edison promised they'd have a return engagement as soon as possible . . . and now it develops they're due back in town this very weekend. Arriving on Saturday morning, they will be house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert; and the calendar of parties now being planned already is something to write home about . . .

Rear Admiral and Mrs. George Pettengill will give a dinner for the Edisons on Saturday night; a teatime fete is on schedule for them Saturday afternoon, and Sunday afternoon, following the football game, Mrs. Robert will gather in a number of friends for cocktails and a buffet supper in honor of the Edisons and her other weekend house guests.

Maurice Fatio, noted architect, of Palm Beach and New York, is coming to town on Friday to visit the Roberts, and expected to be here that same day are Miss Esther Gries, of Chicago, and Ed Maddon, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Robert will entertain at dinner for the three on Friday evening.

"M. P." Plans Christmas in Capital

Attractive, animated and smartly dressed, Beatrice Rathbone, M. P., made quite a hit with the ladies of the press when she talked at the weekly luncheon meeting yesterday . . . She's younger looking than her pictures; prettier, too, and her throaty accents nicely bridge the gap between the American and the British manner of speaking . . . Although she was born in New Haven, she spent much of her childhood in China and Siberia, and she met her late husband, Lieut. Rathbone, when both were studying at Oxford. They were married in 1931 . . . In this country until late January, she expects to spend Christmas in Washington and will have her two children, John Rankin Rathbone, 8, and Pauline, 6, with her . . . Incidentally, she and pretty Barbara Mercer-Nairne (British press relations) attended the same school—Ethel Walker School, Simsbury, Conn.

Cuff Notes: Senator and Mrs. Robert A. Taft are planning a dinner for December 11 . . . Mme. Van Kaathoven will be hostess at a similar party December 16 . . . A buffet supper is on the Sunday evening calendar for a few friends of Senator and Mrs. Lister Hill . . . The Spanish Air Attache and Senora de la Sierra will have a small company at dinner tomorrow evening at the Army-Navy Club, and the Peruvian Naval Attache and Senora de Labarthe will be "at home" on Monday afternoon—after 5:30 . . .

China Relief Shop Opens Soon

Having broken all records for successful benefits in Washington (the recent fete at Mrs. Anne Archbold's house brought in more than $8000), United China Relief has decided to sponsor a gift shop where more of its choice Oriental effects can be offered to the public. Located at 2309 Calvert Street, the shop will be formally opened tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A long list of notables, headed by the Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, and Lady Halifax, are expected to be present for the brief ceremony initiating the new project. In charge of keeping an open-door policy actively in effect for the shop each day from tomorrow afternoon until December 24 are Mrs. Douglas Hatch and Mrs. Robert Sherrod.

A popular Georgetown hostess tells this story on herself. Seems that along with a number of other Capitalites she has had her share of servant trouble lately. A couple of days ago, however, she interviewed a colored maid whose qualifications appeared to be ideal. Arriving with the domestic for the interview was her brother, and while the lady took the maid on a tour of her house and carefully explained what her duties would be, the brother accompanied them and scrutinized every nook and cranny with a care that was more than obvious.

The lady carefully explained to the maid what her duties would be, and the two agreed when said candidate should start work. "And now," said the lady of the house, by way of graciously ending the interview, "I hope you will enjoy working for us, and that, from the very beginning, you will feel at home here."

"She ought to," put in the brother, with a broad smile. "She was bawned in this very room."

Prominent Britons, Diplomats Hear Beecham Conduct Symphony

Many Notables In Throng at Constitution Hall

By Carolyn Bell

Something of a British invasion took place at Constitution Hall last night, when Sir Thomas Beecham (an English contribution to the world of music) conducted brilliantly at the Philadelphia Orchestra concert.

By 8:45 o'clock the immense hall was filled with bejeweled ladies and their dinner-jacketed escorts. Familiar faces to the regular symphony attender could be seen in the corridor, but a generous sprinkling of new faces were also glimpsed.

Famed as an interpreter of Mozart and Haydn, Sir Thomas was loudly applauded following the playing of two of their symphonies. Also on the program—and this selection brought tremendous applause too—was a new work by Courtlandt Palmer, American composer.

In adjoining boxes a group of Britishers chatted during intermission including blonde Miss Craig McGeachy, of the embassy, who was hostess to the group. Also in the party were Sir Arthur and Lady Salter (he is head of British shipping mission), Mr. and Mrs. William Davis and Miss Caroline Haslett, well-known British war worker who has just completed a tour of the Middle West and will return to England shortly aboard the clipper. Also there were Sir Charles and Lady Little, Robert Stopford and the hostess's sister, Miss Donald McGeachy.

Although Sir Ronald Campbell, British Minister, was unable to attend he turned over his box to the Commercial Counselor and Lady Chalkey, Mrs. Roger Makins and Etherington Smith.

During intermission, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Frank Knox stopped to chat with Mrs. Harold Ickes. Mrs. Knox wore a deep velvet dinner frock. Mrs. Thurman Arnold chatted with Mrs. Stanley Woodward, whose gown of rust satin was most becoming. Mrs. Arnold had chosen a turquoise dinner frock embroidered in gold and coral. Mrs. George Mercer Nairne, who conversed with Mrs. Eugene Meyer during intermission, wore a stunning gown with a fitted black silk bodice and bouffant white lace skirt. The two Norris girls, Marion and Peter, were decked out in twin frocks of purple and matching hats.

Occupying the Presidential box—where quite often the First Lady may be seen—were the Polish Ambassador and Mme. Ciechanowska who entertained at a party. Seated on the opposite side of the hall was another diplomatic couple, the Yugoslav Minister and Mme. Fotitch. They were guests of Mrs. Adolph C. Miller.

Making a handsome trio as they arrived were snowy-haired Paul V. McNutt, his handsome wife and pretty daughter, Louise. Regally gowned in black velvet, Mrs. McNutt wore an ermine wrap over her dinner frock. Louise, who had also chosen black velvet, wore a white fox jacket over her ensemble.

Wearing a royal purple frock, with a short sable jacket, Miss Mabel Boardman arrived with the Swedish Minister and Mme. Bostrom. Mme. Bostrom wore a white fur jacket over her pale-tinted ensemble. Countess Szechenyi was among the boxholders as were Mrs. Henry M. Robert, jr., Mrs. F. A. Keep, Mrs. Orme Wilson, Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, Mrs. William Crozier, Howard Booher and Ord Preston.

Just back from a two-year tour of duty in New York are the former Counselor of the Polish Embassy and Mme. Wancowicz. They attended the concert last evening and Mme. Wancowicz wore a bespangled veil over her neatly coiffed hair. Others there included Mrs. Foster Adams, Mrs. Chester Bolton, Mme. Chapdelaine, Mrs. Cabot Coville, Judge Prentice Edrington and Mrs. Carl Fisher.

The Minister of Luxembourg and Mme. LeGallais put in their appearance at last night's concert. Mme. LeGallais wore a mink coat over her smart black ensemble. Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe was there as were Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, Mrs. W. Van Slyke, Mrs. Price Whitaker, Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, Mrs. Chandler Hale and Mrs. Preston B. Kavanagh.

Arriving a bit on the late side was the Resident Commissioner of the Philippines, Joaquin Elizalde and his party of friends. Earlier in the evening, Mr. Elizalde had entertained at a buffet in his Shoreham apartment. Also entertaining a party of guests in her box was Mrs. Edwin M. Watson, wife of the President's Military Aide, who, as Frances Mash, pianist, will play in Boston with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Smith, she wearing an ermine jacket over her cherry red dress, had as guests William Gillman Law, of Bristol, R. I., and his sister, Miss Rhoda Law, who are visiting here at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Maybank Is Honor Guest At Luncheon

Feting the wife of the new Senator from South Carolina, Mrs. Burnet Maybank, Mrs. Walter Wyatt entertained at a luncheon in her home on Kalmia Road yesterday.

Around the table, centered with Johanna Hill roses and white chrysanthemums, were Mrs. Monroe Johnsop, Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck, Mrs. Bruce Smith, Mrs. John Allen Dougherty, Mrs. Adrian F. Busick, Mrs. William A. Disque, Mrs. Francis M. Banks, and the daughter of the hostess, Miss Laura Belle Wyatt.

De Bettencourts Begin Round of Gay Parties

Brazilian Embassy Gives Dinner for Journalists' Party; Pearsons Honor Them

Facing a whirlwind Washington schedule, those famous Brazilian journalists, M. and Mme. Paulo de Bettencourt, accompanied by their daughter, Sybil, arrived in town yesterday morning and started out, almost at once, on a brilliant social round.

Two stellar parties accented the first 12 hours of their Capital visit. The Brazilian Ambassador and Mme. Martins entertained at a large dinner at the embassy last night, and a few hours earlier Mr. and Mrs. Drew Pearson honored M. and Mme. de Bettencourt at a cocktail party.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller will give a dinner for the visitors this evening, and tomorrow Charles A. Thomson, chief of the State Department's division of cultural relations, will entertain at a luncheon for them in the Pan American room of the Mayflower.

Emperor's Son Attends Dinner

Attending the dinner party last night at the embassy were Justice and Mrs. Robert Jackson, the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Concheso, the Attorney General and Mrs. Francis Biddle, Representative Sol Bloom and his daughter, Miss Vera Bloom; Representative Katherine Byron, Representative Joseph Martin, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson and George T. Summerlin.

Still others there were Prince Dom Joao Orleans Branganca, grandson of the late Emperor of Brazil; M. and Mme. Herbert Feis, M. and Mme. Portinari, the Military Attache of the Brazilian Embassy and Mme. Bittencourt, Mlle. Maria Frias, of the Brazilian Embassy; Baron and Baroness de Grueben, Carlos Davila, of Chile; Miss Evelyn Peyton Gordon, Paul Weiner, of Brazil; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lippmann and Mr. and Mrs. Drew Pearson.

Many Notables Seen in Throng

Beginning but a few hours earlier was the cocktail party given by the Pearsons at their home, 2820 Dumbarton Avenue, and there the visitors had an opportunity to meet a cross-section of Washington society, including a representative number of guests from diplomatic, residential and newspaper circles.

A brocaded three-quarter length coat topped the brown trousers of the hostess pajamas, which Mrs. Pearson wore while greeting her guests informally, here and there and wherever they happened to meet. Mme. de Bettencourt had time to mention over a drink that she expects to stay in this country for about six months with her daughter, although her husband must return to Rio. While here she will wrote her impressions of this country for her column, "Majoy." She was turned out in a trim tailored black frock with Persian lamb trimming its red jacket.

In her always stunning black, this time a black cut velvet, was Mme. Martins, who topped her costume with a white velvet turban. The result was a striking contrast. Making her first appearance at a large party was Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, who mentioned in passing that she was leaving the next day to spend several days in Atlantic City.

Strolling about among the guests were glimpsed Senator and Mrs. Burnet Maybank and the Australian Minister and Mrs. Richard Casey. Down from New York for several days was Carlos Davila, and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick came in for a visit. Mrs. Warren Austin was seen chatting with Pendleton Turner, while arriving in time for the latter part of the party was Dr. Eugene de Savitsch.

Mrs. Claude Pepper chatted with Mrs. Evan Kemp, sister of the hostess. A grand entry was made by Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert and Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, both in ensembles of brilliant red. It was almost as if it had been planned or "by special arrangement with the management," so to speak.

Everything was very gay and informal and the party kept its lively pace from 5:30 until 8, when the host and hostess and their guests of honor had to leave for the embassy dinner. Center of attraction in an always attractive Brazilian contingent was Prince Bragonca, who throughout the party had a circle of admirers about him. For the edification of the uniform lovers, he was wearing his full aviation regalia. Among those from the Brazilian Embassy were A. C. Alencastro-Guimaraes and M. and Mme. Hugo Gouthier.

Mrs. Trent Fetes Mrs. Burnett

Mrs. Walter Trent was hostess at an informal luncheon yesterday in honor of Mrs. Childs Burnett, whose husband, Capt. Burnett, is now with the Judge Advocate General's Office. Mrs. Burnett is the daughter of Joshua Green, of Seattle, Wash., banker.

Among those at the Mayflower luncheon were Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mrs. Harry Hawes and Mrs. Mitchell Palmer.

Edward Footes Entertain At Cocktails

Entertaining at the fourth, in a series of informal cocktail parties yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Foote asked friends to drop in at their home on LeRoy Place "after five."

Among those at the party were Dr. and Mrs. Henry Beall Gwynn, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Moulton, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Mason, jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Renchard, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vogel, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Upshur Moorhead, jr., Miss Peggy Wagner, Miss Julie Cahill, Miss Eleanor Flood and Miss Nancy Iselin.

Still others who clustered about the white chrysanthemum, candlelighted table in the dining room were Dean Rucker, Littleton Fox, Nathan Bartlett, Ridgely Bullock, Jack Tapper, Judson Bowles, Dick Bolling, jr., George Garrison Norton, Edward Van Devanter and several others.

Many Attend Cocktail Party At the Stabells

Entertaining at a housewarming, the Second Secretary of the Norwegian Legation and Mme. Stabell gathered in a few friends yesterday afternoon at their home on Woodway Lane, between 5 and 7:30 o'clock.

Christmas holly and red roses were used throughout the house, giving a festive air. Mme. Stabell had chosen a black frock and her jewelry was of turquoise.

Among those who dropped in during the afternoon were Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian Minister; the Military Attache of the Norwegian Legation, Col. Oscar Kingenberg; Judge and Mrs. James Lenihan, the First Secretary of the Norwegian Legation and Mme. Bryn George Abell; the Military Attache of the Swedish Legation and Mme. Wessel, Maj. Juan Cedillo, the Secretary of the South African Legation and Mrs. Jordaan, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Saugstad, and several dozen others.

Norman Stevens Weds Miss Marcey

Tall cathedral candles lighted St. James' Rectory in Falls Church last evening for the marriage of Miss Gladys Norah Marcey, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Herbert I. Marcey, of Arlington, Va., to Norman S. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Stevens, of Falls Church. The Rev. E. V. Mullarkey officiated for the 8 o'clock ceremony against a background of palms and white chrysanthemums.

Capt. Marcey gave his daughter in marriage. A band of seed pearls trimmed the neckline of her heavy white satin gown, and a halo of pearls held her veil of English tulle. She carried white roses and bouvardia, and wore a diamond cross given her by her grandmother.

Miss Ann Colby, of Arlington, who was maid of honor, was gowned in dusty rose taffeta and carried pink roses. Hugh Stevens was best man for his brother. For the reception at the bride's home, Mrs. Marcey, her mother, received in a floor-length gown of pink chiffon. Her corsage was gardenias. Mrs. Stevens, mother of the bridegroom, wore an aqua crepe gown with talisman roses. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. William Clark and Mrs. Richard Cozzens, both of Arlington.

For traveling, the bride chose a teal blue dress and coat with antique tan accessories. The couple will live at 1100 North Kenilworth Street, Westover Apartments, in Arlington.

Judge Harron Is Dinner Hostess

Judge Marion Harron of the Board of Tax Appeals entertained at a dinner in her home in Chevy Chase, Md., last night.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry John March, of Los Angeles, Calif., who are at the Shoreham Hotel during their stay here; Mr. and Mrs. Erich Nielson, Miss Natasha Von Hoershelman, of New York, and the mother of the hostess, Mrs. Charles Merrill Harron.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Overtime Work, Pay Plague Agencies

Overtime work and overtime pay are plaguing several agencies. Maritime Commission is reliably reported to be studying the possibility of extending the hours of its employes from 39 to 44 hours a week. An official says it isn't imminent. Both the State Department and the Civil Service Commission have had some of their employes on a longer workweek for sometime and the employes who are working the longer hours ask why their colleagues are permitted to put in shorter hours. It's an obvious question.

An overtime pay provision is said to have kept hours from being lengthened at Maritime. Six months ago a bill became law which required that time and a half be paid to Maritime's technical employes who worked more than 40 hours a week. But not 1 cent in overtime has been paid . . . the law required regulations to be set up and the commission has prevented paying overtime by overlooking the all-important regulations. And the commission has no plans to draft regulations.

National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics yesterday sent to Congress a bill that, if enacted, would pay its technical employes overtime pay. Certain employes of Navy, War, Coast Guard, and Maritime are now eligible for overtime pay. It's fine for the employe who is paid overtime but it's certainly no morale builder for the employe who works overtime without additional pay. Navy Secretary Knox's position is sound: he has asked Congress to pay overtime to all or none of his employes.

Civil Service's report on the OPA employes accused by Representative Dies of Red connections will be made this week-end . . . Ask your personnel director if you want to know whether your job will be covered under Civil Service by the Ramspeck Act . . . Only stenographers and typists can be recertified by the Civil Service Commission if they are doing work other than stenography and typing.

Order Benefits Census

An Executive order issued yesterday by the President has the indirect effect of bringing temporary Census employes under Civil Service. Specifically, the order terminates the emergency replacement list as of December 31, 1941. Only Census employes can be placed on the list next year. The list goes out of existence for all purposes at the end of next year. The White House order also brings under Civil Service several thousand employes who have been appointed from the replacement list. To be eligible for status, an employe must have completed at least six months of continuous Federal service.

The list was established to give persons involuntarily separated from non-defense agencies an opportunity to get defense jobs that were under Civil Service. More than 14,000 names were listed and some 6000 appointments have been made. Preference given Census employe during 1942 is easily justified. Census has slashed its force from 10,000 to 5000 within 11 months . . . the best employes were retained while inferior employes were released. Many of the separated workers got jobs in other agencies and are now assured of Civil Service. As it worked out, the best employes were discriminated against and Commerce officials have been working for months on a plan to give the remaining Census employes Civil Service protection.

Census, incidentally, is again swinging the ax. Nearly 500 will be "separated" from the machine tabulation section before January 1. Most of the 500 are card punchers. Within a month it's estimated that only 900 card punchers will be on the job. A few months ago there were 2000 . . . T. Roy Reid has been appointed Agriculture personnel director. He succeeds Roy F. Hendrickson. Samuel B. Bledsoe moves up to Reid's spot as chief assistant to Secretary Wickard.

J. S. Davitt, who has seen active service as a sailor, has been appointed assistant chief clerk of the Navy Department. J. F. Clarke succeeds him as senior administrative assistant in the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

County Police Go Western

Two Montgomery County huskies tangled yesterday with a stubborn tin-can-eater, but a lasso won the battle. The county officers, unable to calm the bad-tempered goat, finally "looped" him in the Lincoln Park section near Rockville, Md., where he was chasing some children.

Now, it's Admiral Young

Washington had better dig an ocean 'round the District Building—and right quick, too. Commissioner John Russell Young yesterday was named an "admiral in the Nebraska navy" for his "good fellowship" by Gov. Griswold of Nebraska. Next honor is a commodore in the Swiss navy.

Man Killed In Auto Race With Police

Driver Held After Smashup; Fatality Makes 85 for Capital

Injured in a collision during a 60-mile-an-hour race with a police car early Monday, Emmett Dodson, 32, of 813 Mount Vernon Place Northwest, died at Gallinger Hospital yesterday at 1 p. m.

He suffered head injuries when the automobile he was a passenger in crashed into a taxicab at Thirteenth and Kenyon Streets Northwest. Vernie Plumley, 23, of 4614 Fifth Street Northwest, was operating the car the victim was riding in, police reported.

According to the report made by Policeman L. C. Houff, of the Accident Investigation Unit, this is how the accident happened:

Plumley passed him "going between 50 and 60" on Seventh Street between L and M Streets Northwest, at 1:30 a. m. Monday. Houff took chase and the speeding car turned right at M Street, passing a red light. The chase extended around the block and then the fleeing car sped north on Georgia Avenue. At Kenyon Street, Houff said the car stopped and when he approached, the driver sped away again. At one time, the two cars sped past the Tenth Precinct Station at Georgia Avenue and Park Road.

The driver sped around several blocks and then was heading west on Kenyon Street when his car crashed into the taxicab driven by Arthur J. Jones, 35, of 1726 R Street Northwest.

Both Plumley and Dodson were taken to Emergency Hospital and later were sent to Gallinger Hospital. After receiving first aid, Plumley was charged with reckless driving and at Police Court yesterday was held under $300 bail.

He will appear before a coroner's inquest, the date of which has not been set.

Casualty Hospital reported yesterday that five Washington Navy Yard employes are under treatment for injuries suffered Monday night when their car collided with a machine driven by Chief Boatswain's Mate Neal Williams, of Kenilworth, Md., near Muirkirk, Md. They are William Grady, 60, head injuries; Norman Akers, 40, cuts and bruises; Leroy Conway, cuts and concussion; George Welch, 48, broken ribs and wrist, and Francis Welch, 46, broken kneecap. All live in Savage, Md. Williams suffered head cuts and broken ribs.

Capitol's First Woman Air Raid Warden Enrolled

Washington has its first woman air raid warden. Miss Mary Mason, director of women's activities for the National Broadcasting Company, yesterday took office as deputy to Clement Murphy, chief warden.

Miss Mason was sworn in at brief ceremonies in the District Building by G. M. Thornett, secretary to the Board of Commissioners. Witnesses were Commissioner John Russell Young, United States defense coordinator and Col. Lemuel Bolles, executive director of the District Defense Council.

The new deputy will be in charge of emergency feeding stations ultimately to be established in each of the city's 12 civilian defense areas.

Fire Destroys Merchandise In Astor Store

A fire which destroyed most of the merchandise in the Astor Shoe Store at 817 H Street Northeast, causing damage estimated at several thousand dollars, at 10:30 last night snarled traffic in the area.

Special policemen were dispatched to untangle the jam.

Clouds of smoke rising from the burning leather forced firemen to don gas masks. Residents of nearby apartments temporarily abandoned their dwellings because of the smoke. Battalion Chief Fred Litteral said that the cause was undetermined. Charles H. Gendason, 2714 East-West Highway, is manager of the store.

Bullock to Face New Murder Trial

Willie Bullock, 39-year-old Negro, must face a second trial on charges of first-degree murder for the fatal shooting of a policeman in 1932, Justice F. Dickinson Letts ruled in District Court yesterday.

Bullock was convicted for the premeditated murder of Officer George W. Shinault by a Criminal Court jury last year, but had the sentence reduced to second-degree murder by the Court of Appeals. He was then re-indicted for first-degree by the government, on the grounds that he had shot Shinault while committing a felony.

Bullock was arraigned on the new indictment immediately after the jurist's ruling and pleaded not guilty.

Defense Ends Open House At Carnegie

The same national emergency which has made armed camps of many Federal office buildings and closed several sightseeing spots to the public has caught up with one of the Capital's most popular annuals.

It was learned yesterday that the Carnegie Institution of Washington will hold no "open house" this year. Traditionally observed each December, when thousands of visitors poured into the classical stone building to be brought up to date on the march of science, the 1941 renewal has been canceled.

"The defense program," explained a member of the Carnegie staff. "The lecture halls and exhibit rooms, they're all filled with desks and workers now."

Headquarters of the Office of Scientific Research and Development are in the Carnegie Building. Its director is Dr. Vannevar Bush, who is president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

There will not even be the customary trustees' reception this year, though they will assemble here for their annual meeting December 12, it was disclosed.

Arlington Civic Group Elects Mrs. Cannon

Mrs. Florence Cannon, of the Arlington County Organized Women Voters, last night was elected president of the Arlington County Civic Federation, the first woman delegate to hold that office. She has been vice president of the federation for the past four years and a delegate to it for 18 years.

She succeeds A. D. Adams, who declined reonmination. Albert A. Carretta was named vice president, and William K. MacMahon, treasurer.

War Disturbs Diet, Defense Workers Hear

Rising cost of milk and shortage of cod liver oil due to the loss of Norwegian and other sources of supply are complicating efforts to nutrition workers throughout the country, Mrs. Elizabeth Grant, nutritionist for the D. C. Health Department, yesterday told a class of civilian defense volunteers.

In whatever field of welfare work the volunteers go, Mrs. Grant said, they will need to be acquainted with nutrition needs.

She pointed out that in America there are two kinds of hunger, "hollow hunger" and "hidden hunger," the former due to lack of food and the latter to improper eating. Fifty per cent of all Americans suffer from the latter, she said.

In some instances they know no better, but in others they do not eat as well as they could. For instance, Mrs. Grant pointed out, only 2 per cent of Americans eat whole wheat or enriched bread "although all of them must know of their nutritive value by now."

The class she addressed is being sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies as a means of orientating volunteers who wish to do welfare work for civilian defense. Maj. James A. Longino, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, presided.

Compromise Plan Hits Stalemate

Efforts to compromise receivership proceedings against the Southeastern Industrial Bankers, Inc., parent company of a group of loan firms, ended in a stalemate in District Court yesterday, after a battery of attorneys had argued the case all day before Justice Oscar R. Luhring.

The jurist urged the lawyers to make further efforts to arrive at a satisfactory agreement at the close of the session, and report to him this morning.

Volunteer Sanctuary Sought For Homeless Children

Is there anybody in Washington who will come to the aid of children made temporarily homeless by fire, estranged parents, sick parents or some other misfortune?

Miss Pauline Bakeman, supervisor of the home finding department of the District Board of Public Welfare's foster care service, says yes, there is somebody, but she can't find out who.

"More than a year ago," Miss Bakeman said last night, "Mrs. Roosevelt visited the Receiving Home for Children, among other institutions, and told the public about conditions she found there.

"As a result, since there is no way of separating nondelinquent children from delinquents at the 'home,' a real home was found in Takoma Park, Md., to lodge the nondelinquents.

"Meanwhile, this woman notified us a month ago she could no longer continue as temporary 'mother' to nondelinquent children. Her house has been sold.

"Since then we have been looking for somebody to take this mother's place, but without success. Somewhere in Washington there must be a family interested enough in children to take on a job like this. The Board of Public Welfare will pay that family $35 a month whether or not the family cares for any children. Usually there are one to eight children to be cared for. For each the board pays an average of $20 a month—depending on the child's age.

"We are seeking The Post's aid because it has been so difficult to reach a wide audience otherwise. We have talked to ministers—everybody we can find. But we are getting in a spot. And I don't know what we're going to do about it."

Miss Bakeman said most families she had approached said they could make more money by renting their rooms to defense workers.

"Thus," she said, "children in Washington are suffering indirectly from the defense program."

Mark Missed, Chest Drive To Continue

Efforts Extended Until Monday Despite Pick Up In Contributions

Despite a substantial jump in contributions reported yesterday, the Community Chest has failed to reach its two million dollar goal, and the campaign will be extended again until next Monday.

Yesterday's report showed that the Chest solicitors passed their 90 per cent mark, reporting total collections of $1,835,083.42.

The campaign, originally scheduled to end November 27, will definitely close on Monday, Chest leaders said, and they hope to collect the balance of the quota by then.

On their success will depend the fate of 150,000 underprivileged Washingtonians who are supplied with necessities by 59 Chest-supported agencies.

The only campaign unit to reach its goal yesterday was the Metropolitan unit, reporting 100.9 per cent of quota, amounting to $413,730.

"We must not fail," Coleman Jennings, Chest president, repeated yesterday.

"Watching us are not ladies in fur coats accompanied by opulent men," emphasized the Chest leader. "Those watching us are poor kids, some of them cripples; adult people in despair, and the aged.

"We are making this last plea to the people of Washington. Help us to go over the top. We must not fail."

John L. Sullivan, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was honor guest at the meeting yesterday. The Rev. Francis W. McPeek delivered the invocation.

Ludlow Recalls Contacts With Ex-Presidents

Representative Louis Ludlow (Democrat), of Indiana, last night related his newspaper and Congressional contacts with Presidents of the United States dating from Benjamin Harrison to Franklin D. Roosevelt in a reminiscent talk before the annual dinner meeting of the District Society of Colonial Wars in the Mayflower Hotel.

The society, founded in 1893 with the object of preparing and publishing a correct history of the American Colonies from the settlement of Jamestown, Va., in 1607 to the Battle of Lexington in 1775, last night held annual election of officers.

Those elected are:

Deputy governor general, Gilbert Lewis Hall; governor, Fulton Lewis; deputy governor, Dr. Roscoe John Conklin Dorsey; lieutenant governor, Harryman Dorsey; secretary, Richard Eppes Shands; deputy secretary, Dr. John Ogle Warfield, jr.; treasurer, Robert Copeland Jones; registrar, Mahlon Hopkins Janney; deputy register, Dr. Edson Leone Whitney; historian, Dr. Walter Augustine Wells; chaplain, the Rev. Samuel Mandeville Croft; chancellor, Robert Palmer Smith; surgeon, Dr. Charles Robert Lee Halley, and custodian of colors, Charles Carroll Glover 3d.

Extortion Ring Here Smashed, Detectives Say

District police announced last night that they had arrested three men in connection with an alleged extortion ring which has been victimizing prominent Washington residents. A fourth man is being sought.

Charged with extortion last night were John J. Lamp, 40, of Hollywood, Fla.; Julius J. Pridgen, 31, no fixed address, and Charles A. Perrier, 33, of New York City.

Credited with breaking the case were Third Precinct Detectives L. L. Frost and F. L. Gaver. Tipped off to the activities of a ring here, the two detectives seized one man as he entered an exclusive hotel here to collect $500. The other two were picked up in their car.

In all, the detectives report $598 was obtained from three well-to-do residents here.

Soldier at Camp Lee Held in Fatal Stabbing

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 2 (AP).—Private Charles Ramson, Negro, of Company I, Ninth Quartermaster Regiment, at Camp Lee, was stabbed fatally lats night and a fellow soldied was arrested as his assailant, Petersburg police announced today.

Sir Thomas Beecham Conducts Philadelphia Orchestra Here

Sir Thomas Beecham conducts the Philadelphia Orchestra on Tuesday night in Constitution Hall. Soloist: Courtlandt Palmer. Program: Symphony No. 93 in D major (Haydn), Piano Concerto in C major (Courtlandt Palmer), Symphony No. 41 in C major (Mozart), Overture to "La Gazza Ladra" (Rossini).

From the viewpoint of Courtlandt Palmer, the visit of Sir Thomas Beecham to Washington as guest conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra was an occasion never to be forgotten, for it was through the courtesy and consideration of the distinguished English musician that the American composer was enabled to participate in the premiere of his C major piano concerto in the capital of his native land. From the viewpoint of the crowded audience in Constitution Hall last evening, the occasion was also memorable either as a first experience or a renewal of acquaintance with one of the most individual characters in contemporary music.

BROWN

One understands that Mr. Palmer was so ill that it was doubtful for a time whether he would have the pleasurable pride of playing the solo part in the introduction of his work to his countrymen. That indisposition explains the obvious lack of vigor in his performance which sometimes failed to give the piano tone its rightful place in the texture. The concerto is an agreeable work in the romantic tradition, the phrase being used not in a pejorative but in a descriptive sense. It has melodic charm, particularly in the idyllic slow movement is the nature of a reverie, and thorough harmonic consonance. The music shows scarcely a trace of experimental innovation and not a reference to anything that has happened in the tonal world since 1890. It was refreshing to hear as the expression of an idealist who believes that beauty is the prime requisite in music.

Sir Thomas opened his program with Haydn's Symphony No. 93, which he conducted as though he and Haydn were having a jolly good time. That forgetfulness of self on the podium is one of his engaging traits, and he is so absorbed in the music that the assumption of an authoritative dignity would be false to his nature. His hands plucked pizzicati from the strings and smoothed lyric phrases with gestures indicating his personal participation in the performance.

As a reading of Haydn it was instinct with understanding and vitalizing in its effect upon accents and rhythms. Sir Thomas did not take the easy way of letting the form carry on with its own classic momentum, but brought out the significance of every line and stress as carefully as in a modern tone poem. The treatment of the andante was especially lovely in its animated repose.

This same loving care was manifested in the great C major symphony of Mozart, which was given a splendid interpretation, although Sir Thomas would be the last to say that he "interpreted" anything that Mozart had to express. He let the music speak for itself, merely keeping a very watchful eye on every player to bring out the maximum of eloquent tone.

Instead of beginning the concert with an overture, Sir Thomas closed it with Rossini's preface to "La Gazza Ladra." With that arrangement one can raise no issue of dissent, but one must offer a remonstrance to Sir Thomas for having missed an opportunity to present an entire program of American music. He could have given us, for instance, Virgil Thomson's second symphony which he recently conducted in Seattle, New York and Philadelphia. We might not have liked this composition, but the compliment of an American program in the National Capital would have been appreciated by all Washingtonians.

Group Urges Funds for D. C. Defense

Columbia Heights Citizens' Unit Adopts Resolution Asking U. S. Grant

Lack of funds in the local air raid warden organization, a condition that has caused rumblings throughout almost all of the citizens associations in the District since its beginning, boiled over last night at the meeting of the Columbia Heights group in Central High School.

Sergt. B. F. McAlister, of the Police Department, Col. Lemuel Bolles' right-hand-man, a guest speaker at the meeting, which was concerned with the civilian defense program, declared he thought it was a good thing no funds were available for the program. "People have to exercise some ingenuity," he said, "instead of depending upon paid workers."

George H. Brown, president, stated he could not agree to this. "There is a general sentiment throughout the associations," he asserted, "that Congress should share in this measure." A resolution was unanimously adopted supporting Brown in this view.

It stated in part, "to emphasize and protect Americanism, the primary object of every citizen of this country, is a full all-out defense of America and its institutions. To accomplish this we must have national unity of purpose and adequate appropriations."

Members voted to petition Congress to grant "sufficient funds immediately" to carry on their air raid warden work in a "fitting and proper manner." Another guest speaker on the program was William T. Kruglak, of the Fire Department instruction division, who said the "people in tthe United States are in a state of lethargy" in civilian defense preparedness. Rudolph Blick, chairman of the association's executive committee on civilian defense, outlined work of that group.

Permanent Company Aim For Savoyard Operettas

National Soon to Present Project's Nucleus; Local Cymbalist Cops Sun Valley Prize; Items of News and Gossip of the Theater

THE FORTHCOMING ENGAGEMENT of the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Co., at the National—it will follow the current "Student Prince" on December 15—will mark something more than a mere sporadic revival of the most popular of the Savoyard operettas. The organization of this touring company of veterans in the interpretation of the Gilbert and Sullivan works was planned as the preliminary step in the formation of a permanent American troupe to occupy a place on the native stage comparable to that so long distinguished by the D'Oyly Carte Company in England.

ROBERT PITKIN

The state of the world—and especially Britain's part of it—being what it is, it promises to be many a long month, or maybe year, before the D'Oyly Carte group again will be able to visit these shores. Their time is fully and continuously occupied in diverting their own harried countrymen without thought of further "foreign invasions". So advantage is being taken not so much of the opportunity as of the necessity of providing a worthy substitute to keep the Gilbert and Sullivan classics before the American public.

This is no small task, but something remotely related to the perfection of a world championship baseball team or an all-American football squad. A transcendent esprit de corps and a versatile interchangeability are essential. The acceptable presentation of any single Savoyard piece is not so difficult, but to assemble a company of players who can interpret them all with equal distinction is by way of being a giant undertaking requiring years, rather than weeks or months, of earnest application. That is what it is the Gilbert and Sullivan Company is aiming at and with Robert Pitkin, Florenz Ames and John Hendricks on the rolls they seem to be on the way to a fair start. These gentlemen, at one time or another, have played practically all the male roles there are in all of the G-S favorites. It is a promising augury that the present company is playing its repertoire "straight" in punctilious accordance with the D'Oyly Carte tradition, instead of attempting to "Americanize" it with topical interpolations entirely out of the period and the spirit of these enduring works. They have been ruined that way too often in the past.

While the current and coming musical attractions at the National are occupying public interest, attention deserves to be directed to the fact that they are being offered at bargain prices. If the budget has become accustomed to bark at habitual box-office tariffs, the ensuing three weeks should quiet it. That, of course, is taking for granted wide public knowledge that "The Student Prince" is in for two weeks on E Street.

And that reminds me. While settings and costumes are of strictly secondary importance in the light of Sigmund Romberg's brilliant and durable score, the Shuberts really ought to do something about that last-act outfit in which they have unbedecked Princess Margaret in the "Prince". It seems to be the one Joe Cook wore in "Rain or Shine", with a few frowsy trimmings by Broadway Rose. As charming a young artiste as Jay Presson deserves better than that.

Those Snowballs Pay Off

Word has just filtered through from New York that a final apraisal of all the publicity campaigns waged throughout the country in behalf of the Twentieth Century-Fox production of "Sun Valley Serenade" came up with Dan Terrell's as the first prize winner for all-around excellence. That first prize is a two-week, all-expense outing at Sun Valley, Idaho, any time the loewcal Loew cymbal-whanger and Mrs. Terrell choose to avail themselves of it. When Master Terrell heaved those Sun Valley snowballs at the drama desks back when the weather was hot, his aim was truer than he knew. Nice going, conglomerations and stuff, is what I always say.

Oscar A. Doob, national director of advertising and publicity for the Loew theaters, also serving as national publicity chairman for the motion picture committee of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation's mile-of-dimes campaign, and Harry Brandt, personal representative of Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., general chairman of the drive, were in town yesterday conferring with those in charge of the President's annual birthday celebrations. For the first time the picture theaters throughout the country will actively participate in the dime drive. When they get through, there probably won't be enough left for a shoe shine.

USO Is Cary's Christmas List

Cary Grant has solved his Christmas shopping problem.

He'll do none.

He also decided what he wants from his friends for Christmas.

He wants nothing.

Grant told co-workers in "Arsenic and Old Lace," that every penny he would normally spend on Christmas presents this year will go to the U. S. O., or other worthy causes in this country.

By the same token, he wants his friends to give the money which might have gone for presents to him to the same cause.

Comedies Set Tone of New Film Arrivals

"TWO-FACED WOMAN." Greta Garbo's newest film arrives on the screen of the Palace Theater tomorrow morning. A comedy, this widely discussed picture affords the star her first dual role, as well as an assignment to dance the rhumba. Melvyn Douglas is her leading man, an honor he has enjoyed before. Constance Bennett, Ruth Gordon, Roland Young and Robert Sterling head the supporting cast of this modern love story. George Cukor directed.

RKO-Keith's

"KEEP 'EM FLYING." Latest of the Abbott and Costello comedy parade to reach Fifteenth Street, this new release presents the comic stars as "grease monkeys" at an air school. Martha Raye and Carol Bruce play singing hostesses in a USO clubhouse with William Gargan, Dick Foran and Charles Laud in the other masculine leads. The Army Air Corps and some new songs by Raye and dePaul also are important to the comedy. A "March of Time," "Norway in Revolt" and Disney's "Truant Officer Donald" are the short subjects. Opens this morning.

Earle

"APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE." Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullavan costar in this comedy of a worldly playwright and a strenuous career woman whose troubles begin with the wedding bells. Rita Johnson, Eugene Pallette, Reginald Denny, Ruth Terry, J. M. Kerrigan and Cecil Kellaway are featured. Dave Appolon, back in variety after a season with Ed Wynn's "Boys and Girls Together," headlines the stage revue, with Ben Yost's New Yorkers, the Six Antalek's Danny Drayson and the Roxyettes also on tap. Mogul will remain for a second week of his mind-reading. Opens Friday morning.

Capitol

"CONFIRM OR DENY." Newsgathering in wartime London forms the background for this new melodrama costarring Joan Bennett and Don Ameche. The former plays a staff number of the British ministry of information, while Ameche acts the head of an American press bureau. Roddy McDowall, John Loder, Eric Blore and Raymond Walburn are featured. The stage revue will include Comedian Don Rice, Dancers Allen and Kent, Cyclists; the Shyrettos, and Dancer Harland Dixon. Opens tomorrow morning.

National

"THE STUDENT PRINCE." Returned for its second engagement within six months, the Sigmund Romberg operetta will continue for a second week on E Street beginning Monday. The cast, substantially the same as that which presented it here last spring, includes Barbara Scully, Robert Davis, Nina Varela, William Kent, Detmar Poppen, Jay Presson, Joanne Tree and the inevitable male chorus associated with the famous melodies. Matinees today and Saturday.

Civic Theater

"TROILUS AND CRESSIDA." This Shakesperean comedy of love and war, not played in America since 1856, opens a three-week run Friday evening as the Washington Civic Theater's fourth production of the season at the Wardman Park Theater. Director Leon Askin's cast includes Rudolph Justice Watson, Edith Simmons, Dorothy Faris, Selma Klein, Earle Riley, Marshall Smith, Murray Sheehan, William Zuckert, L. Metcalfe Walling, Dick Sykes, Dudley Sadler and Benjamin K. Schwartz.

Metropolitan

"THEY DIED WITH THEIR BOOTS ON." Errol Flynn and Olivia deHavilland returned yesterday in their latest costarring historical film, this time a story suggested by the career of Gen. Custer. Arthur Kennedy, Charley Grapewin and Gene Lockhart are featured.

Columbia

"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER." The Nelson Eddy-Rise Stevens musical returns to F Street after a run at the Capitol. While the music is that of Oscar Straus' "The Chocolate Soldier," the story is Molnar's "The Guardsman," filmed some years ago by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. Opens tomorrow morning.

Little

"THE EARL OF CHICAGO." Robert Montgomery's unusual role of the Chicago gangster who becomes a peer of Britain through the circumstances of fate is revived for a week's run. Edward Arnold has the featured role in a cast directed by Victor Saville.

Pix

"THE MORTAL STORM." Phyllis Bottome's story of Nazi persecutions in Germany before the war is revived for three days beginning this morning. Margaret Sullavan, James Stewart, Robert Young and Frank Morgan head the cast.

Trans-Lux

"KALTENBORN EDITS THE NEWS." The popular radio commentator, H. V. Kaltenborn, begins a new series with this release. Inviting questions from film audiences, Mr. Kaltenborn will discuss the news under three headings, The War, World Events Not Connected With The War, and National Problems. Other short subjects at the newsreel theater will include "Buenos Aires Today," "Jungle Fishing" and "Nifty Nineties." Opens Friday morning.

Gayety

"FUNS-A-POPPIN'." Rosita Royce, with her "Dance of the Seven Doves" is the central attraction of the new burlesque production opening Sunday afternoon. One of the most talked-of events of the New York World's Fair, Miss Royce's unusual act is supported by Lew Fine, Meggs Lexing, Paul West, Moan Mavis, Gloria Dahl, Fran Lewis and James Colvo. Midnight performances Saturday evenings.

Starving Armenian!

New York, Dec. 2.

William Saroyan left Hollywood this week to recuperate at his home in San Francisco. The studios made attractive offers for his services, but Saroyan displayed his independence and refused them all . . . during his negotiations with M-G-M, Saroyan was invited to sit in L. B. Mayer's box at the Hollywood Turf Club. Mayer, the most influential man in Hollywood, began to receive tips on the races, which he relayed to Saroyan—who ignored them and bet his own selections. "Just catch me going to L. B. for anything—especially tips," said the Armenian writer . . . All of Mayer's selections—all deliberately ignored by Saroyan—won. And Saroyan, who kept increasing his bets each race, as a mounting assertion of his independence, lost $2000 that day.

WILLIAM SAROYAN

Chief Rising Sun, who made Errol Flynn a blood brother of the Sioux Indians, in a Central Park ceremony this week, offered Flynn a pair of moccasins, after the star's shoes had been stolen in the park. Wednesday, after repeated calls, Chief Rising Sun went to Errol's apartment and retrieved his footwear. Flynn, reluctant to return them, finally told him: "You—you Indian giver" . . . Chief Rising Sun says that the title of Flynn's current picture about Gen. Custer, "They Died With Their Boots On," is a misnomer . . . "None of them died with their boots on," the chief explains. "The Indians removed their boots and tickled their feet. If they moved, they were tomahawked. If they didn't move, the Indians were sure they were dead."

A lady from Texas went to Jack and Charlie's 21 Club, where—because she was a stranger—she was accorded the usual cold reception. The lady was conducted to a rear table in the upstairs room. But she startled the waiter by ordering the proper dishes and the proper wines, all in perfect French—clear evidence that she was a desirable customer . . . The apprehensive waiter summoned "Baron" Jack Kriendler to make the amends . . . "Everything all right?" asked Proprietor Jack, duly solicitous . . . "Yes, quite all right," the lady replied. "But I'd like to know one thing" . . . "Of course, of course," said Jack . . . "Tell me," asked the lady. "Which one are you—Leon or Eddie?"

Joe Fields, the coauthor of "Sister Eileen" and "Junior Miss," is the son of the late Lew Fields, of Weber & Fields. He tells this story of his father, who was one of the heaviest plungers at the local racetracks . . . Fields once met a man who gave him this tip on the next race: "Bet the last horse on your program." He glanced at his program, then rushed to a bookie and bet $10,000. The horse won, at 7 to 1 . . . On the train back from the track, Fields saw the man who had given him the tip and said "Thanks" . . . "Well, you needn't be sarcastic," was the reply, "just because the horse finished out of the money" . . . Fields reexamined his program. He had been advised to bet the last horse. But Fields had folded his program in two, when he looked at it. He had wagered on the last horse above the fold—forgetting the four other horses listed underneath.

Monte Proser, the night club proprietor, flew to Hollywood for the weekend and invited a young actress to dine with him at Mike Romanoff's. "I can't," said the girl, "Mike barred me" . . . "I'll fix that," Proser promised, took her to Romanoff's, where Mike greeted him effusively. "My restaurant is my home, and my home is yours," Mike assured Proser . . . "Then I may bring that girl inside with me?" asked Monte . . . "Of course," said the restaurateur. "Tonight, this is mine, and mine is yours" . . . They were seated at the best table. And when they left the actress asked Romanoff: "And may I come Sunday night?" . . . Mike bowed, politely, and whispered: "Positively—not."

Walter Duranty is writing a movie in collaboration with Mary Anita Loos. It's called "Dance On the Volcano" . . . A Long Island socialite was arrested this week when he tried to break into the North Shore home of Pietro Di Donato, while yelling: "I'm going to demolish the home of the author of 'Christ In Concrete.' He shouldn't have written such things" . . . Because of the faithful services being rendered by Gertrude Lawrence, the National Museum of London will acquire Paul Meltzner's portrait of her . . . Leo C. Rosten's book, "Hollywood," will be the most successful book ever written about the film colony. Life will do a photo spread about the book, and another picture magazine will have three articles about it. This is a big week for Rosten. His new Warner picture, "All Through the Night," was previewed and adjudged a hit.

Russel Crouse recently lectured before the students at the Columbia School of Journalism and revealed this story about "Life With Father" . . . The family of the late Clarence Day hesitated about permitting the Day stories to be dramatized by Crouse and Howard Lindsay . . . The Days felt that a Broadway production might jeopardize the movie rights—now worth over $300,000—for which they had received an offer of $70,000 . . . The film studio which made that original offer also assured the family that they had just the man to play the title role—W. C. Fields.

Under Lens-Lease, No Doubt!

Hollywood, Dec. 2

Washington didn't quite know what a Navy production was until Commander John Ford joined up and took command of a sub-destroyer, and took on as his officers Hollywood's famous cameramen. If our glamour girls retire for the duration, you'll know that their pets, who know every angle of their faces, are now chasing submarines in the North Atlantic instead of lines. Ford's got Kellogg, Zeigler, McGrath and Winkoop. Gregg Toland is about to join up. Now if that isn't a dirty trick on our town, I don't know what is. I always said that Irishman had a keen sense of humor. When a friend in Washington tried to get him to talk about his last picture "How Green Was My Valley" (which will no doubt get an Academy award), Ford said, "I'm glad you think it's good, because when this is over, I'll undoubtedly have to go back and make 'em—but pictures seem so unimportant with what's going on in the world today."

JANET GAYNOR

Warners are going to get an actress for "Mrs. Skeffington" or bust. First Tallulah Bankhead was announced, then Janet Gaynor, then Norma Shearer. And now they've caught up with Garbo.

Sergeant Edmund North, who, with young Goss, wrote "One Night of Love", tells me that when he was at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, he met some swank friends who had an estate nearby. Wanting to do something nice for the boys, they invited six of them and some girls for dinner. Well, party ended with all hands shooting craps. Host and hostess cleaned the boys of $85, and were they mortified!

Donald Hough, our top fan writer, saved up $2700 for an Eastern vacation. Stopped over in Chicago, and the boys at Riccardo's Cafe threw a party for him because he'd written the place up. Don was so touched he got in a poker game with waiters, lost everything, went to New York, sold $4000 worth of stories, came back to Riccardo's, got in another poker game, waiters took that, too—and he had to borrow money to get back home!

Pat on the back for Director Garson Kanin, our dollar-a-year man in Washington, with the OEM, which eventually will take over censorship of propaganda, pictures, press and radio. Gee, am I glad I've been nice to that guy!

Mrs. Uppington, of Fibber McGee and Molly's show, is wowing them in personals up in San Francisco. Yet not a dozen people in the picture business know her by sight.

Though Adeline Reynolds is eighty, they had to ask her to remove her teeth so she'd look old for a mother's role in "Tuttles of Tahiti" . . . And darling Dame May Whitty had quite a time growing young for Joan Fontaine's mother in "Suspicion". Yet when she tested for "Mrs. Miniver", Willie Wyler gave her one look and said, 'Sorry, darling, you're too young. Boys, put some lines in her face."

Mary Martin brought the bambino home from the hospital with flash bulbs and things . . . The town is mourning with Jackie Cooper over the passing of his mother.

Old timers will be interested to know that Mary Gordon, their favorite cook in the RKO commissary twenty years ago, is back on the lot, this time with a fat role in "Powder Town".

Letters Outmoded By Love Records

Love records instead of love letters are actor Don De Fore's up-to-date solution to the problems of long distance courtship.

De Fore, who is playing his original Broadway stage role in Warner Brothers' film production of "The Male Animal," is engaged to Marion Holmes, a singer now appearing in Chicago.

He found letter writing unsatisfactory, so he records his love messages on phonograph discs and airmails the records to Chicago.

Unusually Thrilling

Said to contain more thrills and suspense than is usually found in a detective-mystery melodrama, "Lady Scarface" features Dennis O'Keefe, Judith Anderson and Frances Neal in a notable cast.

All District Troops to Pass Through City

By Marshall Andrews
Post Staff Writer

Morven, N. C., Dec. 2.—All District troops in the Twenty-ninth Division will pass through Washington on their way back to Fort George G. Meade, Md., according to route schedules being compiled by division staff.

If plans tentatively adopted are followed, the 121st Engineers, 104th Quartermaster Regiment and special troops will reach Washington between 4 a. m. and 6 a. m. Tuesday, December 9. They will travel northward with the Fifty-eighth Brigade and will require about three hours to clear the District.

The Fifty-eighth Brigade, with division troops, will march north in the west column, bivouacking next Sunday night at Boydton, Va. The Eighty-eighth and Fifty-fourth Brigades will compose the east column, bivouacking Sunday at South Hill, Va., and moving into Fort Meade Tuesday over the Morgantown Bridge and through Upper Marlboro, Md.

While most of the division will move back into barracks vacated last September, the Twenty-ninth Antitank Battalion will return to tents. These tents will be walled, floored and heated and will be used in order to keep the battalion, organized last summer from field artillery regimental antitank batteries, together as a unit.

Company E, 121st Engineers, originally assigned to the battalion will be transferred back to its regiment, maneuvers having shown the work of barricading and mine planting can be done efficiently by the firing batteries. Two companies of infantry will be transferred to the battalion to support its guns.

9 Lieutenants Ordered To Assume Key Posts

Cheraw, S. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—Col. Harry C. Ruhl today ordered nine lieutenants to assume key posts in Baltimore's 175th Infantry Regiment, replacing over-age officers who either have been transferred to administrative jobs or are awaiting transfer orders.

The move was in line with the Army's policy to substitute new blood for old in command posts. Col. Ruhl stressed that promotions were not designed to prevent Regular Army officers from being placed in the Twenty-ninth Division when about a score of over-age officers will be relieved of field positions in the federalized National Guard unit February 3.

"Advancements were given those who have completed the required term of service and have proved themselves capable of fulfilling executive jobs," he said. Vacancies are being filled as soon as they occur. All lieutenants placed in captain's positions have been recommended for promotion."

New officers, most of whom have been advanced to company commanders, will assume their duties before the division starts back to Fort George G. Meade Sunday.

Matilda Tells Jury of Baby's Birth in Md.

By the Associated Press

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 2.—Matilda Le Boyer, husky 17-year-old brunette, testified today in a calm voice that she gave birth to a baby at Sinai Hospital, in Baltimore, January 27.

The plaintiff, who accused Insurance Salesman Isaac A. Brown of seducing her and then attempting to kill her, told the jam-packed courtroom that the baby, three months premature, "lived a short time."

Brown is on trial in Westchester County Court on charges of attempted murder on her accusation that he stabbed her in the neck last December 19 while she thought he was performing an abortion.

The girl said she had gone to Baltimore with her father, an older sister and a cousin.

She testified before a jury of five women and seven men that she had not "done anything about her pregnancy before because it was quite a horrible condition" and she didn't want even her family to know about it.

Brown, 41, contends he was with his wife and friends at the time of the alleged stabbing.

The girl admitted under Keppler's questioning that she first had said she was in an accident and did not tell the story about Brown until later conferences with authorities.

Earlier, Miss Le Boyer testified that Brown had attacked her twice in his Greenwich Village apartment in Manhattan and then had offered to perform an operation. She said she had gone to the apartment to see him about a secretarial position.

The plaintiff, stoic throughout most of the day's testimony, collapsed outside the courtroom for the second day.

Orgies Caused Girl's Death, Jury Told

By the United Press

Farmington, Me., Dec. 2.—The prosecution and defense agreed today that debauchery and jealousy caused the death of Miss Florence Buzzell, and a jury of 11 men and 1 woman will decide tomorrow whether she committed suicide or was murdered by Fred G. Wheeler.

The defense, in a surprise move, rested its case without calling the wealthy cattle dealer to the stand in his own defense. After summations by the State and Wheeler's defense attorney, it was announced that Judge Albert Beliveau would deliver his charge tomorrow.

Benjamin L. Berman, Wheeler's counsel, said the 20-year-old girl was depressed because she had lost Wheeler, who was said to have contributed $3000 to help her family and send her to business school.

"She wanted to continue with Wheeler and keep the luxuries to which she had been accustomed," Berman said. "She was a suicide as a result of losing him."

Attorney General Frank I. Cowan once again outlined events preceding the death of Miss Buzzell in a hayfield June 7 and recalled witnesses' descriptions of amorous scenes in the girl's apartment.

"We find a picture of Fred Wheeler too old for her and of her taking up with younger men . . . We have shown you infatuation and opportunity and the State charges Fred Wheeler killed that girl."

If convicted, Wheeler faced a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment.

Mrs. Annie Finegan Dies at Home Here; Burial Tomorrow

Mrs. Annie E. Finegan, 68, of 2005 Belmont Road Northwest, died at her home yesterday. Requiem mass will be said at the St. Thomas the Apostle Church, Twenty-seventh Street and Woodley Road Northwest, tomorrow at 10 a. m. Interment will be in the Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Finegan is survived by her husband, James N. Finegan; five sons, John J., of New Orleans; Robert J., Charles J., and Paul V., of Washington, and James L., of Tulsa, Okla.; four daughters, Mrs. Thomas E. Lyons, Mrs. Clement A. Didden, Mrs. T. A. Hindman, and Helen Finegan, of Washington, and three sisters, Mrs. Hannah McDonnell, of Richmond, Va.; Sister Teresa, of Baltimore, Md., and Miss Agnes T. Ferriter, of Lancaster, Pa.

Col. Cummings Dies in Portugal

The death of Lieut. Col. Charles M. Cummings, Army Air Corps, in Lisbon, Portugal, was reported yesterday by the War Department.

The 49-year-old officer died of "natural causes," the department said, while "en route to Washington from special duty abroad."

He was born January 10, 1892, in Ohio and was educated at Wooster College, Ohio; Wisconsin University and Ohio State University.

He was a bachelor and his home is listed as Oberlin, Ill.

Md. Court Aide Quits After 48-Year Service

Centerville, Md., Dec. 2 (AP).—B. Hackett Turner, one of the Eastern Shore's most widely known court officials, this month winds up a 48-year job.

Turner, deputy clerk of Queen Annes County Circuit Court, has submitted his resignation, effective this month. Thus, he terminates a connection begun in 1893.

DEL RIO MAY OPEN ON NEW YEAR'S EVE. After tremendous struggles over priorities, and five redrawings of plans, work on the new Del Rio at 727 Fifteenth Street Northwest is really beginning to boom along. The stunning "wave ceiling" is already installed and the mezzanine will go up shortly. When completed the Del Rio will hold around 500 merrymakers on its main floor, mezzanine and in the cocktail lounge. Owner Herbert Sachs is sure that he will be able to open around New Year's but not quite certain that he'll be able to say "Welcome" to one and all on New Year's Eve. Here's hoping!

Mayfair's Paul Kain has just signed and sealed a contract to lead his orchestra at Glen Echo again next year. This will make Paul's third season at the big amusement park.

GROWING GYPSIES. Ingratiating new faces and new talents have been added to the Plymouth Gypsies. They include black-eyed and beautiful Sylvia Gould, accordionist; Alex, who plays a wicked violin; Jack Allen, who alternates effectively on 'cello, clarinet and sax. The new set-up of the Gypsies will go into action for the first time tomorrow eve; promises to provide vitamized music.

ONCE A CLOWN, ALWAYS A CLOWN. Maestro Layton Bailey, of the Metronome Room, once had a brief career a: a vaudeville comedian and the fascination of clowning still grips him. Currently, he's in the throes of producing a comic skit that's due to pop in Metronome any night.

DOUBLE ANDREWS SISTERS. The Six Debutantes, singing with Lester Cole at the Shoreham, warble with the finish of the Andrews Sisters—but twice as effectively since there are twice as many of them . . . That's the quite logical proposition of Publicist Joe Deupree, of the Shoreham. But the Debbies do sound sumptuous in "Tonight We Love" and a Victor Herbert medley.

Teddy, suave greeter of the Mayflower Lounge, is discovering both the power of publicity and the largeness of his circle of friends. A Post story about Teddy was reprinted in other papers throughout the country and he's receiving numbers of clippings of the yarn from friends who spotted it in their home town papers.

GOWN SHOPPING. "I never saw young men take such an interest in a girl's clothes," said a saleslady in a gown department who'd sold a formal to a pretty girl accompanied by two esquires . . . She'd have understood if she'd know the customers were the Neptune Room's Harding-Moss-Joyce Trio selecting a new gown for Billie Joyce to wear before the "mike." Dick Harding and Bill Moss always go along with Billie when she buys gowns for professional wear. By putting all their heads together, they figure they'll select something properly glamorous but not too sophisticated.

SEARCH FOR A SINGER. The King Cole Room's owner, Vincent Gallagher, is auditioning girl singers by the dozen these days, has also gone to New York to look over canaries. The lucky selectee will fill Eve Knight's place during the winter.

MOVIE STAR INCOGNITO. Though beauteous Ellen Drew is currently appearing in "The Night of January Sixteenth" at the Metropolitan, she didn't seem to be recognized by dancers in the Cosmos Room when she and her husband, Captain Bartlett, gave a big party. The answer is probably because she is such a completely natural and unaffected person, doesn't look or act a bit like the popular conception of a movie star.

THE CAVALIERS, creators of musical jollity at the Hi Hat

Don Carper of the Cafe Caprice was recently figuring out the amount of insurance he should take out on the musical instruments of his Five. It totted up to $3000. These sweet notes come high.

ONE BIG LAUGH, and without a let-up, is the act of Ross, Lane and Ross in Paul Young's. They have something they call "The Comical Side of the News" that's not exactly kind to newspapers but is roaringly funny. In "Uncle Tom" they cavort as Legree, Little Eva and Uncle Tom. In their own idea of the "boompsa daisy" they lure customers out on the floor to join in the "boomping."

SEA FOOD ITALIENNE. Owner Louis, of the Copocabana knows how to give a different and delicious twist to Italian dinners. The other night he served a "sea food Italian dinner" that was a rare feast. It included spaghetti with a sauce full of finely chopped clams, stuffed lobster seasoned in Neapolitan style.

THE LITTLEST SINGER. Four-year-old Dawn Trotter, who's blond and pretty as a Christmas doll, made an impromptu singing debut at Restaurant "823" a couple of nights ago. She'd been singing along with Van Taylor as she ate her dinner and he presently coaxed her to the "mike" where she really gave on "You Are My Sunshine." Oh, yes, Dawn demanded and received a fee for her singing—an extra dish of ice cream.

New skits, songs and dances will soon be added to the brilliant Russian revue at the Balalaika. It's planned to change the show about once a month. Don't take a chance on missing the marvelous current show before it makes way for the next one.

THESE DRAW HEAVY APPLAUSE. Alfredo Seville's playful rendition of "It Ain't Necessarily So" at the Troika. A case of operatic technic applied effectively to a pop number. . . . Patricia Prochnik's warbling of that fine Gershwin oldie, "Blah, Blah, Blah" in the Pall Mall Room. . . . Bob Sydell's singing of "I Saw a Million Faces" in Versailles. Actually, he just sees a couple of hundred faces. That's all the Versailles can hold. . . . The "hot foot" treatment that Ralph Hawkins' band gives to all fox trots at the new Crossroads. The dancers can't get enough of the Hawkins jive. . . . Felix Zimmer's accordioning of Viennese waltzes which is always one of the most popular parts of the floor show at the Casino Royal. . . . Those songs of the winning football teams that Ida Clarke always has on tap in the Lounge Riviera. They're exactly what the fans ordered.

PERHAPS WE SHOULDN'T TELL, but there's a Rainbow Room patron who's always winning bets on the orchestra playing a certain number. The secret is that it's his favorite song and the band always plays it for him as soon as they spot him.

THE NIGHTINGALE is such an established institution as a dance spot that most of its patrons call it by its pet name, the 'Gale. Over several highly successful years of operation it has built up a clientele of thousands who count that week lost when they don't "go 'Galeing." Dance music is by Jack Maggio's 14-man band.

River Bend's popularity is as high in the later part of the year as during the summer. Nothing short of a blizzard will keep the River Bend patrons from enjoying the Wednesday "Piggy Parties" and the over-size chicken dinners on other days. Lively dance rhythms by George Stein's orchestra.

THE EL MOROCCO, new spot out Bladensburg way, promises to be a prime gathering spot for real stay-uppers. It's open from 5 p. m. to 5 a. m. with music by the Waikiki Islanders.

THE EL MOROCCO, new spot

Northampton, Va., County Treasurer Held in Shortage

Eastville, Va., Dec. 2 (AP).—Eber V. Downs, 72, the treasurer of Northampton County for 30 years, was arrested today on a charge of misappropriating public funds in his custody.

The warrant, sworn to by Commonwealth's Attorney Charles M. Lankford, jr., specifically charged the misappropriation of $2,300, but Lankford said members of the staff of State Auditor McCarthy Downs already had uncovered "an admitted shortage of between $17,000 and $18,000." This audit is still under way.

Treasurer Downs, a leader of the Democratic Party in this Eastern Shore county, has resigned his office, which he first assumed January 1, 1912. He was released today on $5,000 bond.

A new treasurer, William C. Roberts, was sworn in today by Circuit Judge John E. Nottingham.

Project Approved For Indianhead

A $35,000 defense project to provide additional hospital facilities for defense workers and their families an Indianhead, Md., was approved yesterday by the Federal Works Administration.

The project calls for a 20-bed addition to the physician's memorial hospital.

ALONG THE BASEBALL FRONT

Organized baseball is something less than a big, happy family. Trouble has been stirring for a year and it is rushing toward a climax next week at Chicago, where the big leagues will hold their annual meeting. The minor leagues are making a lusty howl for a louder voice in many matters.

POVICH

The minors are flexing their muscles and beginning to talk big. They are demanding the right to vote on the selection of a baseball commissioner when Judge Landis' term expires, as it will in 1942. Hitherto, the minor leagues have quietly accepted the big leagues' choice of a commissioner, but now they want to speak out for themselves.

The minors are making a well-timed squawk. This is the year when the major-minor agreement runs out after its latest seven-year term. Unless they get the right to vote on the commissioner, they threaten to terminate the major-minor pact which binds them to Landis' jurisdiction, and operate independently of the big leagues.

That's the nub of all organized baseball—the major-minor agreement. It clearly defines Landis' authority to rule over all clubs, players and leagues from the majors to the lowliest Class D circuit. It is the law by which minor leaguers are drafted into the big leagues for a stipulated consideration, and it protects the minors from territorial invasion by big league clubs.

The two big leagues want to keep the minors in what they consider their place. They point out that the minors get the benefit of Landis' supervision without paying any of Landis' $45,000 salary. The minors never paid a dime of Landis' salary even when it was $65,000, before the judge took a voluntary $20,000 cut. Landis took that cut during the depression and has never sought to restore it, saying "$45,000 is enough."

Drafting of Players Limited

There have been other periods in organized baseball when the majors and minors have not been friendly. For several years prior to 1920, they were actually on the outs. The minors didn't like the idea of the majors drafting their players at a specific price. They held out so strenuously that they did win a boost in the draft price from $4,000 to $7,500, which has been the fixed price for AA league players for the past 21 seasons.

Back in 1920, the minors won not only a $3,500 increase in the draft price but they gained another point limiting the majors to drafting only one man off each Class AA of Class A league club, thus averting wholesale raids on their teams.

If the minors get tough next week, and insist on a vote in naming the commissioner, then it could be, of course, total war between the majors and minors. No longer would the majors respect minor league territory. With the end of the pact, the majors could, for example, move the St. Louis Browns into Kansas City without paying the American Association indemnity. They no longer would respect minor league contracts with players and would lure the minors' stars with better salaries and duck the high purchase prices.

It probably won't come to that, though. The majors will talk the minors out of their toughness. In fact, the minors are divided among themselves. Their apparent belligerency is something of a plot by certain major league characters to undermine the authority of Judge Landis. One big league spokesman labels it this way:

The Minors Need the Majors

"The minors can't break away from the majors because the major leagues own too many minor league farms. If it wasn't for that, there wouldn't be any trouble and we'd sign another seven-year agreement on the subject. But some of our big league people are out to make trouble for Landis.

Branch Rickey, of the Cardinals, is at the bottom of the whole mess. He doesn't like Landis because the judge won't let him get away with manipulating farmed-out players, and he wants to get the minor leagues on his side. If the minors get a vote in naming the commissioner, Rickey could hold that as a threat over Landis. But they won't get the vote and Rickey won't get anywhere with his plan."

Actually, the minors have no complaint with Landis' authority. He has leaned backward to give the minors a fair shake and any breakaway from the majors at this time threatens the complete structure of minor league ball. If America enters the war, the minors may be doomed. During the last war, virtually every minor league folded and only the majors were able to maintain playing schedules. It is major league investment in minor league clubs that enables the minors to operate. The minors know these things. Their tough talk probably isn't scaring the big leagues.

The Frick and Frack Mystery Explained

New York, Dec. 2.—Of all the wonders that have sprung up during the amazing growth of the figure-skating business, the top novelty is a team of two Swiss youths named Werner Grobli and Hansruebi Mauch, who call themselves Frick and Frack. Without mirrors and wires they do things which plainly need mirrors and wires.

CONSIDINE

This is their third trip to New York with the ice follies, but their act is harder than ever to believe. They still skate in the posture of men lying on imaginary couches with their lower legs dangling over the edge. There seems to be no reason why they shouldn't just fall back on their backs and the bases of their skulls. But they don't.

They told us something about their act today. Seems that it's all an optical illusion, at least their apparent center of gravity is. The fact that their knees protrude out in front of their spread-eagled skates, gives them just the right number of ounces to balance what looks like the preponderant weight of their bodies, arms and heads.

Centrifugal force has a lot to do with their little miracle, too, for if they ever stopped they'd go kerplunk—just as a bicycle rider would fall while going around the corner, if stopped suddenly, and just as the contents of a bucket of water would cascade down on top of the person who was swinging it, if the person stopped the swing immediately over head.

It's An Engineering Feat

Frick has it all worked out on charts and in mathematics. He was a student in the school of architecture and engineering at the University of Zurich when he accidentally hit upon his weird manner of skating, so he happens to know why it works. Frack, who lived next door to Frick in Basel, was taking a business course and working in a Swiss bank, when he mastered it.

It was all an accident. Seems that one day they were practicing their routine figure skating exercises, in the hope of getting good enough to compete in the 1936 Olympics at Berlin, when both grew tired of the constant work involved and began to burlesque the other skaters on the ice. Frick saw an old gaffer lose control of his legs and started to fall backwards, fighting for his balance. Frick imitated him, starting to fall from the standard spread-eagle position. But instinctively he drew his skates back under his body, to break the fall, and didn't fall. He just kept breezing along the ice.

He and Frack began working and perfecting the stunt and soon became the rage of skaters in Basel. They began to get a few modest offers to put on their act at various Swiss rinks, and finally began traveling to other countries.

It was during one of these trips that Oscar L. Richard, the octogenarian blade who always skates in the swank New York skating club's show, saw them and said he believed he could fix it for them to come to this country. But before they got around to that they appeared before most of the crowned heads then crowned and were royally commanded to skate for Queen Elizabeth and the princesses in London.

They never got around to the command performance, however, because shortly before they were to appear, Frick broke his leg. He ran over a hairpin on the ice. Even a hairpin is a ruinous obstacle to hit, during their routine—which gives you some idea of the sensitive balance and physical coordination they put into their stunt.

When they finally came here, the show that hired them flopped. They toured the ever-growing circuit of small local shows and when they got to St. Paul they came to the attention of St. Paul's gifts to the skating business—Oscar Johnson and the Shipstad Brothers, who had built up the ice follies from a broken shoestring to a skating extravaganza that was drawing a million customers a season. Johnson and the Shipstads hired them, gave them a proper background for their act. There's nothing like it.

A lot of money has been poured into the new follies, and the results are first class. The show is fast, funny, topical and full of youthful, zestful skating. It still stands as close to the top success story in sport, for it drew fewer customers than there were members of the cast when it opened in Tulsa six years ago. It and Sonja Henie created a new United States sports industry, and as long as the ice people keep coming up with Fricks and Fracks, there'll be no deflation in this bullish market.

Gets Award Of Maxwell Committee

Virginia's Captain Follows Such Stars As O'Brien, Frank, Kinnick and Harmon

By the United Press

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—Bill Dudley, 19-year-old captain of the Virginia football team, tonight was granted the annual Maxwell Memorial Award as the Nation's outstanding gridiron player.

Dudley, who lives at Bluefield, Va., led the Virginia squad to eight victories during the recent season, and lost only to Yale by a score of 21-19.

During the year, Virginia piled up a total of 279 points, of which Dudley scored 134, with 22 of them coming in the final game against North Carolina.

Coach Frank Murray classed the youthful Dudley as the greatest back ever to play on his teams.

With the award, Dudley joins such other football notables as Clint Frank, Davey O'Brien, Niles Kinnick and Tommy Harmon in being designated by the memorial committee as the outstanding player of the year.

Dudley Considers Shrine Game Bid

By the Associated Press

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 2.—Bill Dudley, retiring captain of the University of Virginia's football team and the Nation's leading collegiate scorer for 1941, tentatively has accepted a bid to play in the annual East-West all-star game at San Francisco on New Year's Day.

Announcement of Dudley's invitation from Andy Kerr, Colgate mentor, who has been coaching the Eastern squad for the game for many years, was made at a party given in honor of the Virginia team here last night after the annual football banquet.

The Cavalier leader reserved the right to withdraw his acceptance of the bid, however, should Virginia receive and accept a bowl bid. Virginia has been mentioned in connection with the Sun Bowl game.

Previously, the Virginia halfback had received an invitation to play in the North-South game at Montgomery, Ala., but had withheld acceptance. He notified officials of the event today that he would be unable to accept the bid.

Three 'Skins Invited to Coast Game

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—Tom Gallery, Los Angeles promoter, mentioned today the names of 17 professional football players he probably will invite to play in a post-season game at Los Angeles January 4.

He indicated these players would receive invitations:

Brooklyn Dodgers—"Ace" Parker, halfback; "Bruiser" Kinnard, tackle; Perry Schwartz, end.

Detroit Lions—Bob Nelson or Al Wojiechowicz, centers.

Cleveland Rams — Parker Hall, halfback.

Chicago Cardinals—Bill Dewell, end; Marshall Goldberg, fullback.

Lee Savold Stops Knox In 6th Round

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 2.—Lee Savold, 190, of Des Moines, Iowa, but now fighting out of Paterson, scored a technical knockout over Buddy Knox, 192, of Dayton, Ohio, in the sixth heat of a scheduled ten-round feature of Mayor William Furrey's annual Christmas fund basket boxing show before a crowd of 5000 at the Paterson Armory tonight.

Referee Paul Cavalier, acting on instructions of a State Athletic Commission physician, refused to allow Knox to come out for the sixth because of a deep cut over his left eye.

Savold, winner of the recent "white hope tournament" at Detroit, opened the cut in the first round and sent a steady stream of punches to the injured optic before a halt was called. There was no semblance of a knockdown punch, but the bout was fought at a fast pace. Savold held a slight edge.

The scheduled eight-round semi-final between Wild Bill McDowell, 161, Paterson, and Jackie Stewart, 162, Paterson, also ended because of a cut over a left eye with McDowell the winner in 35 seconds of the fifth heat. Referee Tommy Elm stopped this contest when Stewart sustained the injury.

Fists Fly as Eagles Bow to Gulls, 3 to 2

Local Hockey Team's Streak Ends In Flurry of Battling at Riverside

By Jack Munhall

Riverside Stadium's worst riot flared last night after the Atlantic Sea Gulls smashed the Washington Eagles' three-match winning streak, 3-2, before 2100 spectators, despite being outnumbered five players to four for the final five minutes.

The trouble started when Len Burrage rushed at Nelson Dixon, Sea Gulls' defenseman, who had struck him in the face with his stick and drawn a match penalty late in the third period.

Players at first tried to keep Burrage and Dixon apart, but soon they were all battling. Spectators spilled out of the stands and added to the confusion. Tom McCormack, Eagles' center, who was not in uniform due to a leg injury, connected on the chin of Coach Burt Corbeau, of Atlantic City, flooring that portly gentleman as if he had been swatted with a sledgehammer.

Burrage, with blood streaming from a cut over his left eye, charged around like a wild man and finally made contact with Dixon, and as they struggled, Burrage received help from a woman spectator who pummeled the Atlantic City player with her fists.

At the main entrance to the rink, the fans were milling around in such a fashion that several fights going on in the center of them, could not be clearly seen. However, there was plenty of slugging visible in four or five different sectors.

Hartley Rues D. C. Boxing's Dependence

Congressman Fred A. Hartley, jr., of New Jersey, father of the District of Columbia boxing law, declared that the District Boxing Commission should be self-supporting instead of dependent on the District government for funds.

Hartley, who issued a statement, pointed out that "the boxing commission had ample revenue from its percentage of fight shows to support itself."

The current law provides that the District government furnish to the boxing commission "such office space and clerical and other assistance as may be necessary." Hartley declared he would propose changes in the law with a view to paying boxing commission expenses out of boxing's revenue.

Another change proposed by Hartley would provide for the use of 6-ounce gloves in fights here instead of the 8-ounce gloves demanded by the law.

Lou Boudreau Names Vets Tribe Aides

By the Associated Press

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 2.—Lou Boudreau, 24-year-old manager of the Cleveland Indians, chose two veterans today for his coaching staff to give the club's direction a balance between youth and experience.

He named Oscar Melillo and Burt Shotton as his chief aides. Boudreau also said George Susce, bull-pen catcher, would be continued on the Cleveland coaching list.

"I gave a great deal of study to these selections," Boudreau said, "and feel sure that I have obtained two men who will be of great assistance."

He said he wanted men who could help handle the club while he was playing and that "the records of these men stand for themselves."

Melillo, who had a long playing career in the American League, was a coach for Oscar Vitt at Cleveland, but was deposed last year when Roger Peckinpaugh became manager. He was not in baseball last season.

Shotton managed the Columbus Redbirds to the American Association pennant last summer.

The strangest thing about the rehiring of the outspoken Melillo is that he publicly declared the players who rebelled against Vitt's managerial authority had forfeited his (Melillo's) regard, and that he would not work with them last season under any circumtsances. The former star second sacker for the St. Louis and Boston Americans has been out of baseball in the ensuing year, but many of the rebellious players remain with the team.

Melillo and Shotton succeed Earl Whitehill and "Dutch" Zwilling, the latter being with the Indians only a few weeks for the 1941 season before leaving to direct a farm club.

Shotton, 57, spent 13 of his 14 major playing years in St. Louis outfields—8 with the Browns and 5 with the Cardinals. He managed the Phillies from 1928 through 1933, spent 1934 as a Cincinnati Reds' coach, moved to Rochester as manager in 1935 and went to Columbus a year later. He won two American Association pennants there, one in 1937, and another this year, also taking the Little World Series from Montreal.

First Wisconsin Sophomore Named As 'Most Valuable'

By International News Service

Madison, Wis., Dec. 2.—Marlin (Pat) Harder, Wisconsin's high-scoring fullback, tonight became the only sophomore in Badger football history to be voted the most valuable player to his team. The honor was conferred on Harder at the annual football banquet for the Badger squad. In his first year of college competition, Harder, who prepped at Washington High of Milwaukee, led Big Ten scorers with 58 points and was named on the International News Service All-Conference team.

Tom Farris, senior quarterback, from Chicago, was elected captain of the 1941 team.

Latter Heads Farm System And Scouting

Both Given Two-Year Contracts in Sudden Move; Ott Stunned, His Plans Uncertain

By the Associated Press

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 2.—The New York Giants unexpectedly moved Bill Terry into the front office today and named Mel Ott playing manager in a surprise shift calculated to restore the decrepit Giants to a dominant position in the National League.

Terry was made general manager of the farm system and scouting staff and given general advisory powers in the direction of the club, while Ott, 32-year-old right fielder, was rewarded for 16 years of faithful playing service by giving him charge of the team on the field.

President Horace Stoneham said Terry would be available to help Ott if the quiet little veteran wanted any, but declared direction of the ball club now was up to Ott.

Get Two-Year Contracts

Both Terry and Ott were given two-year contracts. Terry, who had managed the Giants since succeeding John McGraw in the middle of the 1932 season, was believed to have taken a cut in salary from $42,500 to about $30,000 in order to persuade Stoneham to create the job which Terry long had coveted. Terry's former contract which had another year to run was canceled. Ott was believed to have been given a salary of about $25,000.

The reorganization followed a night and a day of conferences between Stoneham, Terry and other Giants' officials, but it startled even Ott himself, who came here from his Louisiana home to talk about his next year's contract and to visit friends.

After the decision to offer Ott the managership had been made, he could not be located by Stoneham for several hours and he was still slightly stunned when Stoneham called newspapermen into his suite to make the announcement. "This is such a surprise to me that I haven't had time yet to make any plans," Ott murmured.

Terry Confident

Consequently, the task of outlining the aims of the new administration was left to Terry, who asserted, "I'm delighted by the new setup and I think this will enable us to make the Giants a strong club again. This is the work I have been wanting to do and I feel sure that I can give Mel some ball players that will be a great deal better than what I have had to work with recently."

Because of the suddenness of the appointments no one could say what would be done about coaches, although it was understood Ott would probably keep Adolf Luque of the present staff at least.

Ott came to the Giants in 1925 before he was 16 years old and while the club was managed by John McGraw. He was a catcher, but McGraw placed him in the outfield and later Terry was forced to use him at third base. He is the leading home run hitter of the National League with a total of 415, a league record to his credit. Last season he hit 27 homers while batting .286, but until this year he had a lifetime batting average of .313. He hit 42 home runs in 1929 and led the league in home runs five different years. He has been the team captain for many years. Terry also was a long-time Giant star, playing first base for 14 years and succeeding McGraw as manager in the middle of the 1932 season.

Redskins' 'Grandstand' Football Assures 1942 'Gate'

Four Battles Will Linger In Fans' Mind

Customers Likely To Remember How, Not That, Local Pros Lost Games

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

The Redskins may have lost a little prestige this season in compiling their worst won-and-lost record since 1935, but they've been playing the type of football that will bring the spectators out again next year. In eight of their ten league starts the ball game could have been won or lost in the last 90 seconds.

Four times the Redskins were in position to turn defeat into victory with less than two minutes to play and in as many winning performances by touchdown or less margins their opponents were knocking at the Redskin lead with only a play or two remaining.

Any football fan leaving any game but the home meeting with the Steelers and the Bear game in Chicago before the final gun would have missed something, and even in the 35-21 defeat by the Bears the Redskins were on the 5-yard line at the end. The 23-3 rout of the Steelers here was the only game of the season marked by a dull second half.

In the four Redskin defeats by close margins Sammy Baugh was always in there pitching in the last 90 seconds and in all four games his desperate aerials were intercepted by the opposition to end the Redskin threat.

Interception Helped

Hank Soar, the New York Giant halfback, intercepted a Baugh pass in the season's opener here to protect the Giant lead of 13-7. The clock showed 90 seconds remaining and the Giants a trifle panicky, as all teams are with Baugh passing in the closing seconds, when Soar came through with the timely interception.

The next week against the Dodgers, Brooklyn was driving from deep in its own territory with 80 seconds to play when Rookie Fred Davis recovered a fumble on the Dodger 25-yard line. The Redskins were leading, 3-0, but Baugh passed on the next play only to have Ben Fish intercept it on the goal line. The Dodgers had time for one or two plays but they were held without a gain.

The first time the Redskins took to the road it was against the supposedly feeble opposition of the Pittsburgh Steelers but in a second-half comeback the hosts pulled up to 17-14 after trailing, 17-0, and on the last play of the game Coley McDonough threw a potential touchdown pass which was just too far for Steeler End George Platukis.

In Philadelphia the following week Sammy Baugh had pulled the Redskins out of a 17-14 deficit with less than five minutes to play with a touchdown pass to Ed Justice but the Eagles were firing back at the Redskin margin at the final gun.

Bob Titchenal, the Redskin center, was sent into the game here with the Cleveland Rams with less than two minutes to go as the Redskin most likely to intercept a pass. The Rams were trailing, 17-13, with Gaylon Smith passing, when on his second play Titchenal intercepted a pass and ended the Ram threat. The ball game was over after the following play.

The several hundred Redskin rooters who followed the team to Brooklyn can hardly forget the last 90 seconds of that ball game when Sammy Baugh was passing a muddy ball with deadly accuracy and menacing the 13-7 Dodger lead. Al Kreuger had been stopped on the Dodger 12-yard line after a spectacular catch of a Baugh pass but Sammy's next effort found the unintended arms of Dodger Halfback Bill Leckonby as the timer's gun sealed the Brooklyn triumph.

It was Sammy Baugh again in New York, having a muddy ball in the semidarkness of the Polo Grounds in a desperate effort to earn the Redskins a tie in a ball game they lost, 20-13. Baugh said later he could not tell a Redskin from a Giant 20 yards away, at a time when the Redskins needed 50 yards at a crack, and the Giants finally took over on their own 35 and had time for a play.

Pitching 'Em Again

The 36,000 Don Hutson admirers of last Sunday watched Baugh in his familiar position of a one-man rescue squad, flinging would-be touchdown passes with only seconds to play when Packer Andy Uram came up with an interception and a 28-yard runback to Redskin territory which preceded the final gun.

Next Sunday's finale with the Philadelphia Eagles at Griffith Stadium promises to be another of those 60-minute battles. The Redskins have proven throughout the schedule to be just a little better than the bad teams in the league, not quite as good as the top clubs and just about even with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Washington will be a familiar place to at least four members of the Eagles, Jim Castiglia, Joe Frank and Lou Ghecas, all prominent Georgetown gridmen, and Jim Banta, who went to Philedalphia from the Redskins for the waiver price.

The Eagles are already consigned to fourth place in the five-team Eastern division, having beaten the Steelers, the Chicago Cardinals in an upset and tied the Steelers.

Rookies to Get With Redskins In Sunday Game

Redskins Coach Ray Flaherty revealed last night that he plans extensive use of his rookies in Sunday's finale with the Philadelphia Eagles at Griffith Stadium.

Ken Dow, hard-hitting back from Oregon State; Jim Stuart, Oregon tackle converted to end, and Al Krueger, ace pass-catching end from Southern California, are three newcomers who will seen plenty of action.

'Sure, It's True,' Says College Girl of Betrothal to Soose

Margaret Unger, the 19-year-old Smith College senior who yesterday confirmed the rumor that she is engaged to Billy Soose, former middleweight fight champion

Athletic Miss, 19 Years Old, Plans to See Former Middleweight Fight King Soon

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 2 (AP).—Miss Margaret Unger, 19, blue-eyed, athletic Smith College senior from East Greenville, Pa., today confirmed that she was engaged to Billy Soose, former middleweight boxing champion.

"Sure it's true," said Peggy, as she is known to her classmates.

She related she had met Soose two years ago at Lake Wallenpaupack in Pennsylvania and that she had seen him in several of his fights.

She added that she planned to see Soose, a graduate of Penn State, "soon."

Miss Unger is under 5 feet 5 inches and takes part in basketball, field hockey and fencing.

Peggy's father, coowner of a knitting mill which is one of East Greenville's largest industries, has a summer residence at Lake Wallenpaupack. Soose was in training at the lake when the two met.

"Handsome Billy," 23 and a native of Farrell, Pa., voluntarily relinquished the world's middleweight title in October. He explained he had trouble keeping down to the required 160 pounds and intended to enter heavyweight circles.

N. C. Matmen Face Tough Foes From Navy and W. & L.

Special Dispatch to The Post

Chapel Hill, N. C., Dec. 2.—Navy's Eastern leaders and Washington and Lee's Southern champions head the stiff line-up of seven meets facing the University of North Carolina wrestlers for this season.

The schedule was announced today by George E. "Bo" Shepard, assistant athletic director, and Chuck Quinlan, mat coach.

The Tarheels won the Big Five title last year and finished next to Washington and Lee and V. M. I. in the conference tourney.

Prospects were for another good team until Cocapt. Sam Gregory, Bill Somervell and Burgess Urquhart joined the service, leaving the squad of doubtful sternth.

The complete card follows:

January 10, Navy at Annapolis, Md.; 16, Duke at Durham, N. C.; 24, North Carolina State at Chapel Hill; 31, V. M. I. at Chapel Hill.

February 7, Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va.; 14, Virginia Tech at Blacksburg, Va.; 21, Davidson at Davidson.

Catholic Quints Take First Workout

The Gonzaga section of the Parochial School Basketball League, to open December 14, will get together for practice for the first time this season at the Eye Street gym. Players of the following teams will be present: Blessed Sacrament, St. Michael, Sacred Heart, St. Anthony, St. James of Mt. Rainier, Holy Name, St. Joseph's and St. Aloysius.

Golden Glovers Will Weigh in Here Tonight

Novices of all sizes, weights and description are to report at the District of Columbia Boxing Commission's new offices, Third and Indiana Avenue Northwest, tonight between 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock for final weighing in prior to the opening of the annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament at Uline's Arena Friday night.

The tourney continues on December 12-19 and will be concluded on January 2-9.

Immediately after the weighing in and physical examinations of the contestants tonight, pairings will be made for Friday night's bouts. These novices, many of them making their first fights, invariably steal the show with their aggressiveness and wild swinging, and many of the outstanding senior Golden Glovers of the last two years have served their apprenticeship in the novice class.

Joe and Danny Petro, Red Vernon, Nick Latsios, Lewis Hanbury and Buddy Thomas are numbered among the leading senior warriors who first made the grade as novices, and who since have establisned themseves among the most popular Glovers in the history of the competition.

The weighing in of seniors is scheduled for the Boxing Commission a week from tonight, and entries for the Golden Gloves, both novice and senior, close at the commission's offices this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Indications are that as many as 225 entries, an unprecedented enrollment, will be recorded.

New Cage Rules Get Officials' Attention

The District of Columbia Approved Board of Basketball Officials will stage a rules interpretation meeting tonight at the Y. M. C. A., starting at 8 p. m. The program will consist of the presentation of new rules, discussion by officials and coaches, and several reels of basketball movies.

Reinhart Presides At Cage Clinic

Bill Reinhart, cage coach at George Washington, will be the main speaker tonight when the District of Columbia Recreation Department sponsors a basketball clinic at Langley Junior High gym at 8 p. m. Movies will be shown following a meeting of Recreation League teams.

KO Seen Likely In Belloise, Furr Tangle

Sailor Steve Belloise, one of Gene Tunney's staff of physical instructors in the United States Navy and currently stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., and Phil Furr, formerly of the United States Army, should prove an ideal club fighting combination when they square off over a scheduled ten-round distance at Uline's Arena a week from tonight, December 10, at 8:30 o'clock.

Such was the prediction long distanced his associate, Goldie Ahearn, by Matchmaker John Attell from New York yesterday.

Attell, who promoted several of Belloise's major bouts when the terrific punching youngster was fighting his way into the big money two years ago, predicts that this duel of right-hand punchers will terminate in a knockout and will prove even more spectacular than was Furr's rousing stand against former world's welterweight boxing champion, Fritzie Zivic here last week.

Belloise, who drew $80,000 in two Madison Square Garden bouts with Ken Overlin, has knocked out Vic Dellicurti, Irish Eddie Dunne, Andrea Jessurun, Jay McCadon and Irwin Kay Kaplan this year. He has twice sold out the Armory in Jacksonville and is in Nation-wide demand as a boxoffice attraction.

Belloise is best remembered for his first bout with Ken Overlin when he had Conga Ken on the floor and on the verge of a knockout in the sixth round. Although Overlin won more decisively in a return bout, Belloise made things interesting all the way, and has never failed to give the fans a rousing run for their money.

In the event Furr gets past Belloise, Atwell will attempt to rematch him with former world welterweight boxing champion, Fritzie Zivic, over a 15-round distance. The Uline matchmaker, in fact, was to open negotiations yesterday with Luke Carney, manager of Zivic, following Fritzie's ninth-round knockout of Harry Weekly on a Christmas benefit boxing show in Cleveland this past Monday night.

Gallaudet, C.U. Fives Meet Next Friday

Gallaudet College will entertain Catholic U.'s Cardinals on Eastern High School's basketball court, Friday, December 12, opening the Bisons' cage schedule.

Coach English Sullivan's veterans are many, although last year's hot shots, "War-Horse" Hansen and "Ducky" Duick, have graduated and left two rather difficult pairs of shoes to fill.

The Blue Herd, having just joined the Mason-Dixon Conference, has scheduled an all-time heavy of 19 games this year. As they have done in the past, the Bisons will trek to New York, playing four games enroute, with Susquehanna, Pa., John Marshall, N. J., Upsala, N. J., and the Prospect Park Y. M. C. A. in Brooklyn.

Veterans Hal Weingold, Carmen Ludivico, Li'l Louie Johnson, Paul Baldridge and Don Padden, despite their lack of height, intend to give the Cardinals a race for their points, come gametime. Then, the three 'lanks'—Clements, Roberts and Panara—newcomers to the varsity court games, will add their towering might to the fight.

Gametime at Eastern Friday night will follow the preliminary battle between the Kendall School and the West Virginia School for the Deaf.

Vols Reject Bid To Play Duquesne

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 2 (AP).—Head Coach John Barnhill announced today that the University of Tennessee had rejected an invitation to play unbeaten, untied Duquesne in a charity football game at New York City on Dec. 20.

"Because the game date fell in the midst of our examination period," Barnhill said, "we are forced to decline it."

OUT HUNTING . .

With Jack Bell

The general upland hunting season is now open in all counties of Virginia. Monday morning at sunrise Maryland's longest deer hunting season opened, and will close at 4:43 p. m. Saturday. During the open except Baltimore, Anne Arundel and Frederick. Every hunter killing hunting season deer will be legal game in every county of the State, a deer must, within 24 hours, notify in writing the State game warden, sending his license number, name and address, and the location of the kill. Anyone failing to do so is liable to a fine of $5.

JACK BELL

Until recent rains brought a little badly needed moisture to the soil and vegetation, poor hunting was reported from many sections of both Virginia and Maryland. In some places game was found in spite of the drought, but in general the hunting has improved since the showers. This fall is still far below the average in precipitation though, and we could use a lot more rain to improve hunting.

We hunted Saturday in Anne Arundel County, with Bob Burns of Annapolis, Md., who has two excellent dogs—a setter and an A-1 pointer. Bob really knows his hunting country and quail hunting, and the dogs found plenty of birds. It was difficult shooting, however, with briars wrapped around our ears, and marsh well over ankle depth.

Virginia reports, show that their game wardens are on the job this year. Game wardens contacted over 5,000 hunters, made 406 arrests, and got 390 convictions out of 405 cases tried in the courts. Officers who can obtain sufficient evidence to bring about the conviction of more than 96 per cent of the law violators whom they arrest can well be proud of their work.

Sentiment Is Good

It is gratifying to see the growing public sentiment for conservation and against law violations reflected in the action of trial justices. Not long ago it was considered "smart" to disregard game laws and hunt and fish when and where one pleased.

Here is an example of how Virginia's game wardens work. Warden F. W. Pingley, up in Frederick, used finger prints to track down his man recently, and got all the evidence he needed to cause the violator to plead guilty to hunting on Sunday.

The hunter heard Pingley coming through the woods that Sunday morning, and left the woods in such haste that he dropped his gun at the edge of a stream where the warden picked it up. Taking the gun to the police department at Winchester, Pingley found the police glad to help him out by making available their finger printing facilities. It happened that the prints on the gun matched a set already in the police department's files, which belonged to a colored man living not far from where the gun was picked up. Pingley summoned the man to court, where he entered a plea of guilty.

Here's another that turned out to be a surprise. P. Blake Lewis, who patrols Spotsylvania and other areas, got a "hot tip" that there was a lot of shooting going on down in the "wilderness" every Sunday morning. Thanking his informer, Lewis promised to look into the matter right away. The next Sunday, on the way to the "wilderness," he stopped to have a talk with a friend on the way. "You don't have to go all the way to the wilderness," the friend said. "I just heard somebody shooting right down the path."

Walking down the trail, Lewis met the hunter coming out with several squirrels. Who was it? The same man who had given the warden the "tip" about the Sunday hunting "down in the wilderness."

Holton Takes Prize

Saturday night at the Kenwood Club, Bethesda-Chevy Chase Waltonians, with their "fishing widows" had a most enjoyable party and dance. Bill Holton, ardent fly-fisherman, carried off the main prize of the evening for the most battered fishing hat. He said he felt that his regular trouting hat was a mite too prime at this time.

Bill Dickey Elected Little Rock Director

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 2 (AP).—Catch Bill Dickey, of the New York Yankees, today was elected a director of the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association.

Dickey, who was brought up on the Little Rock sandlots, was one of seven Little Rock business men added to the Traveler list of executives.

Roy L. Thompson was reelected president of the club.

Dempsey Plugs Heavyweight Franklin

St. Louis, Dec. 2 (AP).—Jack Dempsey said today he would "jump right over Billy Conn" and pick Lem Franklin, Negro heavyweight, as the best man in the fight field to meet Joe Louis.

"We all know what Conn can do," said the former champion, here to referee a wrestling bout. "We know he's a nice boxer and a fine fellow personally, but we know he can't punch with heavyweights. Judging from what all the good judges of fighters tell me, Franklin has what it takes."

Builders Slate Game With Kenosha

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 2 (AP).—The Newport News (Va.) Builders, runnersup in the Dixie Professional Football League, will meet the Wisconsin Cardinals, of Kenosha, in a game sponsored by the Memphis American Legion here December 14.

Post Commander Fred Lucas said the Virginians would be led by George (Bad News) Cafego, former Tennessee tailback star. Gaylon Smith, one-time Southwestern College grid great and now the property of the Cleveland Rams, will be in the Cardinal line-up, Lucas said.

All Is Not Sadness at Duquesne

The Dukes Will Shed No Tears Over the Way Bowls Ignored Them

By the Associated Press

Pittsburgh, Dec. 2.—Duquesne University's powerful unbeaten, untied and uninvited gridmen, cold-shouldered in the bowl selections, were a "bit disappointed" today, but they're not going to fold up with grief.

That's the word from Aldo (Buff) Donelli, the Dukes' youthful mentor and director of athletics, who warns that Duquesne "is going to be right up there again in 1942 and 1943."

And Donelli has a way of making good. In three seasons at Duquesne—a little red brick school overlooking downtown Pittsburgh—his teams have won 23, tied 1 and lost 1 game.

The Dukes this year bowled over eight foes but wound up as the forgotten men of football with only a feeler from the Sugar Bowl as consolation for their performance.

The boys more or less expected a bowl bid, but Donelli himself said he never counted on anything until he was certain.

"All in all, we had a very good season and I don't feel there were many more laurels to gain," he philosophized.

Donelli believes the Duke's comparatively low-winning scores figured in Duquesne's failure to get a bowl bid.

BUFF DONELLI

He takes full responsibility for the scores.

"I may be a little old-fashioned, but I don't believe in running up big scores and I think all the coaches will come around to that point of view sooner or later," he said.

"If you can beat a team by two or three touchdowns you can beat 'em by a lot bigger score. In every game we played we could have scored more points. There are men on the bench who won't feel any too good unless they can play and I like to give them all a chance.

"Our first team probably averaged no more than two quarters a game and the number of our substitutions is probably higher than any other team in the country.

"If high scores are what they want, I'll never give them."

The "people down South"—the Bowl team pickers—selected teams "they knew better," Donelli said he believed, adding:

"The Bowl selections this year will not match the best teams nor the teams with the best records. You can judge a team only on its record."

The Dukes probably were hurt, Donelli said, by a rumor that the Dukes would give up football unless a hunk of Bowl cash jingled in the Duquesne till.

"That," said Donelli, "is the bunk."

College Grid Coaches Acclaim Unlimited Substitution Rule

1st Season Proves Its Real Value

Denver Mentor Is Sole Dissenter In Poll of Nation Of Associated Press

By the Associated Press

New York, Dec. 2.—The country's college football coaches are in astonishingly strong accord on one point—the revised football rules that went into effect this past season worked out handsomely, and particularly so the ruling which permits them to make unlimited substitutions.

In reply to an Associated Press questionnaire, the response was the same in the East, the far West, the Midwest, South and Southwest. Fritz Crisler, of Michigan, president of the Coaches Association; Lou Little, of Columbia, chairman of the coaches' rules committee, and such other representative coaches as Wallace Wade of Duke, Babe Hollingberry of Washington State, Frank Leahy of Notre Dame, Dana Bible of Texas, and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota agreed the rules should stand except for minor matters of clarification and interpretation.

Lou Is Pleased

Like Willis O. Hunter, director of athletics at Southern California, Little was particularly pleased with the success of the substitution rule and the fact that many sections reported this bit of legislation had speeded up play instead of prolonging games.

"I think you'll find," said Lou, "that this was due to the 25-second clause, ordering a team to put the ball in play within 25 seconds after the referee has placed it on the line of scrimmage."

The fact that coaches could run in specialists when needed, could take out a player who seemed hurt and examine him on the sidelines instead of taking up time to do so on the field, and at all times could field the strongest possible combination were other factors which brought the rule into favor. The latter point was appreciated above all by small colleges, with Steve Harrick, of West Virginia Tech, as spokesman:

"We had the smallest squad and lightest line—165-pound average—in my coaching career. I had two guards who weighed 145 each. Yet by careful use of substitutes, we were able to have fresh, rested men on the field at all times."

One Loud Dissenter

A lone and loud dissenting voice came from Clyde (Cac) Hubbard, of Denver, who labeled it the "most terrible thing in the book."

The few suggestions advanced concerned clarifications rather than radical changes. Chief troublemaker was the rule providing that in the last two minutes of each half the offensive team (if it already has taken its three legal times out) shall be penalized if it takes another. The approved ruling calls for the penalty to be paced off while the clock is running, but many feel the present wording is ambiguous.

Frank Murray, of Virginia wants a sharper definition of when a back is in motion illegally; Bernie Moore, of Louisiana State, urges a more definite ruling on what should be considered intentional grounding of a forward pass; Jack Hagerty, of Georgetown, seeks the same on forward pass interference, and Ossie Solem, of Syracuse, believes that on kickoffs the receiving team should be barred from purposely knocking the ball out of bounds—a maneuver which now permits it to put the ball in play on the 35-yard line.

4 Texas U. Aces On Blue Gray Grid Roster

By the Associated Press

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 2.—Four University of Texas stars, Tennessee's Johnny Butler, and End H. C. Burris, of Hardin-Simmons, were named today to play with the South in the fourth Blue and Gray all-star game here December 27.

The Blue and Gray Association announced Jack Crain, spearhead of the Texas attack, had accepted along with Guards Harold (Buddy) Jungmichael and Donald (Bo) Cohenour and End Preston Flanagan.

These selections, coupled with earlier acceptances today from Abisha (Bish) Pritchard, Virginia Military back, and Roland Goss, Southern Methodist end, recompleted the 22-member Gray squad, considerably riddled when Alabama and T. C. U. were invited to bowls.

Frank Howard, of Clemson, was named to the Dixie coaching staff today to succeed Dutch Meyer, whose Texas Christians accepted an Orange Bowl invitation. He is a former Alabama star and will team with Red Dawson, of Tulane, and Matty Bell, of S. M. U.

Coaches Carl Snavely, of Cornell, and Lynn Waldorf and Bert Ingwersen, of Northwestern, added four Eastern standouts to their squads today, wiring that acceptances had been received from Frank Maznicki, Boston College back; Al Demad, Duesquesne center; Walter Moeling, Pennsylvania end, and Ran Jenkins, Cornell end.

The 22-member squads from either side of the Mason-Dixon line report here December 20 to begin practice sessions. Besides the football game, the year-end Blue and Gray program features a skeet tournament December 28-29, bird dog field trials December 29-30, a parade December 27, and a ball that night.

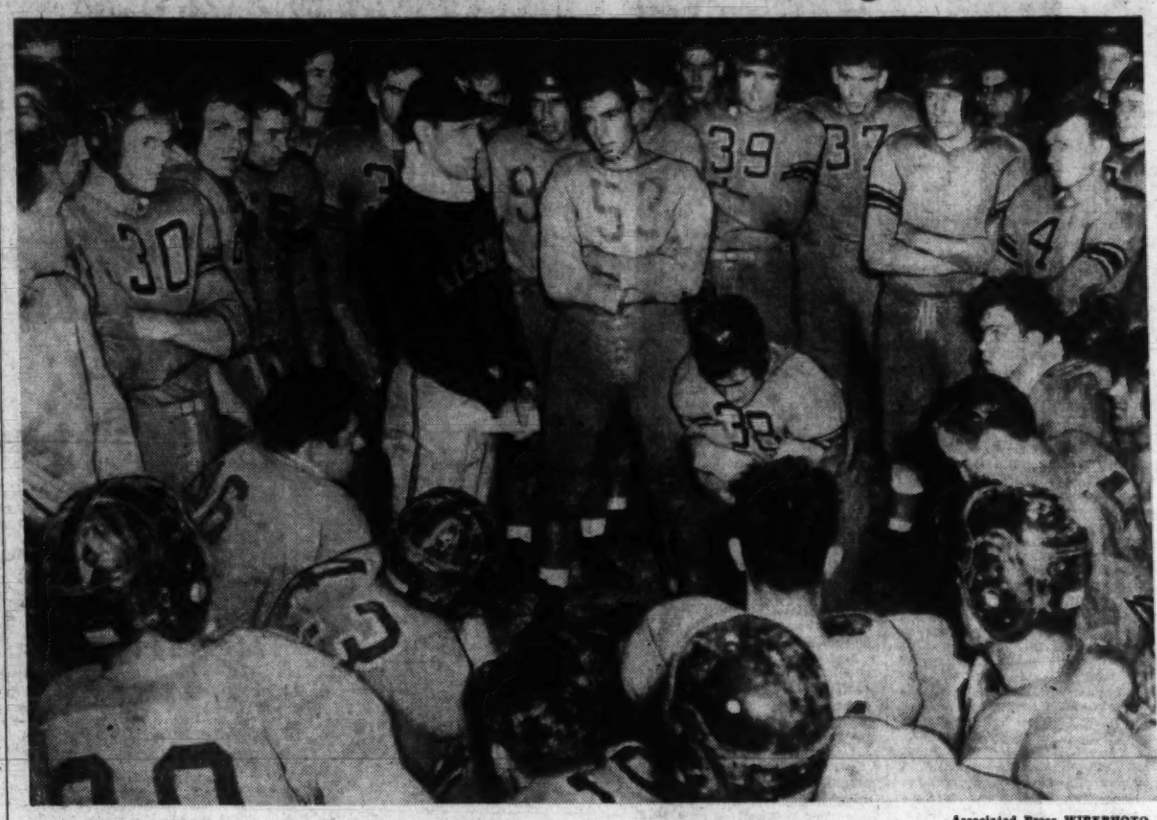
Missouri Starts Practice for Rams in Sugar Bowl



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

The Missouri University Tigers, Big Six Conference champions, went back to practice yesterday for their postseason game with Fordham in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans New Year's Day. Here Coach Don Faurot is telling his players "I want you to set an all-time new high for sportsmanship" in the game. Thrice-weekly drill is the order for the present

Sales Five Features Cab Pin League

Russ Hopkins and George Simmons set fire to Russ Diehl's maple-ways in the Diamond Cab League at Brookland Recreation last night, the former with 154-435, while the latter counted 152-396 for their Auto Sales quintet. The Auto Sales boys had no trouble taking the team highs with a 629 game and 1830 set, the first a season high and the latter an all-time league record, and winning all three games handily from the Woodridge boys.

BROOKLAND

When the Mount Vernon No. 1 boys of the Methodist Church League at Brookland last night wrote a 672 game and 1810 set in the record book it was discovered by the scorer that new all-time league records had been established. Johnny Eckstine aided in the records with a 380 set that also helped the team take a pair from Mount Vernon No. 2. Worth Arnold, Emery No. 1, led for individuals with his 169 single, which he followed with a 409 set.

TAKOMA

Sam Beall, of E. B. Adams, with 143 and Bob Chaney, of Cameo No. 1, topped the Electrical League at Takoma Recreation with the former's counts aiding his team to a pair over Chaney's Cameo No. 1 boys. The Western Electric quintet won the team highs after pinfalls of 598 and 1720 and also took three from Redmon & Brown No. 1 as Noland won three from Southern Wholesalers and Graybar scored a sweep over May Hardware.

MOUNT RAINIER

The East Washington Church League at Mount Rainier was topped by Sam DelVecchio, of Anacostia, whose 175 single and 420 set were season records and helped his boys to high team game of 647, also a season high. The Bradburn boys posted high team set of 1765, another high for this year. East Washington Heights won three in a row from the Vaughn boys.

COLUMBIA

Dorothy Holmes of Public Activities with a 132 game and 332 set led the WPA Ladies League at Columbia and made it possible for her girls to take two games from the Olympians, but the Finance quintet won the team highs with 475-1385 to also take a trio from Engineering. Lorraine Lindsay's 107 for the Chief Clerks helped win a pair from Personnel.

CONVENTION HALL

A 143 single by Luke Layton, of George W. Cochran, helped his team post high game and set of 576 and 1663, respectively, in the Convention Hall League at Hap Burtner's drives. Johnny Parcheski, Mars, rolled high individual set of 357 and Harry Wilson's 121-338 aided Carpenters Local 1590 No. 1 to a sweep over the Sports Center boys as the Rodrammers No. 1 whitewashed the Tru-Blu team with Lucian Lane's 117-329 showing the wy.

City Heads Seek Bowl Bid for Xavier Gridmen

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati, Dec. 2.—Civic forces today inaugurated a movement to send Xavier University's best football team in years to the El Paso, Tex., Sun Bowl.

The Chamber of Commerce put the matter squarely before the El Paso chamber; Mayor James Garfield Stewart added his bit in a telegram to officials of the Texas city, and Harry J. Gilligan, past president of Xavier alumni, contacted friends there in an effort to obtain a formal invitation for the team.

Coach Clem Crowe, jubilant at the team's record of nine victories and one defeat, declared:

"Sure we're interested, if the right kind of proposition comes along."

Duke's Lach Tops All-Conference Vote

Only One Writer Fails to Pick Triple Threat; Blalock Repeats

By Barton Pattie
Associated Press Staff Writer

Richmond, Va., Dec. 2.—Steve Lach, triple-threat on Duke University's Rose Bowl-bound football team, was named today the outstanding individual performer of the Southern Conference season by sports writers and coaches of the loop area.

In balloting for the Associated Press All-Conference squad, only one of the 81 expert observers in the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia failed to name the 190-pound Lach on the first honor team.

Ranked by the veteran Coach Wallace Wade as one of the best backs he has ever seen, Lach, working from wingback position this season, averaged 8 yards per carry in 51 stabs at the line from scrimmage; received 22 passes, three for touchdowns; punted an average of 45.3 yards; intercepted three passes, and scored nine touchdowns.

Leads Point-Making

Lach stands 6 feet 2 and for two years has been a leading point-scorer in the weights for Duke's Southern Conference track champions. His home is in Altoona, Pa.

The loop's leading lineman is Joe Blalock, Clemson's 6-foot-2 senior end. The selection is no novelty for Blalock who, since he crashed the Tiger varsity as a rookie, has made the All-Southern team annually by a wide margin.

Here is the 1941 honor team lineup:

Ends, Joe Blalock, Clemson, and Bob Gantt, Duke; tackles, Mike Karmazin, Duke, and George Fritts, Clemson; guards, Garrard Ramsey, William and Mary, and Carl Givler, Wake Forest; center, Bob Barnett, Duke, and backs, Stan Stasica, South Carolina; Steve Lach, Duke; Harvey Johnson, William and Mary, and Charlie Timmons, Clemson.

The repeaters are Lach, Blalock, Barnett and Timmons. Only six of the first teamers are Southerners and but three, Blalock, who lives in Charleston, S. C.; Gantt, a Durham, N. C., home towner at Duke, and Timmons, who hails from Abbeville, S. C., come from the conference territory.

Center Race Hot

The closest race for all-star position was waged for the center spot between Barnett and Louis Sossamon, South Carolinas 200-pound junior. So outstanding were these two pivot men that only a handful of votes went to the other snappers-back of the 16-member circuit.

Sossamon captains the reserve team with a vote margin of some 20 supporters over his nearest rival.

The number two team:

Paisecky, Duke, and Knox, William and Mary, ends; Bass, William and Mary, and Sieck, North Carolina, tackles; Padgett, Clemson, and McClure, Virginia Tech, guards; Sossamon, South Carolina, center, and Payne, Clemson; Pritchard, V. M. I., Muha, V. M. I., and Siegfried, Duke, backs.

Iglehart Is Lone 10-Goal Poloist

New York, Dec. 2 (U.P.).—Stewart B. Iglehart was the only man ranked at ten goals in the 1942 ratings issued by the United States Polo Association tonight.

Cecil Smith was dropped to nine, where he joined Mike Phipps, Ebby Gerry and Winston Guest. Phipps was upped from eight.

Listed at eight were Charles Van Stade, up from six; Pete Bostwick and George Oliver, up from seven, and Eric Pedley and Bobby Gerry. Alan Corey, jr., Bill Post, Elmer Boeseke and Henry Evinger were bracketed at seven goals each.

Yanks' Meyer, Neun Will Exchange Jobs

Newark, N. J., Dec. 2 (AP).—George M. Weiss, general manager of the New York Yankees baseball organization, announced today that Bill Meyer, manager of the Kansas City Blues, and Johnny Neun, manager of the Newark Bears, would change jobs for the 1942 season.

The announcement was made through the Newark club, member of the International League, after Weiss discussed the shift with the two managers at Jacksonville, Fla.

Bowl Game Will Cost Somebody a Big Dinner

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The secretaries of State of Oregon and North Carolina have bet a $25 dinner on the outcome of the Rose Bowl game between Duke and Oregon State.

Thad Eure, North Carolina's secretary, today accepted the proposal of Earl Snell, Oregon's secretary.

Missourians Dominate Big Six Poll

By the Associated Press

Kansas City, Dec. 2.—Missouri's Sugar Bowl Tigers today placed five men on the Big Six all-star football team, a tribute to their season-long domination in the conference from coaches, officials and newspapermen who annually select the Associated Press honor roll by ballot.

Nebraska, experiencing its most hectic season since 1899, was awarded three positions: Oklahoma, which split runnerup honors in the conference with the Huskers, won two berths, and Kansas one.

Roger Eason, Oklahoma tackle, who plays running guard on offense, was the only repeater. Fred Preston, Nebraska end; Center Darold Jenkins and Back Robert Steuber, both of Missouri, were elected from second to first team this year.

FIRST TEAM
Position, Player, College and Class
End—Fred Preston, Nebraska, senior.
End—Hubert Ulrich, Kansas, senior.
Tackle—Rogert Eason, Oklahoma, senior.
Tackle—Norville Wallach, Missouri, senior.

Tackles—Clarence Herndon, Nebraska, and Robert Brenton, Missouri.
Guards—Ralph Harris, Oklahoma, and Fred Meier, Nebraska.
Center—John Hancock, Kansas State.
Quarter—Maurice Wade, Missouri.
Half—Ralph Miller, Kansas, and Orville Mathews, Oklahoma.
Full—Donald Reece, Missouri.

Sugar Bowl Game Will Offer Battle of Passers and Power

Fordham Attack Built Around Fancy Aerial Artists, While Missouri Packs Ground Punch

By the Associated Press

New York, Dec. 2.—The man who bit the dog had nothing on the Sugar Bowl setup for New Year's Day, which finds the East moving in with a football outfit built around passing to tangle with a club boasting power galore.

At least that's the way it looked to "Sleepy" James Crowley today as he added up the preliminary reports he's received from pals on what his Fordham Flyers may expect from the high-geared running machine Don Faurot has put together at Missouri.

Ordinarily, the "shoe's pinching the other corn when the East meets clubs from that area. But this time, Sleepy James—he's really about as sleepy as an eight-day alarm clock—knows what he has in the pitching arms of Steve the Flipper Filipowpicz, Jim Blumenstock and George Cheverko.

"And, what's more," Jim went on, "fellows who've seen Missouri play tell me the Tigers can really operate on the ground. Mal Stevens, whose N. Y. U. outfit met us both, figures it out this way: Their running game is as good or better than ours; our passing has a clear edge and they're slightly stronger in the line. Mal says their two top backs, Red Wade and Harry Ice, take that ball and really prowl."

"Add that setup to the fact that we've both averaged over 20 points a game this season, and you come out with an answer that may give the little man operating the score board a busy New Year's afternoon. It looks like a lot of points."

"The winner's going to be the team that can hold off the other fellow while it scores itself," Jim explained. He hopes he can start the New Orleans trip December 20 or 21, so he can spend a few days at Bay St. Louis letting his boys used to what's cooking in Dixie. He figures on taking three full teams, "and a few more."

"We won't build any particular defense or offense," he pointed out, "until I get more complete reports on Missouri. Even then, we'll probably go into preparing on generalities. Oh, we may stick in a new wrinkle or two here and there, just for the fun of it."

Negro Football Title at Stake Saturday

By the Associated Press

Columbus, Ga., Dec. 2.—The winner can step up and make a loud and convincing claim to the Negro college football championship here late Saturday after the Peach Blossom test between two crack clubs.

Unbeaten and untied Morris Brown, of Atlanta, will be pitted against unbeaten but once tied North Carolina State, of Durham, and their argument is expected to draw a near capacity crowd of 20,000 to Memorial Stadium.

The Atlantans are champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and will be led into battle by John (Big Train) Moody, one of the great Negro backs of recent years. The Carolinians, who are kings of the colored Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, offer no such single star as Moody but will base their bid on a powerful, balanced club without apparent weaknesses.

Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association, N. C. State, Durham, N. C., six wins, one tie, no losses.

Midwestern Athletic Association Kentucky State, Frankfort, Ky., three wins, no losses, no ties.

Roman Boy Again Proves Liking for Charles Town, Wins 5th

Hiblaze II Is Second In Feature

Favorite Pays $4 In Clinching Sprint Title; Rider Thrown By Freeland's Lad

By Walter Haight
A Staff Correspondent

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 2.—P. H. Faulconer's Roman Boy came back to the track he loves today and added another jewel to his crown, emblematic of the sprinting championship of Jefferson County. Roman Boy, a son of Ha Ha, seems to smile every time he marches postward for a test over the local 4½-furlong course. Today he tied seven rivals in knots and dashed off with first money in the fifth race, the best offering of the program.

G. D. McLeary's Hiblaze was a fast-closing second and a length in front of the Cedar Hill Farm's Never Home. The race was for horses of all ages and Freeland's Lad, the only 2-year-old in the field, delayed the start for several minutes. He tossed Apprentice Jockey P. Gildwell while at the starting gate and ran away, stopping of his own accord.

Roman Boy, as is usually the case, was a heavily played favorite and returned $4 for each $2 investment. His time was :50 3-5, well over the record of :49 held by Irene's Bob but creditable over a track dulled by a slight drizzle that marked most of the afternoon.

Jockey G. Acosta, who lost his apprentice allowance only yesterday, rode Roman Boy and the 5-year-old gelding carried 120 pounds, giving weight in chunks to his opponents.

Roman Boy had to have his speed early in this race. He broke rather sluggishly but Acosta roused him and sent him through on the inside. He took command before the field reached the far turn. Freeland's Lad forced the pace at this stage but began to tire. Never Home came up on the inside to challange and then hung. In the meanwhile, Hiblaze had met some trouble on the inside and when free, began a drive that found him going fastest of all at the close.

A few lucky bettors collected a $212.60 daily double on the combination of "8 and 7." Jockey Buddy Root won the second race with O. S. Jennings Lady Jaffa and it was the first time the daughter of War Hero and Jaffa has ever entered the winner's circle. This was her twenty-seventh try in two years. In Port was second, Stadium was third.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAMP MEETING, $24.80, $9.00, $5.00; SOFT AND CLEAR, $4.20, $4.00; GLYNLAND, $5.00.

CAMP MEETING, well placed from the start, saved ground entering the stretch and finished under punishment. SOFT AND CLEAR stumbled and almost unseated the boy leaving the gate, was rushed to contention on the backstretch, took a brief lead on the outside entering the stretch, but could not menace the winner. GLYNLAND forced to the front early, set a good pace, but was tiring in the closing stages.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:00. Off at 2:01. Winner, O. S. Jennings' b. f. (3), by War Hero—Jaffa. Trained by C. Reilly. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:21⅘.

| QUEEN MEADOW | (Wright) | 107½ | 3 | 7 | 6¹½ | 6½ | 8 | 8 | 23.30 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADY JAFFA, $9.40, $4.40, $3.60; IN PORT, $10.00, $8.80; STADIUM, $4.40.

LADY JAFFA was outrun early, came to the outside when put to pressure and wore down IN PORT to win going away. IN PORT was rated when unable to get to the front early, drove into the lead on the backstretch and tired when challenged inside the sixteenth pole. STADIUM saved ground throughout and closed with good energy.

THIRD RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 2:30½. Off at 2:31. Winner, F. J. Marvin's b. g. (4), by Bull Dog—Fleeting Moments. Trained by F. J. Marvin. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:26⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WHIP-AWAY, $41.80, $18.80, $8.80; LONG LEGS, $16.40, $8.80; MARANDAN, $2.80.

WHIP-AWAY, rated to the backstretch, came between horses boldly to take command, withstood repeated challenges of LONG LEGS and drew out in the closing test. LONG LEGS was rushed to contention after breaking poorly, forced the pace and was tiring at the end. MARANDAN, first away, at the early pace and weakened gradually as if short. STRUMMING closed some ground from a sluggish beginning.

Daily Double, LADY JAFFA and WHIP-AWAY, Paid $212.60

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:59. Off at 2:59½. Winner, J. L. Friedman's ch. g. (5), by Justice P.—City Girl. Trained by O. M. Feltner. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:48⅘.

| PRINCESS LADY | (Acosta) | 115 | 5 | 8 | 8 | 8 | 7½ | 7° | 8 | 42.70 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CITY JUDGE, $20.00, $8.00, $4.80; TINY TRICK, $5.20, $3.60; LOVE MARK, $4.00.

CITY JUDGE set and forced the early pace while racing with WAKE, shook off the latter approaching the stretch and held on with good energy in the closing drive. TINY TRICK was allowed to settle into her stride, came wide to improve her position and was closing in on the winner at the end. LOVE MARK was off slowly, was shut off repeatedly on the inside, came wide entering the stretch and hung in the final test. WAKE set and forced the pace and tired in the stretch drive.

FIFTH RACE—About 4½ furlongs. Purse, $600; allowances. For all ages. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:31½. Winner, J. P. Faulconer's ch. g. | BROKERS BUD | (Scocca) | 112 | 8 | 7 | 8 | 6 | 8 | 8 | 39.60 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROMAN BOY, $4.00, $2.80, $2.20; HI-BLAZE, $3.40, $2.60; NEVER HOME, $3.20.

ROMAN BOY came on the inside to take a brief lead leaving the backstretch, drew out, but had to be kept to strong hand riding to stave off HI-BLAZE. The latter was shut off on the swing to the stretch, rallied when clear and was going fastest at the end. NEVER HOME was in the thick of forward contention from the start, moved up menacingly on the inside and faltered in the final sixteenth.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place easily. Went to post at 4:02½. Off at 4:03. Winner, J. Sands' br. g. (4), by Okapi—Moon Dove. Trained by J. Sands. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:48⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JUNGLE MOON, $4.40, $2.80, $2.20; CENTERVILLE, $4.40, $3.00; ALIMONY KID, $3.00.

JUNGLE MOON was well reserved behind the early pace, went around the leader when asked for speed and opened a lead gradually to be in hand through the final eighth. CENTERVILLE, showing good speed out of the gate, was steadied along for a half, opened a daylight lead, but had nothing left when challenged. ALIMONY KID lacked speed early, showed good speed in the last half while racing wide, but could not reach the others.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:31. Winner, Mrs. B. Ryan's b. f. (3), by Athelstan II—Never Rich. Trained by R. Smart. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:57.

——At The Post

Selections at Charles Town.

Dear Al:

Henry Erickson, former jockey and now track superintendent here, is under the weather. Leeds Riely is batting for him. Jockey Eddie Smith, Washington boy, swung into action yesterday. J. B. Belk has been elected president of the National Horsemen's Guild, succeeding Gordon H. Pearce, who has been named honorary president in recognition of his work in establishing the guild. Belk, popular Charlottesville (Va.) owner and trainer, also is president of the Maryland Horsemen's Protective Association. The two bodies seem headed for consolidation. W. Ellis Johnosn has been elected to the board of governors. The Skyline Purse, today's feature, is one of the best races ever to appear in local entries. Rough Time, Here Goes, Royal Business, Red Wrack and the others should provide a merry battle. Grant Pollock and Walter Haight will "air" this race through Russ Hodges' sports page program on WOL at 4 p. m. The track will have a new Bahr starting gate in a few days. E. C. Alnutt, proprietor of the Cedar Farm at Rockville, has a new sire standing at his farm. Alnutt has purchased Now Then, 6-year-old son of Dis Donc—Meet by Tracey. Almost every section of the country is represented among the owners and trainers on the grounds. Silver Beam, winner of four races here last summer, is on the grounds and under the wing of Mrs. James V. Stewart, who doing her own training. Don Eyster, popular director of the local jockey club, is deer hunting for a few days in Pennsylvania. The word is spelled "d-e-e-r." Jockey Martin Bletzacker is a candidate for the Esquire satorial championship. December has dulled the brilliance of Snooks Winter's wardrobe. The boys in the press box miss George P. Mahoney, the popular and hard-working member of the Maryland Racing Commission, who was a daily visitor during fall racing in his State. The number of writers here sets a record. I can remember when I had the press box to myself. The mutuel ticket sellers have been asking for Art Brown, but the cashiers say they never heard of him. See you on the rail.

BILL.

First race—QUIZ KID, a winner of five stright, would like a little more distance, but appears to have too much class for these. TOP TRANSIT was somewhat of a champ at Pascog. ARGO LASSIE has some fair races.

Second race—GARDEN GAL has trained well over this track and may be the wake-up horse of the race. Mud would move her way up. MORE SIR is speedy and is a factor. CLAY HILL races well over this strip.

Third race—This is the toughest race of the meeting thus far. Any one of six horses is liable to come out on top. For my part, I'll call it SCHLEY AL, McHENRY and ALDRIDGE and hope for the best.

Fourth race—LAUGH AND P

Mail Revenues Here Soar 13% In 11 Months

Washington postal revenues in the first 11 months this year totaled $8,500,755, a gain of more than 13 per cent over the $7,491,606 recorded in the same period last year. The 11-month total was a new all-time high.

November receipts of $823,053 also were a new record for that month and were $93,138 heavier than in the same month last year. Monthly comparisons follow:

Rails' Wage Boost Estimate

The Pennsylvania Railroad's wage bill would be boosted around 33 million dollars annually and that on New York Central would jump 28 million dollars under the compromise adjustment of rail workers' wage demands, Dow, Jones & Co. business news agency, reported yesterday.

At the same time it was disclosed that a call had been issued for a general meeting of railroad traffic executives today in Chicago to survey all sources of obtaining increased revenues to offset the new wage requirements.

Additional payroll costs involved by the wage awards for various important class 1 railroads were figured by Dow, Jones & Co. as follows: (On an annual basis.)

Southern Pacific, $13,800,000; Baltimore & Ohio, $13,400,000; Santa Fe $12,600,000; Union Pacific, $11,000,000; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific, $8,300,000; Illinois Central, $8,200,000; Southern Railway, $7,400,000; Louisville & Nashville, $7,200,000; Chicago & Northwestern, $7,100,000.

Chesapeake & Ohio, $6,900,000; Burlington, $6,800,000; Missouri Pacific, $6,500,000; New Haven, $6,300,000; Rock Island, $6,200,000; Erie, $6,100,000; Great Northern, $6,000,000; Norfolk & Western, $5,700,000; Northern Pacific, $5,300,000; Atlantic Coast Line, $4,100,000.

These computations, said the news agency, were based on estimated 1941 payrolls without taking into account savings in Federal normal and excess profits taxes and without giving consideration to additional payroll taxes.

Milk Sales Increase 4.8% in October

Special Dispatch to The Post

New York, Dec. 1.—Daily average sales of fluid milk during October increased 4.80 per cent over the same period a year ago, according to reports from leading distributors in 152 U. S. markets to the Milk Industry Foundation. This is the fifteenth successive month for which increased sales of fluid milk have been reported.

In October daily average sales totaled 7,276,635 quarts compared with 6,943,559 quarts in October, 1940.

Sugar Futures

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—A report that the United States had offered Cuba 2.65 cents a pound for a large part of her sugar crop encouraged futures buying today, world contracts closing unchanged to .005 of a cent a pound higher on sales of 4200 tons.

Interpretation of the report as indicating a possible hike in the domestic selling price of 3.50 cents a pound pushed domestic contracts .02 to .11 of a cent a pound higher on a turnover of 4100 tons.

The report said the United States wanted about two-thirds or 2,400,000 tons of sugar from Cuba, in addition to 850,000 tons of molasses. There was talk, too, of a lowered duty on imports of Cuban sugar.

Spot raw sugar quotations were continued at 3.50 cents a pound and refined at 5.25 cents.

Regular Plane Service to British Isles Sought

American Export Airlines, Inc., applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday for authority to inaugurate a route between New York and the Irish Free State or England.

The company asked the board to grant an application for permission to fly between New York and Southampton, England, via Foynes, Irish Free State.

In lieu of that, it asked a five-year certificate to operate between New York and Foynes.

The board once denied the New York-Southampton application because the Neutrality Act then prohibited operation by American companies in war zones. The board, however, left the way open for the company to ask reconsideration of its decision when legal prohibitions had been removed. Under the revised Neutrality Act it would be possible for American Export to fly to England.

American Export already has a certificate for a route from New York to Lisbon, Portugal, and has announced plans to begin company compensation for carrying mail.

In asking a five-year certificate to operate between New York and Foynes, in the event it is not granted authority to go to Southampton, the company asked permission to use the following points for intermediate stops "if and when required by weather conditions:" Bermuda, Horta, the Azores, Lisbon and Botwood, Newfoundland.

Treasury Spends $3 for Every $1 Revenue

The Treasury revealed yesterday on the eve of a new tax legislative program that it took in only about $1 for every $3 it spent in the first five months of the fiscal year ending with November.

The Treasury said it spent $8,995,756,509 and it took in $2,953,607,744, leaving a deficit of $6,042,148,765.

Officials held some hope that the ratio of collections to expense would improve later in the year, when new taxes voted this year have had time to become effective, but are concentrating at present on an additional tax program estimated at approximately five billion dollars.

The defense program accounted for 70 per cent o fthe expenditures, and totaled $6,367,631,056 in the five months.

The November defense total was $1,436,699,307. This was about ninety million dollars less than the October figure, but the decline was attributed by officials to the fact that November contained two holidays—Armistice Day and Thanksgiving—and also five Sundays.

The growing deficit was being met by almost continuous Treasury borrowing, both from small investors, through defense savings program, and also from banks, insurance companies and wealthy individuals through regular bond subscriptions. This process brought the Treasury debt over the fifty-five billion dollar mark at the end of November—nearly 11 billion dollars more than it was a year ago. This week the Treasury is planning to borrow an additional one billion five hundred million dollars from large investors in the largest single cash financing operation since the World War, unless international tension forces postponement.

Bankers Urged to Report Shady Foreign Deals

Bankers and the general public can aid the Government in its control of frozen foreign assets by reporting "shady financial transactions" to Federal Reserve Banks, or the Treasury.

Under an executive order which froze the assets of continental Europe nations, Japan and China in the United States, the Treasury has tied up approximately 7 billion dollars worth of assets belonging to 32 countries and their nationals, said Norman E. Towson, assistant director of foreign funds control for the Treasury. He spoke at meetings in the Cleveland area attended by bankers, examiners, brokers, importers and exporters.

"We have received a number of letters from public-spirited citizens," he said, "that have led to the uncovering of 'cloaks' that were using funds to the detriment of the United States. Bankers are being told to watch their depositors to see that the freezing orders are not circumvented by friends of the Axis powers."

The conferences were held to acquaint banking officials and others with the technicalities of the control.

Walter B. French, New York, deputy manager of the American Bankers Association, told the Cleveland meeting a committee of the association is conducting educational activities designed to acquaint bankers with the need for the control and to get them to "take the initiative in advising the Treasury Department of any suspicious transactions."

15-Million State Bond Issue Sold

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP).—A 15 million dollar block of New York's long term bonds, issued to finance grade crossing removals, was sold today to a syndicate headed by the National City Bank of New York City at a net interest cost to the State of 1.4458 per cent.

The issue brought total borrowings for crossing eliminations to $152,500,000. State Comptroller Joseph V. O'Leary termed the sale "the best" of 12 such issues since voters in 1928 authorized bonding up to 300 million dollars for elimination projects.

The State may still borrow $87,500,000 for crossing projects as a result of recent popular approval of a constitutional amendment making 60 million dollars of the original authorization available for highway construction.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP).—Wheat futures prices were bid up to the best levels in more than three weeks today, but advances extending to a cent a bushel at times were shaded in the final minutes of trading and the close was unchanged to ⅝ cent higher.

December contracts were more resistant to pressure than were the deferred deliveries. Soybeans opened strong, following yesterday's maximum gains. Opening advances of 1¾ cents were extended to boost prices for the December delivery to 1.87¾. A sharp setback in the final hour, however, was caused by profit taking and selling inspired by a forecast for more favorable harvesting weather.

Final prices for wheat were unchanged to ⅛ cents a bushel above Monday's closing levels. December, 1.16¼@1.16⅜; May, 1.21⅝@1.22; July, 1.23⅛@1.23½. Corn was ⅛ lower on the deferred contracts to ⅜ higher; December, 75¼; May, 81⅝@81⅝; oats, declined ¼; rye advanced ¼ to ⅜, and soybeans were ¾ to 1⅛ cents lower. Lard closed 2½ to 10 cents a hundredweight lower.

Defense Bond Questionnaire

Q. What is an ideal birthday present, especially for a boy or girl?

Defense savings stamps in an album which can be completed by regular saving of small amounts, to be exchanged for a defense savings bond when sufficient stamps have been accumulated.

Q. Why are defense savings bonds and stamps particularly appropriate as Christmas gifts?

A. Because they suggest that the giver, by purchasing them, and the recipient, by keeping them, are both contributing to the defense of our country's peace and prosperity which Christmas celebrates.

Note.—To buy defense bonds and stamps go to the nearest postoffice, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also stamps are now on sale at retail stores.

Lead Firms to Reserve 15 Per Cent of Output

By the Associated Press

Donald M. Nelson, OPM priorities director, ordered all lead refiners yesterday to set aside 15 per cent of their December production, subject to allocation by the Government.

The December pool is expected to total between 6,000 and 6,500 tons. Metal not allocated from the pool for defense uses next month will be added to the Government's lead stock pile.

Loan Officials Hear Praise Of Roosevelt

By the Associated Press

Coral Gables, Fla., Dec. 2.—President Roosevelt declared in a message today that there is no danger of so-called fifth column penetration into "the ranks of ordinary men and women who own their own homes."

In a communication to the United States Savings and Loan League meeting here, Mr. Roosevelt declared that "the broad home ownership plan which exists throughout the United States is one of the basic guarantees of its democratic existence."

"Each home," he added, "has given an American family a stake in its own country."

The President praised the league's work for defense housing.

Earlier, League President Paul Endicott of Pomona, Calif., had advised member institutions to look to their reserves and the liquidity of their resources because "the present is not a period of business as usual."

"Our country is at war," he declared.

"Projected expenditures for national defense are reaching astronomical figures, but there is no other way out," he told the 1500 delegates gathered here for the annual convention.

"We can only insist that there be a maximum return for the money spent.

"Beginnings of inflation, long talked of and feared are clearly apparent.

"The present is not a period of business as usual, and all indications are that we face a period very much farther removed from business as usual.

"All of these conditions may well suggest to all association managers an dboards of directors the wisdom of a review of reserve positions and policies. . . .

"Our country is at war, and there is a job to be done. The time for debate is over."

Safeway Stores Boosts Dividend

Reno, Nev., Dec. 2 (AP).—Safeway Stores will pay a dividend of $1.25 a share on common stock December 22, of record December 12. The payment compares with 75 cents paid in recent quarters.

The company also declared the regular quarterly dividend on preferred stock of $1.25 a share, payable January 1, of record December 12.

Board of Trade Seat Changes Hands at $175

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP).—A membership on the Chicago Board of Trade was sold for $175, it was announced today. The price was $25 less than that of the previous sale and the lowest in more than 50 years.

The peak price for a membership was $82,000, paid in 1929.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Increased mill and speculative buying lifted cotton futures prices late today, closing quotations showing gains of 30 to 85 cents a bale.

Extending the advance was selling from Houston and Memphis, believed to be hedging against late ginnings.

Futures buying also was encouraged by the sharp discount under spot prices. December, for instance, closing 2.03 a bale under the 10-market average quotation.

Poor Credit Rating of Rails Carries Threat, I. B. A. Told

By the Associated Press

Hollywood Beach, Fla., Dec. 2.—A "dangerous lack of confidence" in railroad credit was reported today to the Investment Bankers Association of America, with the assertion that this condition carried a threat against continued private ownership.

On the heels of an announcement that a general railway strike, set for December 7, had been averted, the IBA's railroad securities committee said the Nation's railroads, although earning more money than in any year since 1930, were operating without real credit.

The committee chairman, John S. Loomis, the Illinois Company of Chicago, asserted before the board of governors that "this continued lack of confidence in the railroads' outlook on the part of investors is dangerous."

"The railroads," he added, "cannot continue permanently under private ownership unless they can regain the confidence of private capital."

Getting down to business after three days of addresses on the general subject of preserving free enterprise, the board heard from Loomis a warning that the railroads must put their earnings into sorely needed rehabilitation and not too largely into wage increases.

Loomis asserted that one optimistic factor indicating Government ownership might be avoided was the railroads' success in meeting the heavy demands of the defense program.

Dr. Sumner H. Slichter, of Harvard University, took business and industry to task for asserted failures in meeting unemployment problems.

"If private enterprise is to survive," he said, "it must be enterprising."

Dr. Slichter said the Nation's largest wage increases resulted, not from union or Government pressure, but from the determination of business leaders to head off labor organizations.

This effort was unsuccessful, he said, adding "instead labor leaders saw these increases and said: 'Here's a lot of easy money; the more we organize the more of it we'll get.'"

The problem of providing continuous employment, he said, was strictly up to business.

New Industrial Era Predicted

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher, head of the naval contract distribution division, predicted today a new era of American industrial supremacy, based on improved production methods as a result of the defense program.

Speaking before a meeting of the National Industrial Council, sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, Admiral Fisher described the careful supervision over defense goods exercised by the Navy and Army. He suggested that manufacturers, now learning new methods of construction and new accuracies in their products, would be able, when the war is ended, to continue this "generally finer" method of operation.

He agreed with Maj. J. B. Medaris, of the office of the Undersecretary of War, another speaker, that the Army and Navy were keeping pace with appropriations by Congress in the letting of munitions contracts.

Small business enterprises are receiving priorities more rapidly and most of them are fairly well supplied with materials, Ralph C. Coxhead, chairman of the production subcommittee of the N. A. M. defense committee, said.

Coxhead, just returned from a seven-week trip of 10,000 miles into the industrial centers of the country, surveying small plants, warned, however, that as many as 25 per cent of the 180,000 small concerns in the Nation might eventually be forced out of existence unless quick steps were taken to help switch to defense work.

The subcommittee head will make a report to the 10,000 industrialists who are expected at the annual convention of the N. A. M. opening tomorrow. Trade association members have been in executive session since Sunday in preparation for the big meeting.

Unfilled orders September 30 were $27,145,800, of which $12,068,000 were domestic military, $14,920,000 foreign military and $157,800 commercial.

Rail Compact Brings Broad Stock Rally

By the Associated Press

New York, Dec. 2.—Recovery showered down on the stock market today after a long dry spell and the list enjoyed one of its widest advances of the year to date.

Settlement of the railway wage controversy touched off fast buying at the start. There was a subsequent let-down in prices and activity but urgent bidding for steels and other pivotal industrials in the final half hour brought closing gains of 1 to around 3 points. While rails held up many finished a trifle under the best.

Turnover Heavier

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .7 of a point at 39.4, duplicating an advance of July 7. It was the first plus sign recorded by this composite since November 21. Heavy offerings of issues for tax purposes continued but buying elsewhere was speedy in the concluding period and transfers totaled 1,182,240 shares, largest turnover since July 22.

Aside from the slightly more hopeful labor outlook, brokers said, speculative forces apparently joined the bullish ranks partly on the theory the list was due for at least a substantial temporary comeback because of the lengthy stalemate. Wall Street was not too enthusiastic over the carrier agreement owing to estimates the new wage boost cost the roads between 300 and 350 million dollars annually.

Persistena United States-Japanese tension was a retarding factor in the forenoon and spotty news from the African battle fronts tended to offset further reports of Nazi defeats in Russia. Bolstering sentiment, though, were more bright earnings statements and cheerful dividends.

Prominent shares in the day's rising column included Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, American Telephone, American Smelting, American Can, Westinghouse, du Pont, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak and South Puerto Rico Sugar.

Steels Also Firm

Steels overcame early apathy occasioned by talk of a new union drive in this industry and growing scrap shortage. Motors also shook off morning hesitancy due to projected price ceilings on passenger cars and stepped out in front with the metals.

Railway bonds were swift climbers. Commodities, on the other hand, were a bit diffident. At Chicago wheat was unchanged to up ⅜ of a cent a bushel, corn off ⅛ to up ⅜, soy beans down ¾ to 1½ and hogs 5 to 15 cents lower. Cotton pushed up 50 to 85 cents a bale.

The Curb revived with an upswing of as much as a point or so for Gulf Oil, Humble Oil, Aluminum of America, American Gas, Bell Aircraft and Sherwin Williams. Dealings here approximated 252,000 shares versus 184,000 yesterday.

Erie R. R. Stock Offered, Oversold

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Hemphill, Noyes & Co., and Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane today offered publicly at 6¾ on a when-issued basis 44,340 shares of Erie Railroad new common stock represented by their purchase of 221,700 Erie shares, including some lots of preferred stocks from Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co.

A spokesman said the stock, offered after the close of the stock market, already was oversubscribed.

U. S. Gold Imports Soar to 19 Million

Canadian and Mexican gold shipments boosted gold imports to the United States to $19,469,480 last week.

The Commerce Department, supplying this figure yesterday, said it was nearly four times the amount of gold which came into the country in the preceding week.

Emil Dusek And Steinborn Are Matched

Another Dusek was added to tomorrow night's wrestling show featuring Nanjo Singh, the "cobra clutch" king, and Ernie Dusek, the Nebraska Wildcat, at Turner's arena. He is Ernie's older brother, Emil, who has been matched against Milo Steinborn, the Memphis Strong Man, in a 30-minute brawl.

One of the best of the grapplers from the old school, Steinborn has openly pleaded with Promoter Joe Turner to give him a shot at the Singhs and the Duseks. His bear hug recently was pitted against Singh's "cobra" and the Hindu won.

The one-hour Singh-Dusek bout revives a feud that was started about five weeks ago. Their first meeting resulted in a draw.

In semiwindup roles will be Leo Numa, one-time fullback for the University of Washington, and the husky Irishman from the Coast, Pat Fraley.

Sailor Sammy Simms, of the U. S. Navy, will make his bow against Herpie Freeman and George (K. O.) Koverly will engage Fred Grobmier.

Bruins Beat Maples, Take League Lead

By the United Press

Boston, Dec. 2.—The Boston Bruins took undisputed possession of first place in the National Hockey League tonight with a 3 to 1 overtime victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs before 14,500 fans in Boston Garden.

Eddie Wiseman and Red Hamill fired goals within a minue of each other in the overtime period to pull the match out of the fire and give the home team a half-game lead over its Canadian rival.

Bingo Kampman put Toronto ahead with a goal in the first period and Dutch Hiller, recently acquired from Detroit, evened the count for Boston whe nhe scored on a double relay pass late in the third period.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Boston | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2—3 |
| Toronto | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0—1 |

First period—Toronto: Kampman (Davidson), 7:13.

Second period—No scoring.

Third period—Boston: Hiller (Bauer, Clapper), 11:01.

Overtime—Boston: Wiseman (Cowley, Hiller), 6:47; Hamill (Jackson, Bauer), 7:21.

Sailor Nettlow Beats Berger as Fans Jeer

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Al Nettlow, once of Detroit but now a member of the United States Navy, won an unpopular decision from Maxie Berger, of Montreal, in the eight-round main event at the Coliseum tonight. The verdict was greeted with boos from the 7500 spectators.

Nettlow weighed 146½, Berger 145¾.

Beavers' Rose Bowl Effort Ends Coach's Uphill Struggle

By the Associated Press

Corvallis, Oreg., Dec. 2.—He was hired as head coach at cut-rate prices during the depression in 1933. In 1936 the Wolves wanted his fast-thinning scalp. In 1938-40 his team finished third in Pacific Coast Conference standings. And on January 1, 1942, he'll lead his school's team into the Rose Bowl battle for the first time.

He's Alonzo L. (Lon) Stiner, the genial 38-year-old football coach of the Oregon State College Beavers, who won the 1941 conference championship in the wildest scramble since the tough eight-team round-robin schedule was instituted in 1936.

Back in 1925 the University of Nebraska had an All-American tackle named Ed Weir. The University of Washington, 1925 Rose Bowl team, was playing the Cornhuskers, and instructions were to steer the plays away from Weir toward the other tackle. The other tackle was the stocky Stiner. Washington willingly settled for a 6-6 tie and Stiner received All-American mention.

Lon was graduated in 1927 and the next year was assistant coach at Colorado. Then he came to Oregon State, was frosh track coach and assistant football coach under Paul Schissler.

The high-priced Schissler and Oregon State came to a parting of the ways after the 1932 season. The depression was being felt and the school, after casting about for a "name" coach, finally gave the job to Stiner, who was tickled to get it at a 50 per cent reduced price rumored at around $3500.

He made school history in his first year. Although his Beavers only had three games against conference opponents in these pre-round robin days, Stiner's "iron man" club beat Washington State, lost to Oregon and, with only 11 men playing the entire game, held Southern California to a scoreless tie which snapped a Trojan winning streak of 25 consecutive games. For good measure he took his team East where it beat Fordham.

The Beavers had a bad streak in 1936, winning four out of ten and some of the again-affluent alumni clamored for a new coach. But Lon, with consistently the smallest squads in the conference, and with a small coaching staff kept plugging.

Now, after nine years his teams have won 48, lost 29 and tied 11. He's the youngest coach in the conference, and he's now making at least twice the money he got back in 1933.

That's a sketch of the affable, boyish Stiner, who makes his Rose Bowl debut against Wallace Wade at Duke, who will be scenting roses for the fifth time as a coach.

Eagles Bow To Gulls, 3-2, As Fists Fly

Teammate Paul Courteau rushed after Dixon and was restrained by Atlantic City Goalie Johnny Giesel.

Referee Fred Stevenson ordered Dxion to the box with a match penalty box, but Burrage, still aching for revenge, followed him over there and, like a man gone berserk, screamed and cursed and dared Dixon to come out on the ice and fight. One of the Atlantic City players arose from the bench, which adjoins the penalty box, and aimed his stick at Burrage, but before he could swing, Coach Corbeau wrestled him to a sitting position.

Two Sea Gulls Hurt

Two Atlantic City players previously had left the match with injuries. Center Tom Burlington was removed on a stretcher with several torn tendons in his right leg after a body check by Washington's Rollie McLenahan. McLenahan also got credit (or discredit) for a leg injury to Johnny Kitts, who had to be half-carried off the rink, and drew a cross-checking penalty.

This was early in the second period and from then on the match became a roughhouse, with the players high-sticking and hitting one another every time the officials weren't looking.

The Sea Gulls, baffling Washington with their sliding zone defense in which several of them were always hounding the player with the puck, were never worse off than a tie. Burlington opened the scoring at 7:41 of the first period on an unassisted goal after he burst through Defenseman McLenahan and Keith Allen.

Durno Ties Count

Big Donald Durno, Eagles' defenseman, tied the score at 12:21 of the second period with a desperate golfing swing which drove the puck through Giesel from 30 feet away.

The Sea Gulls went ahead again, exactly 15 seconds later as Cunningham took a pass from Borden Wheeler.

At 2:17 of the third period the Sea Gulls increased their lead to 3-1 on White's marker on a quick break. Cunningham got an assist on the play.

Washington closed the gap to 2-3 when Freddy Weaver poked in a rebound off a shot by Paul Courteau, who in turn had received from Roland Bleau. The score came after 3:03 of the last period and from then on the Eagles were helpless before Giesel who turned in a great performance in the Atlantic City nets. When Dixon drew his match penalty, the Sea Gulls, under league rules, could not substitute for him, and finished the final five minutes with only five players. Still they were able to hang on and win.

Spares—(Washington) McLenahan, Lessard, Allen, Weaver, Courteau, Hallowell, Madore, Bleau; (Atlantic City) Cheetham, Bowman, Wheeler, Horeck, Zippel, Cunningham, Kinsella.

Second period scoring—2, Washington, Durno (unassisted), 12:21; 3, Atlantic City, Cunningham (Wheeler), 12:36. Penalties—Cunningham (hooking), Kirby, Bleau (roughing), McLenahan (cross checking), Cheetham (slashing), Stover (misconduct).

Third period scoring—4, Atlantic City, White (Cunningham), 2:17; 5, Washington, Weaver (Courteau, Bleau), 3:03. Penalties—Horeck (holding), Durno (tripping), Dixon (match), Weaver (charging).

Blue Birds Beat Rovers, Take Lead

By the Associated Press

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 2.—Johnstown climbed into first place in the Eastern Amateur Ice Hockey League tonight by knocking off the pace-setting New York Rovers, 3 to 2, in a fast game played before an overflow crowd of 2,300 fans.

With the count deadlocked at 2-all at the end of the second period, Kowalski took an assist from Anderson at 9:31 in the third stanza and blasted a goal past Goalie Cosby of the Rovers for the winning tally.

Livingstone and Kedynski scored for the visitors and McCartney and Dyck made the other counters for Johnstown.

A. A. Club Bought By McKinney, Bush

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP).—Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis banker, and Owen J. (Donnie) Bush acquired the Indianapolis Baseball Club in the American Association today from Norman A. Perry. The price was not disclosed.

Bush and Perry operated the Louisville Club of the same league with the Boston Red Sox for three years. Bush later retired from the game because of ill health, but recently indicated a desire to resume active interest in baseball.

Dellicurti Decisions Kaplan in Torrid Bout

Brooklyn, Dec. 2 (AP).—Vic Dellicurti, 152, New York, won a split decision over Irwin (Kay) Kaplan, 154½, Los Angeles, tonight after a furious eight-round bout in the Broadway Arena.

Dellicurti lost the second round because of a low blow but Kaplan's rousing finish couldn't wipe out the margin Dellicurti built in the other early rounds.

British Blamed For Blocking Jewish Army

Leaders of the Zionist Organization of America yesterday blamed British "bureaucrats" for frustration of their dream of a Jewish Military Force of 60,000, to fight Hitler under the Star of David in the Near East.

Judge Louis E. Levinthal, Philadelphia, the Zionist president, said Winston Churchill, "the greatest Englishman of his day," approved the plan in September, 1940. "But," said Judge Levinthal, "while Churchill is wholly absorbed in fighting the Nazis, some of his underlings are busy fighting Zionism." He said after a British officer was named to command the first division—the proposed force would have British officers—delays and hesitations held up progress until the whole plan was pigeonholed.

Meanwhile, Judge Levinthal declared, 10,000 Jews in Palestine have joined the British army and about 50,000 more of Palestine's 550,000 Jews would take up arms if the way were cleared. The British, he said, have had a rule that the Jewish volunteers must not outnumber the Arab volunteers, who are relatively few.

"We shall continue unflagging in our support of Britain's cause," Judge Levinthal concluded, but "we demand to be treated openly and publicly as friends and allies."

Emanuel Neumann, New York attorney, said there was plenty of equipment for the proposed Jewish army, and that the professed fear of Arab displeasure was merely a form of "appeasement." The Mufti, Arab leader, Neumann said, has sold out to the Axis anyway.

Also a speaker at the meeting, which was held at the Washington Hotel, was Simon Shetzer, Zionist executive director in this city.

O'Connor Rites Set Tomorrow

Funeral services for Patrick F. O'Connor, 66, Washington bondsman and well known sporting figure who died yesterday, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the Church of the Nativity, 6000 Georgia Avenue Northwest. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

O'CONNOR

Mr. O'Connor died at his home, 5605 Sixteenth Street Northwest, after a month's illness.

He came to this country from Ireland when he was 5 years old, and settled in Washington. He attended St. Peter's Parochial School and Gonzaga College High School.

After his school work he entered the prize ring, and during his career fought exhibition bouts with Jim Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons.

Since 1917 he had maintained bail-bond offices at 422 Fifth Street Northwest.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Elks, the Holy Name Society, and attended the Church of the Nativity.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Margaret E. O'Connor; a son, J. Louis O'Connor, and a sister, Mrs. Maria A. McNamara, all of Washington.

Before You Make A Sugar Bowl Bet, See Mal Stevens

By the Associated Press

New York, Dec. 2.—Coach Mal Stevens, of New York University, owns the doubtful distinction of being the Nation's one mentor who can say whether it hurts worse to get kicked by a Missouri mule or butted by a Fordham Ram.

His opinion in this clinical puzzler has become important since Missouri and Fordham were chosen to meet in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day. Stevens casts a painful vote for Fordham.

"There isn't a great deal to choose between their running attacks," he said today. "Fordham, though, has more runners who can knock your head off. Crowley has two fine backfields; Missouri one.

"I would say that Fordham's passing attack is the better. They have three or four men who really can peg that ball.

"Missouri might have a little stronger line."

P. S. Fordham licked N. Y. U., 30-9; Missouri did it, 26-0.

He's a Very Unstuffed Shirt...

Nearly everybody says Sir Thomas Beecham, who conducted the Philadelphia Orchestra here last night, is a "character."

Then everybody laughs.

But, to a reporter who interviewed him in his pajamas and pink bathrobe yesterday afternoon at the Raleigh Hotel, Sir Thomas seemed to be not so much a "character" as a man who is honest with himself.

He didn't care what anybody thought of him, the reporter surmised. And he didn't care, it seemed, because those who have the intelligence to see him as he is (and not as a "character") would like him anyhow.

So Sir Thomas, his white goatee failing to distract attention from the twinkle in his eye, told the press about the verse he composed for Beecham's Pills, which his grandfather invented, and many of which have become familiar on both sides of the Atlantic.

Asked if he liked the people in Philadelphia, Sir Thomas said he hadn't had any dealings with them.

The only social contacts he has in Philadelphia, said the conductor, are two "very old gentlemen" who came to his apartment once.

"One of them said he knew my great-grandfather," said Sir Thomas. "So I threw him out.

"Then the other one said he knew my father. I questioned him, found out he was lying, so I threw him out too."

The press laughed, but not because Sir Thomas is a "character." The press laughed because they saw him as a very unstuffed shirt.

Man Indicted For Murder Of Cellmate

A 27-year-old Washington man, charged with fatally injuring a fellow prisoner in a fight in a Twelfth Precinct cell last August, was indicted for first-degree murder by the District grand jury yesterday.

James O. McDaniels, Negro, of 1340 Corcoran Street Northwest, was charged with having beaten Charles Dixon, 64, Negro, of 1004 Sixth Street Northwest, while the two were sharing the same cell in the precinct station. Dixon is said to have died two weeks later of injuries.

McDaniels was being held for investigation in a housebreaking case at the time, while Dixon had been locked up for being drunk.

Also among the 43 indictments handed up was one charging Charles Mitchell, 44, Negro, with the theft of nine dressed turkeys, valued at $4.20 apiece, from the Blue Plains Home for the Aged and Infirm.

Mitchell was alleged to have taken them from the slaughterhouse at Blue Plains where he is an inmate. He was traced through his cane, which was left behind in the refrigeration rooms.

The charges against those indicted were:

Using the mails to promote fraud—Juan J. Tomadelli. 55, 12 counts.

First degree murder—James O. McDaniels, 27, Negro, for the death of Charles Dixon, 64, Negro, as a result of injuries received in an assault on August 10, 1941, at No. 12 Precinct.

Receiving stolen property—George C. Haskins, 38, Negro; Huso Stellabotta, 32; Homer E. Rodgers, 32, Negro.

Larceny from the United States—Ellis Glenn, 32, Negro.

Larceny after trust—Robert H. Miller, 37.

Three-card monte—Robert Roach, 33, Negro.

Robbery—Watson Griffith, 33, Negro; William L. Mahoney, 28; Edward B. Buckler, 18; George C. Reidy, 21; Carl W. Chase, 32, Negro, and Thompson L. Nelson, 28, Negro, both also indicted for assault with intent to commit robbery.

Assault with a dangerous weapon—Howard Simpson, 48, Negro; William Smith, 33, Negro; Melvin Carter, 34, Negro; Garfield Robbins, 44, Negro; Lloyd Hamilton, 42, Negro.

The grand jurors dismissed the following charges:

Homicide—Maurice B. Quander, 18, Negro, for the death of Wilbur Scott, 38, Negro, as a result of injuries received in an auto accident October 31, 1941, in the 1800 block of Fourth Street Northwest.

Sodomy—Kenneth L. Walker, 21, Negro.

Assault with a dangerous weapon—Claude Smith, 42, Negro.

Impersonation—William P. O'Donnell, jr., 33; William J. Kelly.

Boy Leads Police A Merry Chase Over Rooftops

A 17-year-old youth led a half dozen policemen and a score of civilians in a chase over rooftops last night before he was captured in an alley in the rear of 929 Twelfth Street Northwest. The youth was taken to First Precinct station and held for investigation.

Charles David Hall, of 928 K Street Northwest, manager of Lehman's filling station, Twelfth and K Streets Northwest, saw the youth enter through a small window. He put in a hurried call for police and within a few minutes scout cars from all directions arrived. A search of the building, and over the roof failed to turn up the boy. Later, he was found hiding in an alley. Hall identified him.

Jenkins, Angott Examined for Bout

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—The New York State Athletic Commission had its physician look over Lew Jenkins and Sammy Angott today and found both in excellent physical condition for their December 19 bout which will settle the lightweight championship dispute.

Dr. William Walker performed the examination, after which both fighters signed official commission contracts for the 15-round tussle.

LaGuardia Gives Warning On Needs of Small Business

By Frederick R. Barkley

Copyright by New York Times

Predicting the allies may win the war in the next year, Mayor LaGuardia of New York yesterday warned the Senate Naval Affairs Committee this country will come out of it the loser unless drastic steps are taken at once to preserve small business from extinction because of priority shortages of raw materials.

The Mayor was testifying on a bill by Senator O'Mahoney to set up a Federal agency which would be directed, on appeal from a small business, to see that it got sufficient raw materials to "prevent substantial hardship" to the business, employes and consumers.

He held, however, that this was the wrong approach to the problem, asserting that the agency would be faced by so many thousands of appeals that it could not function. He advocated instead that Congress should "at once work out a formula and lay down a law "under which the director of priorities would be "clothed legally with the power and duty" of preserving civilian enterprise.

He spoke as president of the United States Conference of Mayors and was supported in his appeals by Mayor Kelly of Chicago, vice president of the conference.

Mayor Kelly advocated a better distribution of defense contracts to small business, a subsidization of marginal concerns in the defense field by paying them a higher price than the mass producers will produce for, and the provision of plants found unsuitable for defense work with sufficient raw materials to keep them going.

Blackwell Smith, OPM's assistant priorities director, admitted that raw materials shortages may result eventually in some shut-downs, but urged that no legislation be passed until OPM is able to supply Congress with information which has been asked on the OPM priorities system and what consideration is being given the protection of small business.

The witness agreed with Senator Lucas that a larger and more efficient OPM division for "sending businessmen to the right OPM offices," would greatly help in furnishing relief in priority and allocations problems. He added, however, that one reason for difficulties in locating OPM officials responsible for specific tasks was the rapid growth of the organization, which has resulted in promotions and transfers of the abler officials.

Army and Navy spokesmen also opposed the bill in its present form, holding that defense must have the first consideration. Britain had learned it could not have "business as usual," they asserted, and this country must learn the same lesson.

Baltimore Hears Jackson Will Run For Governorship

By the Associated Press

Baltimore, Dec. 2.—Political quarters heard today that Mayor Howard W. Jackson would announce January 10 his candidacy for the Governorship, and at the same time one of Jackson's political opponents declared bluntly that what Baltimore needs is "a new mayor."

The News Post said that Jackson would declare his candidacy at the annual Jackson Day banquet of the Concord Club, a city Democratic organization, unless "wholly unforeseen political developments intervene."

The blast at Jackson came from Thomas J. D'Alesandro, Third District Congressman, following upon Jackson's statement yesterday that he would look favorably upon the candidacy of Baltimore Councilman William Bonnet as an opponent of D'Alesandro in the primary next year.

Funeral Set For Dr. Metcalf

Funeral services for Dr. John Milton Putnam Metcalf, 77, former president of Talladega (Ala.) College who died Monday, will be held at 1:30 p. m. today at Hines funeral home, with burial following in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Dr. Metcalf, who lived at 1725 Seventeenth Street Northwest, was a resident of the District since 1918. He was president of Talladega College between 1908 and 1916 when he resigned to take a pastorate at Osborne, Kans.

In 1918, he worked with the Y. M. C. A. at Camps Funston and Meade. Then he came to Washington to work with the educational training division of the Veterans' Adimnistration. He served 17 years as clerk of the First Congregational Church here and several terms as deacon.

Born in Elyria, Ohio, he was educated at Oberlin College and Theological Seminary, Union Theological Seminary and University of Berlin. He received his doctor of divinity degree at Oberlin in 1910 and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa from Oberlin College.

Ordained a Congregationalist minister in 1888, he taught English and the Bible at Oberlin and at Talladega before becoming president.

BIDS & PROPOSALS 6

WASHINGTON SUBURBAN SANITARY DISTRICT, MARYLAND.
BOND SALE
GUARANTEED BY MONTGOMERY AND PRINCE GEORGES COUNTIES.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received until 3 o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time, on Tuesday, DECEMBER 16, 1942, by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission at its office, 4017 Hamilton Street, Hyattsville, Maryland, for the following bonds of the Washington Suburban Sanitary District, dated January 1, 1942, maturing on January 1 in the years hereinafter stated, without option of prior payment:

$1,000,000 Series "WW" Bonds, maturing annually, $15,000 1943 to 1947, $20,000 1948 to 1952, $25,000 1953 to 1967, $30,000 1968 to 1982, all inclusive, to be issued under the authority of Chapter 122 of the 1916 Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, as amended, for water main and sewer construction.

$1,000,000 Series "XX" Bonds, maturing annually, $15,000 1943 to 1947, $20,000 1948 to 1952, $25,000 1953 to 1967, $30,000 1968 to 1982, all inclusive, to be issued under the authority of Chapter 280 of the 1941 Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, for the construction of an impounding reservoir and filter plant.

Denominations $1,000; principal and semi-annual interest (J and J 1) payable in Baltimore or New York City at holder's option; general obligations; unlimited tax; coupon bonds registerable as to principal alone; exempt from taxation by the State of Maryland and by the counties and municipalities in said State; unconditionally guaranteed as to both principal and interest by Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties by endorsement on each bond; form of bonds substantially the same as bonds of the last preceding series. There will be no auction. Bonds will be delivered on or about January 16, 1942, at place of purchaser's choice.

The Series "WW" bonds will be awarded at the highest price, not less than par and accrued interest, offered for the lowest interest rate bid upon in a multiple of 1/10 or ⅛ of 1%, and no bid may name more than one rate for the bonds of this issue.

The Series "XX" bonds will be awarded at the highest price, not less than par and accrued interest, offered for the lowest interest rate bid upon in a multiple of 1/10 or ⅛ of 1%. Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates, and each bid may name one rate for part of the bonds of this issue and another rate for the balance of the bonds of this issue, but no bidder may name more than two rates for this issue.

A separate bid for each issue is required, but any proposal for both issues may provide that such proposal is for all bonds of both issues and not for one issue without the other.

Application has been made to the Public Service Commission of Maryland for its approval of the Series "WW" bonds. The Commission's approval of the Series "XX" bonds is not required.

Each proposal must be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Proposal for Bonds," and be accompanied by a certified check upon an incorporated bank or trust company, payable unconditionally to the order of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, for 1% of the amount of bonds bid for. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. The approving opinions of Masslich and Mitchell, New York City, will be furnished the purchasers.

Circular on request and proposals must be submitted on information contained therein.

WASHINGTON SUBURBAN SANITARY COMMISSION.
By PERRY BOSWELL, Chairman.
J. DONALD CLAGETT, Commissioner.
FRANK B. SMITH, Commissioner.

IT TOOK COMPOSER JEROME KERN MANY YEARS TO BUILD UP HIS $2,000,000 COLLECTION OF RARE OLD BOOKS — BUT HE NEVER READS 'EM!

Contract Bridge

This problem is to make four spades on today's hand, reported first by Frank K. Perkins, of Boston. West opens the heart king, from here on it is up to you.

Today's Hand

Both Sides Vulnerable
SOUTH DEALER

NORTH: ♠ K 9 3 ♡ 6 2 ◇ A K 8 5 4 ♣ 9 4 2
WEST: ♠ J 2 ♡ K Q J 3 ◇ J 7 5 3 ♣ K 8 7
EAST: ♠ Q 7 4 ♡ 10 9 8 5 ◇ Q 10 2 ♣ Q J 10
SOUTH: ♠ A 10 8 6 5 ♡ A 7 4 ◇ 9 ♣ A 6 5 3

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ◇ | Pass |
| 2 ♠ | Pass | 3 ♠ | Pass |
| 4 ♠ | Pass | Pass | Pass |

Opening lead: K ♡.

The Solution

Declarer's only chance is to set up the diamonds in dummy. Declarer passes the first heart, which is good technique though not absolutely necessary. This is simply to avoid a troublesome club shift by the adversaries, which is unlikely at the moment but might be made later.

West continues hearts and declarer wins with the ace. The ace of diamonds is taken and a low diamond trumped. The ace and king of spades are played with the lead in dummy and one opposing trump uncaptured. The king of diamonds is cashed and declarer is trumped, establishing dummy's last card of the suit. The North hand is entered by ruffing a heart and the diamond led for declarer to discard another club.

It makes no difference whether East trumps or not because his trump is high and all his side can take now is the trump, one club and the heart already won on the first trick.

Mark Hawley, veteran C. B. S. news broadcaster and announcer, has taken the air with a new Monday-through-Friday news program which you hear over WJSV between 4:45 and 5 p. m. Appropriately enough, in case you haven't already heard this before, it's titled "Mark Hawley and the News."

To let you know something about Hawley, he broke into radio as an announcer for a Buffalo station. He had to write his own material, prepare programs, select talent and do just about everything except the engineering on his shows. But he learned about radio that way, and so way back in 1929, when CBS was just getting started, he was auditioned and promptly hired as an announcer by WABC, Columbia's key station in New York. Even if you don't listen to the radio much, however, you can't very well have escaped hearing Hawley's voice. For now, all of 31, Hawley has done the commentary for both Paramount and Pathe newsreels for the past seven years. He was one of the first announcers in that business, too. He returned to broadcasting a few years ago, to become one of the pioneer announcers of early morning news programs.

Broadcasting and newsreeling sort of runs in the Hawley family, you might say. Mark Hawley's wife, Adelaide, conducts "The Woman's Page of the Air," which is heard every day over WABC in New York, and she's also the gal who describes those fashion things which you see in the newsreels.
